Summer's Gonna "Make Waves!"

THE YOUNG & THE RESTLESS'

Phyllis had been praying that her daughter would abandon her jet-setting lifestyle and return to Genoa City. Yet now that Summer is back — and revealing herself to be a chip off the old block — will Phyllis realize that she should've been careful what she wished for?

The In Depth Story: Summer's return hasn't exactly been the mother/daughter reunion that Phyllis had been hoping for. In fact, Summer's lackadaisical attitude toward work and a lack of career ambition has Phyllis seeing red! Not surprisingly, Summer isn't exactly thrilled, either, to have her mom lecture her when she wanders downstairs for breakfast... er, brunch, since she's slept half the morning away.

"Summer feels a little bit attacked," concedes her portrayer, Hunter King.

To Phyllis' chagrin, "Summer has been through things that have hardened her," says her portrayer, "and made her a bit sassier."

"She's been on her own for almost two years, and she has developed a sense of independence. She hasn't just come back to town, she's come back to her house — and her mother is living there. I think there will be a little bit of butting heads, because you want to do things a certain way, but you have your mom looking over your shoulder, telling you how to do things!

"You really don't want to be told what to do now when you are older and wiser," continues the Emmy winner. "It's just annoying for Summer to have her mother watching her every little move!"

King says some of the friction is also caused by the realization that Summer is a lot more like her mother than her father! “Summer is becoming her mother’s daughter — and Phyllis doesn’t like that!” she chuckles. “And the more that she becomes like Phyllis, the more they butt heads!”

Interestingly, in their latest back-and-forth, Phyllis is the first to back down. Of course, Phyllis being Phyllis, she can’t resist tossing in a dig with her retreat, asking Summer whatever happened to her previously loving, compassionate daughter.

“Deep down, that hurts Summer,” King admits, “but I don’t think she will ever let her mom see that pain.”

Even though Phyllis eases up, King warns viewers that “it’s not a permanent back-down. She’s trying to pick and choose her battles with Summer, because she does realize that this is not the daughter she had before. This is an older daughter who thinks she knows everything!”

In fact, King says her alter ego finally feels comfortable in her own skin, which will make her a formidable force in town. “She’s very confident, which is a fun thing to play because I’m not that way at all!” admits the actress.

Summer’s now the apple of her own eye as much as Nick’s. “She thinks she’s the greatest thing since sliced bread,” says King.

“It was fun to challenge myself, to play someone who is overly confident!”

Indeed, Phyllis won’t be the only one who will find themselves surprised by the new, self-assured Summer. “She will definitely make waves,” teases King. “Summer has changed, and so therefore the relationships that she’s been involved in are going to change. Summer and Kyle definitely have some things coming up, but they might not be something that you’d expect. But it’s something to watch for!”

Marriage In Crisis!

This week on THE BOLD & THE BEAUTIFUL, the simmering tension between Ridge and Brooke over their respective daughters' romantic fates reaches the boiling point!

The In Depth Story: Certain that the birth of his granddaughter has tipped the scales in Steffy's favor once and for all with regard to Liam, Ridge wants to make sure that Brooke is advising Hope to move on with her life. His wife, however, takes umbrage at this notion, wondering how he can dare declare "game over" for Hope.

This week, Brooke reveals to her hubby that not only has she not urged her daughter to abandon all hope, but that I think Ridge and Brooke have both been struggling with," suggests Thorsten Kaye (Ridge). "Of course, they want to be loyal to each other, but she's actually been encouraging her to do the opposite — have faith that she will end up as Mrs. Liam Spencer!

Needless to say, Ridge won't react well to the news, but how will the couple ultimately come to terms with their opposing viewpoints? "Loyalty is something there's also a strong loyalty to their families, and that's something that really makes sense to me."

With his wife actively conspiring to make sure that Hope exhausts every possibility of winning Liam back, Ridge now must decide whether he's going to draw a hard line with Brooke or hold his tongue for the sake of their marriage. (And really, when has Ridge ever been able to keep his outrage to himself?) As they each fight for their daughters' relationship with Liam, they may soon find themselves fighting to salvage their own!

Brooke may be risking her own happily ever after to ensure that Hope (inset) gets hers.

B&B Justin's Secret Is Revealed!

As Bill's right-hand man, B&B's Justin is accustomed to keeping family secrets, but now the legal eagle has one of his own to keep under wraps!

The In Depth Story:

This week, Justin introduces niece Emma to Spencer minion Emmy (Sheryl Underwood), only to caution her to keep his connection to the girl on the DL. If anyone from the Forrester family figures out that Emma is his niece, Justin notes, it would jeopardize her position at their fashion house. After all, given what a persona non grata Bill is among the Forresters, they wouldn't be keen on employing the niece of the tycoon's BFF.

Emma is equally focused on distancing herself from her uncle, at least on the work front. "As the new intern, she wants to get everything right," says her portrayer, Nia Sioux. "She's always trying to make sure everything is perfect."

Emma, too, understands that if her relation to Justin is found out, it will cause problems... and needless to say, it does! Will she rely on her "fixer" uncle for help, or will her own resourcefulness come into play?

ATWT Supercouple Reunites On Screen!

Terri Conn (Katie, AS THE WORLD TURNS) appears in two films that are premiering at New York's SOHO International Film Festival the weekend of June 16. In the short The Tenth Year, Conn and husband Austin Peck (Brad) star as a couple struggling to get their life back on track following the death of their son a decade earlier. "An upcoming parole hearing will change everything," Conn previews. "It's a beautiful story about how [not forgiving] steals our joy and peace." Then in the faith-based Wholly Broken, Conn plays a 9/11 widow who attends a support group run by a recovering-alcoholic pastor with an estranged wife (ALL MY CHILDREN's Kendall, Alicia Minshew). "It turns into a triangle," Minshew says. For tickets and screening info, visit sohofilmfest.com.

GH Michael Gets “Calculating”!

With GENERAL HOSPITAL's Carly locked up, Michael seems to be getting closer to Nelle by the day — but he's wised up! So the pregnant schemer may not get away with her nefarious plot after all!

The In Depth Story: While Carly is furious that she let herself get played by Nelle, portrayer Laura Wright has loved this story's parallels to the past. “Carly and Bobbie both lost children falling down the stairs — which is a classic soap opera move,” the Emmy winner notes with a grin.

The actress further gives props to GH for not following the exact same path as those past plots. “They shook it up,” she raves. “In this case, Nelle did not lose the baby, and Carly did not push her. She even jumped to try and grab her!”

While Carly cools her

heels behind bars, Nelle has been counting on Michael's heroic streak to keep him by her side. And she's confident that her fortuitous fall was exactly the shove that he needed for her to seal the deal. “Nelle has justification for everything she does,” explains portrayer Chloe Lanier. “In her mind, the only way to get to Michael was to get Carly out of the way — no matter how painful it might be for the Corinthos family. They've inflicted enough pain on her. She doesn't care anymore!”

It certainly has appeared that Nelle's plan has worked. As Chad Duell puts it, “Michael had to support her — for the baby. Gotta let it grow up in a good home!”

But the wool at last has been pulled away from Michael's trusting eyes. Now, “a new mentality — a shift — has come. We're going to see a more calculating Michael, which is nice,” says the actor, adding, “I love when he has something else going on besides being the supportive hero all the time.”

With Brady caught between a rock and a hard place, Theresa turns up the heat to remind him of what they once shared.

DAYS Playing Dirty!

DAYS OF OUR LIVES' Theresa is willing to use every weapon in her arsenal to win back Brady and reunite her family. Unfortunately for her rival, Eve, some of those weapons are pretty powerful! Will Brady become putty in Theresa's hands?

The In Depth Story: If there's anything that Theresa's learned about the Kiriakis clan, it's that whoever wields the power usually wins. Fortunately, she's got on her side the most powerful person in the family, patriarch Victor. Can she convince him to influence Brady's decision? Girlfriend's got her fingers crossed! But just in case that fails, her backup plan's in place: She's moved in with ex-lover JJ and demanded to take Tate with her!

Backing Brady into a corner doesn't often work — he's likely to come out fighting. However, there's one way to do it and make him want to stay pinned: Turn up the heat! Yep, even when they've fought in the past, the chemistry between Brady and Theresa was explosive.

So, look for the vixen to bank on her ability to reignite that flame this week. Of course, big sis Eve is no slouch in that department herself, and she's not about to lose her lover again. What will Brady do when push comes to love?

B&B Leading Ladies Sticking Around!

STATUS Not only did THE BOLD & THE BEAUTIFUL's Rena Sofer (Quinn) ink a new contract with the soap late last month, but — in spite of her leading man going to recurring status — Karla Mosley (Maya) remains on contract.

The In Depth Story: Sofer confirmed to Soaps In Depth that she was re-upping her contract, which hadn't been a foregone conclusion lately, since she hasn't been appearing heavily on the show this spring. That said, the actress made it clear that she's ready and willing to sink her teeth into some more juicy storyline, whatever that may be. "I'm re-signing, and we'll see what is in store for Quinn," says the soap vet, an alumna of LOVING (as Rocky) and GENERAL HOSPITAL (as Lois). "Hopefully, something good will come of it!"

Meanwhile Karla Mosley confirmed that she remains on contract with the show despite the fact that Jacob Young — who plays Maya's hubby, Rick — has been moved to recurring. "I love my character, and I've been so grateful to have the role, so as long as B&B will have me, I'm here," says the actress, once GUIDING LIGHT's Christina. "Contracts ebb and flow sometimes, so you kind of never know. It's all part of being on a soap. But I'm still here!"

Sofer has said she's hoping new challenges await Quinn and Eric.

In fact, the actress will be airing more heavily this summer, thanks to the addition of a new Avant family member, Xander, played by Adain Bradley. “He’s such a sweet person,” says Mosley of her new castmate. “Maya has a very big-sister relationship with Xander, which is kind of fun. She supports him, and yet she’s also a little bit hard on him.

“But I think he will quickly become a fan favorite,” she adds. “At least, that’s my guess!” Hey, speaking of Xander...

Young’s status change hasn’t impacted Mosley.

What’s Xander Hiding?

IN Despite hailing from half a world away, Avant cousin Alexander rocks a boy-next-door vibe when the new Forrester Creations intern makes his B&B debut on Tuesday, June 12. But his portrayer, Adain Bradley, reveals that a darker side may be lurking just under the surface of the handsome Brit. “He seems really genuinely sweet,” says the newcomer. However, the aspiring graphic designer has “something in his past that he wants to leave behind that hasn’t been revealed yet.”

In fact, Xander is so eager to put that “something” in the rearview mirror that it leads him to pose as someone he isn’t in the halls at Forrester. “When he’s at the office, he [pretends to be] fully American,” previews Bradley, “because he wants to leave his English side behind.”

At least, the newcomer will have a pretty serious distraction from his past in his new co-worker, Emma, to whom he takes an almost immediate shine. “It’s overwhelming,” being part of the show’s young summer storyline, Bradley admits. But “I’m learning the tricks of the trade, and everybody’s been really, really supportive, which has helped a lot.”

Sally's "Down And Out!"

STEVEN BERGMAN

Sans Thomas, Sally is "not in a good state," Hope hints.

IN When B&B's Sally returns on Friday, June 15, she won't exactly be a ray of sunshine — and it won't be long before viewers find out why Thomas remains on the East Coast. Nonetheless, she's determined to give another go to her career in L.A. "When she first hits the ground in L.A., she's almost numb," says portrayal Courtney Hope. "She's down and out, and wants to hit the reset button, but I don't think she really has the strength to" at first.

As she struggles to regain her can-do attitude, Sally will find herself bolstered by a new friend who may help her find her way. "She needs someone who can make her see a different way of life," says Hope. "It's going to end up being very interesting!"

Y&R Legally Blonde!

IN THE YOUNG & THE RESTLESS' Lauren Woodland will be stepping back into Brittany's stilettos on Tuesday, June 12. "I'm coming back for a very special court case that is happening in Genoa City," reveals Woodland, who is a lawyer in real life as well as on screen.

In the storyline, Nick hires Brittany to represent him in the custody case against Victor for little Christian. "I'm super excited to be involved in this! [And] I hope the fans will be super excited about it!"

Brittany will no doubt be going toe to toe with Victor's counsel, legal eagle Michael. "This will be especially fun for fans," she insists with a smile. "I'm launching a Web site and opening my Instagram to the public — I'd love to hear [fans'] feedback.

"I've been practicing law for almost seven years," she continues. "I think it's funny and fun that I get to play a lawyer, and I want to know, when I do perform, what people think about that!"

In other Y&R casting news, Kelly Kruger brings Mac back again on Friday, June 22.

Y&R “Fun Journey” For Summer!

IN After two years, Hunter King returned to Y&R last week as Summer. But anyone who expected to see the same fragile, sweet gal who left town after her disastrous relationship with Luca was in for a shock! “Summer is very different,” says portrayer Hunter King. “I didn’t have to come back as the exact same Summer, which I would have loved. But she has reinvented herself in a way. She’s different now that she has more experience in life, and she has been through a lot [while she was away].”

“What that is, we don’t know,” she adds. “But you slowly start to learn those things, and it’s a really fun journey to go on with her!”

King’s return comes at a time — shortly after Y&R recast Kyle with Michael Mealor — when rumors had begun to swirl that the sudser wanted to bring her character back. “It was a mutual decision,” says the Emmy winner. “I let them know I was going on hiatus from [the sitcom] LIFE IN PIECES and waiting to see if they were getting renewed. Y&R was wanting Summer to come back, so the timing was perfect!”

LIFE IN PIECES has since been renewed but won’t appear on the CBS schedule until mid-season, freeing up King for her Y&R storyline. While the beauty says she was eager to slip back into Summer’s skin, she admits that she had some trepidation. “I thought it would be difficult with the memorization of lines. But it was like riding a bike,” she smiles. “The cast made it so easy for me to get into the swing of things. Gina [Tognoni, Phyllis] is so great!

“I’m just super excited to be back,” she continues. “I love playing Summer, no matter if she is sweet or mean or evil or the nicest girl in Genoa City. I will always love playing Summer!”

Summer 2.0 may be even more mischievous than Mariah.

Breakthrough technology converts phone calls to captions.

New amplified phone lets you hear AND see the conversation.

The Hamilton® CapTel® Captioned Telephone converts phone conversations to easy-to-read captions for individuals with hearing loss.

A simple idea... made possible with sophisticated technology. If you have trouble understanding a call, captioned telephone can change your life. During a phone call the words spoken to you appear on the phone's screen – similar to closed captioning on TV. So when you make or receive a call, the words spoken to you are not only amplified by the phone, but scroll across the phone so you can listen while reading everything that's said to you. Each call is routed through a call center, where computer technology – aided by a live representative – generates voice-to-text translations. The captioning is real-time, accurate and readable. Your conversation is private and the captioning service doesn't cost you a penny. Internet Protocol Captioned Telephone Service (IP CTS) is regulated and funded by the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) and is designed exclusively for individuals with hearing loss. To learn more, visit www.fcc.gov. The Hamilton CapTel phone requires telephone service and high-speed Internet access. WiFi Capable. ORANGE IS THE NEW BLACK!

In hopes of helping Nick retain custody of Christian, Sharon threatens to expose Nikki's — and Victoria's and Phyllis' and her own — deadly secret!

Desperate times call for desperate measures. At least that's what THE YOUNG & THE RESTLESS' Sharon tells herself this week when she blackmails Nikki with their big secret in an effort to force her former mother-in-law to use her influence to get Victor to drop his custody suit, which would take Christian away from Nick. Yet the beauty's action propels her down a dark and dangerous path... one that could have unexpected consequences!

Nikki Hits The Roof!

Sharon might need to book herself an appointment with her manicurist soon, because she's been biting her nails with worry over Nick's upcoming custody battle with Victor! In fact, she's so distracted by the upcoming trial that she lets slip to Mariah that after it's finished, she and Nick will be packing up their family and moving to San Diego! While Mariah doesn't blame her mom or Nick for wanting to get out of Newman territory, she is startled enough to share their upcoming relocation with Nikki. And it takes Nikki about a nanosecond to charge right over to accuse Sharon of stealing her son away!

"It's what Sharon expects (continues) ▶

Sharon is risking her whole future, not just her future with Nick, to help her lover.

The Young & The Restless

CHARLES BUSH

Sharon will do anything to keep Nick from learning how she's pulling strings on his behalf.

from Nikki — Nikki draws the wrong conclusion and makes judgments about Sharon all the time,” sighs Sharon Case (Sharon). “Nikki doesn’t realize when she blames Sharon that it has nothing to do with her. Moving to San Diego was Nick’s idea. Sharon actually had to take a lot of time to think about it. She eventually decided that even though it’s not what she wants to do — to leave her home and family — she is absolutely devoted to Nick, and this is what people who love each other and want to be together do!”

Sharon Makes A Threat!

During their argument, though, it occurs to Sharon that she has the leverage to help out Nick — i.e., blackmailing his mother about having killed J.T.! After all, she assumes that now that Nikki and Victor no longer have an open marriage, the blonde bombshell might have a little more influence over her hubby’s actions! The blackmail “is impulsive,” admits Case. “It’s the only thing she could think of quickly. It works as a good threat.

“But,” she hastens to add, “obviously, if she does do this, and exposes Nikki, [Victoria, Phyllis and even Sharon herself] can all go down!”

Nick Gets Suspicious!

While Nikki leaves to consider this latest development, Sharon returns to Nick, who is bracing himself to face his father in court the next day.

Recognizing Nick’s fear that he could lose the boy that he’s come to think of as his own son, Sharon tries to offer him hope by revealing that she’s talked with Nikki and has convinced her to apply pressure on Victor to drop his fight for Christian. Instead of being thankful, though, Nick is surprised and suspicious. Considering his mom never liked Sharon, he is confused over how his sweetheart is suddenly able to persuade Nikki to become involved — especially when he'd tried to do the exact same thing, but his mom refused to budge!

Nick's bewilderment has Sharon scrambling to cover her hardball tactics — not to mention the gigantic secret that she's been keeping from him regarding J.T.'s untimely death and ignominious burial in Chancellor Park. To that end, she suggests to Nick that whatever he'd said to his mom eventually worked its magic and pushed her into doing what she can to support their side rather than Victor's. "Everybody is playing a game," teases Case. "Victor is threatening to take away Christian. Nick is doing whatever he can to stop him. And Sharon is threatening to expose all of the women if Nikki doesn't do something about Victor!"

Nikki Strikes Back!

Ah, but with every threat, there is the possibility of getting some push-back! Nikki waits until Nick leaves before she makes a countermove, confronting Sharon over her nasty blackmail attempt! "Nikki takes Sharon's threat pretty seriously," previews the Emmy winner. "She doesn't know what Sharon will really do. But if Sharon does come forward, that would be pretty serious for all of the [women in the conspiracy circle!]"

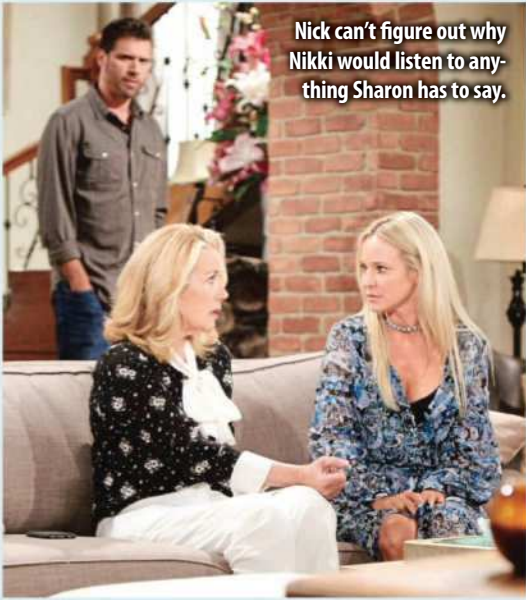

Indeed, Case says that her alter ego is well aware of the tricky position she has put herself in, where she could be joining Nikki in having a wardrobe limited to one color — prison orange! Still, "Sharon doesn't regret the threat," she insists. "Sharon just wants Nikki to do whatever she can do to convince Victor to stop this. That's really Sharon's only goal!"

Trouble Ahead!

Unfortunately, threats — or even bluffs — can have consequences! Sharon's attempt to help Nick may spiral out of control! "Everybody is fighting for what they want," says Case. "There's going to be good fireworks ahead!"

The question is, once the dust settles, will Sharon and Nick still be together? Or could the population in the Genoa City prison expand by four? ■

Y&R Behind Every Good Man

While watching THE YOUNG & THE RESTLESS lately, we've half expected episodes to begin with a voiceover saying, "The role of Phyllis Summers is now being played by Lady Macbeth. First, she basically manipulated Billy into the CEO position at Jabot. Then, when Jack's reaction left Billy feeling remorseful, Phyllis cooed into his ear, "I think what's bugging him most is that he's not in charge anymore... Jack is lucky to have you as a brother." Now, we're gonna go out on a limb and say that what's "bugging" Jack is that his entire world has been upended thanks to Dina's revelation. Also, given that Billy stole Jack's wife and his job, we can't help wanting to point out that "lucky" might not mean what Phyllis thinks it does! Meanwhile, it's a bit disconcerting that the first item on Billy's agenda is renovating the Jabot offices. After all, that was what he did when he moved into the Chancellor mansion, and we all know how that turned out!

B&B JUST SAY "NO"

THE BOLD & THE BEAUTIFUL's Wyatt could use some pointers from Steffy in the art of saying "Thanks, but no thanks." After Bill sent a bevy of baby gifts to her house, she summarily returned them to him — still in their packages — rather than accept even the smallest token from a man whose behavior she deemed inappropriate. Wyatt, on the other hand, put forth only the slightest show of protest when his dad lavished him with a vintage Ferrari and high-priced piece of art — later confessing to Katie, that he was pretty darn stoked about both of these generous gifts, but bemoaning that his dad was trying to buy his silence. Um, hate to break it to you, dude, but when you accepted the gifts, that transaction was already complete!

"Well, clearly saying 'no' isn't an option, so I'll take whatever you have to give me!"

their relationship but also his plan to once more work for his father. Both situations were fraught with familiar landmines they hoped to avoid, unlikely as that seemed, given Sharon was already sitting on a couple of relationship-de-

Got burning questions? Lay them on us!

Q. Since when are THE YOUNG & THE RESTLESS' Hilary and Phyllis such good friends? Or Lily and Abby?

Susie Buzard
via E-mail

A. We hear you, Susie! While soaps often do a wonderful job at portraying friendships — Nikki and the late Katherine, Christine and Nina, and even Chloe and Chelsea (until the latter realized the former had killed Adam) — there are a few friendships that do seem to come out of left field. Abby and Lily, as well as Hilary and Phyllis, do seem to have become BFFs overnight, but we'd like to point out that in some respects, their friendships aren't all that strange. Lily and Abby have worked in the same field — sometimes for the same company — for years, not to mention traveled in the same social circles. Along those same lines, Phyllis was married to Jack, who has become a good friend and mentor to Hilary. So while we didn't necessarily see these friendships building, they aren't actually all that unexpected!

HOWARD WISE/JPISTUDIOS.COM

The big bonding moment came when Hilary and Phyllis realized they both really liked playing pat-a-cake.

Y&R Danny Romalotti's concerts grew so big that the show had to film them in a larger studio to accommodate all the extras!

Q. Watching Mario Lopez co-host this year's Emmy ceremony reminded me that he once had a small role on B&B, didn't he?

*Karen
via E-mail*

A. The EXTRA host (and former SAVED BY THE BELL star) did appear on the soap in 2006 as Dr. Christian Ramirez, the younger brother of firefighter Hector Ramirez (played by Lorenzo Lamas). Christian treated Felicia during her battle with cancer, and he eventually fell for his patient (who survived thanks to a last-minute liver transplant). Though Dr. Ramirez remained on the canvas treating several others with medical needs (including identifying a cardiac defect in Ridge), his romance with Felicia never really panned out. Eventually, the handsome doctor — as well as the rest of the Ramirez clan — faded into the woodwork. ■

Q. Did THE BOLD & THE BEAUTIFUL's Pam ever get a new dog after her beloved Doberman Pinscher, Tiny, passed away?

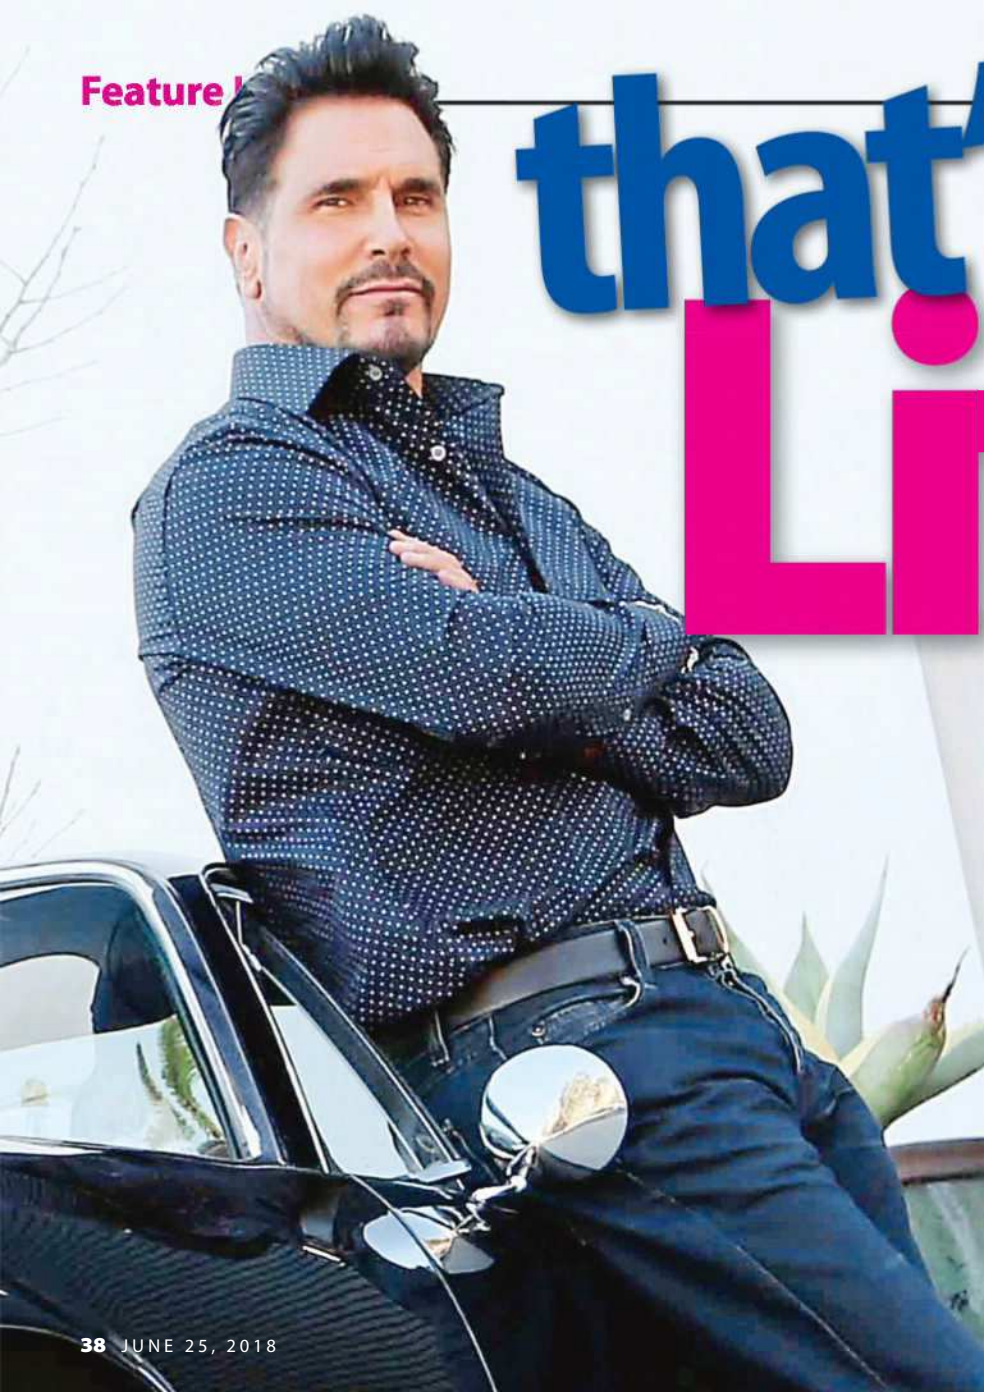

*Louise Chapman

A. Although several years ago Pam's would-be suitor John, Eric's brother, tried to tempt her by bringing an array of cute pooches for her to choose from, the blonde has never settled on another pup since Tiny. We're guessing Alley Mills (Pam) wouldn't mind if her alter ego were to find another pooch to love, since she adored working with the dogs — yes, dogs — who played Tiny. — Amy Helmes

Soaps In Depth: This book is quite the page-turner!

Don Diamont: "I'm waiting for the person who can say to my face, 'God, I hated your book. It was so freaking awful.'"

The fact that the actor doesn't type ("I only hunt and peck") made writing the book an added challenge! "I would talk into my phone using voice-recognition software, and in the push to the end, I had a wonderful transcriber who would type what I was dictating. Without her, I couldn't have done it!" Like his alter ego on THE BOLD & THE BEAUTIFUL, Don Diamont (Bill) has a certain frankness about him, and it's a candor that serves him well in his recently-published book My Seven Sons And How We Raised Each Other (They Only Drive Me Crazy 30% Of The Time) from Hachette Book Group. A memoir cleverly crafted in the framework of his relationship with his own late father and his seven sons, the book is witty, eye-opening, extremely poignant and juicy enough to keep any soap opera fan enthralled! Tackling everything from his childhood and knuckle-head-

In Depth: Nobody's going to say that.

Diamond: "I know, so I never know if anybody really means it or not when they say they like it!"

In Depth: It's a really good book, and surprisingly, it's much more a memoir than a typical book on parenting.

Diamond: "I originally thought it was going to be more like a [parenting guide], but as I began to get into it, I realized that all my life experiences informed the things that I've advised my kids about. So it really did become a memoir as well as being a how-to book in a way that isn't preachy, so to speak."

In Depth: Your personality really shines through in this book. Did you have help from a professional writer?

Diamond: "Initially, I had a ghost writer, because it just wasn't something I thought I would — or could — do on my own. But, through no fault of that writer, it ended up not being 'me.' I felt that it wasn't my voice, perspective or humor. So instead, I sat down and wrote it myself, which I didn't anticipate having to do. Most people could use a ghost writer and say, 'This is fine,' but I couldn't have 'fine.' I couldn't have 'okay.' This book is too per-

In Depth: How did you find the time? Were you pulling all-nighters?

Diamond: "That is kind of what I was doing. It's challenging to delve into the minutiae of your life, particularly really painful experiences [like the deaths of his father and brother within a two-year time span, as well as his messy divorce from his first wife]. It took a lot of mental and emotional energy, and there were days when I'd think, 'God, I don't want to sit down again and dwell on this and start crying,' which was my experience more than once in writing the

Fatherhood, Plain & Simple

Here are just a few of the many memorable lines about fatherhood from Diamont's book!

- What I've learned is that love can come in various forms. Sometimes it's a hug, and sometimes it's a foot up an ass.
- Life is going to throw curveballs. Sometimes nasty ones. I've emphasized to my boys that what matters is how you handle them.
- All of our boys have their own special character traits and unique personalities, but a common thread that runs through all of them is the joy of breaking Daddy's balls.
- The reason I think [my dad] was so good at being both a friend and a father was that he never lost touch with the kid he used to be. The same holds true for my boys and me. Cindy still says that I'm the biggest kid in the family.

Mosley's productions weren't as somber as they sounded!

Dark Humor

■ When she's not playing THE BOLD & THE BEAUTIFUL's Maya, Karla Mosley is part of a local theater company in L.A., and last month, she took to the stage in a production called The Giant Void In My Soul. Sounds, uh... deep? "It's actually a comedy," admits Mosley with a laugh. "I know, everyone hears the title and is like, 'Oh, Gawd!' It's about all of the different ways that we try to fill the 'hole' in our life, whether it's through food or alcohol. It's touching, but it's also really funny." Prior to that show, the troupe performed The Tragedy, which Mosley explains also has a somewhat misleading title. "That was a comedy, too," she says. "I guess that's sort of our theme right now!"

The Cat's Meow

■ Though his real name is Henry, Annika Noelle (Hope) calls her beloved cat “The Burrito Man,” a nickname that came about while nursing him back from the brink of death when he was just a kitten. “I used to volunteer at an animal shelter, and he was so sick that they were going to put him down,” recalls the actress, who begged the vets to let her take him home and finish his

Sister, Sister

■ John McCook (Eric) played the role of “baby brother” over spring break this year when he joined his older sister, Kathleen, for a cross-country trip to Winston-Salem, NC, where they visited their other sister, Helen. “My sisters are a lot older than me,” McCook says. “They were 12 and 13 when I was born, so I was their amusement. I basically had three mothers!” These days, the actor says his siblings get giggly when they’re all together in a group, and they’re very proud of the success he’s found in Hollywood.

“Helen is very Southern, and she doesn’t talk about B&B too much, but every once in a while she’ll say, ‘What the hail is going on now with such-and-such?’” he says. “I just laugh and say, ‘Oh, so you’re watching the show, are you?’”

McCook spent time with his two big sisters this spring!

Camryn Grimes (Mariah) shares the thrill of her second Emmy win

Weeks prior to this year's Daytime Emmys, THE YOUNG & THE RESTLESS' Camryn Grimes (Mariah) spent much of her time dismissing her chances of snagging the statuette for Outstanding Supporting Actress. So she was more than a little shocked when her name was called out on the night in question. "All I heard was my first name, and then everybody from Y&R sort of leapt up!" she recalls with a laugh. "Robert Adamson (ex-Noah), who was my date for the evening, yelled in my ear, and I was like, 'Oh, God, here we go!'"

"I didn't have a speech prepared, so it looked like I was making a beeline for the stage, but I was really like, 'Oh God! Now I have to think of something to say!'" she adds. "I didn't turn and focus on anyone around me. I was like, 'What do I do?!'"

Hitting A High Note

Winning another Emmy 18 years after she won in the Outstanding Younger Actress category puts Grimes in a reflective mood. "If I were being perfectly honest, having a career that I've had that spans now a little over 20 years — with all the normal peaks and valleys of this crazy business — you do start to wonder if you're as good as an adult as I was when I was younger," she confesses. "Do I still have it? Or was [the previous award] a circumstantial fluke? Especially when you're going through your teenage years and early 20s, all these doubts come into play when you think about your career. You think, 'Can I ever do that again? Am I as good now as everyone thought I was back then?' I think that's normal."

▲ Grimes brought former TV-brother Adamson as her escort to the Emmys. But “we’re just friends,” she says. “He was like my stress ball for the evening!”

◀ “Hilary and Mariah are one of my favorite relationships on the show,” says the actress. “They are a perfect example of being a frenemy.”

with one of the evening’s top honors certainly goes a long way toward easing any concerns or insecurities that Grimes may have been feeling! “Something like this shouldn’t be validating — I should feel validated on my own... which I do, for the most part — but it is very validating!” she laughs. “It’s like, ‘Okay, I can put aside all those insecurities and doubts and just do my job!’”

Honor Role

Speaking of the job, Grimes has seen her alter ego go through quite an evolution since she returned to Y&R to play Mariah in 2014. “After it was revealed that I was Cassie’s twin, I feel like they really didn’t know what to do with me. I was so lucky they paired me with Greg Rikaart (ex-Kevin; now Leo, DAYS OF OUR LIVES), because that gave me a chance to do comedy,” she shares. “Comedy didn’t come naturally to me, and a lot of what I learned, I learned from Greg.

“I really credit my character’s long-term success to him,” she continues, “to how brilliant he is and how much work he and I put into crafting the Kevin and Mariah storyline.”

As much as she enjoyed tickling the audience’s funny bone, the Emmy winner admits that she’s loved getting the chance to return to her dramatic roots,

"Mariah has softened a lot since she came on," says her portrayer.

HOWARD WISE/PISTUDIOS.COM

◀ Mariah was passed out when Nikki murdered J.T., and Victoria, Phyllis and Sharon helped her dispose of the body — which is just fine with Grimes. "Mariah doesn't need to be an accomplice to murder! She's got enough to deal with!"

for which she thanks executive producer/headwriter Mal Young. "I have loved every writer since I've been back," she insists. "Everybody has a different take on things, but I think when Mal came on — and I have no idea why — he took an interest in this character, Mariah, and in exploring her more. That's why I got this story [between Mariah and Tessa]. And I am forever grateful!

"Never in a million years did I think I'd be back [after Cassie flat-lined] or that my life would come so full circle," she continues quietly. "It makes me emotional just to think about how lucky I've been. I do not take that for granted!" ■

— Julie McElwain

FEARLESS

When Y&R introduced the love story between Mariah and Tessa, it certainly caused a buzz... which has many wondering if Grimes found it a tad bit scary to take on what many see as a controversial subject. "Scary is the wrong word — it's like an excited anxiousness. For me, I wouldn't be acting if I didn't love the challenge, if I didn't look forward to the challenge and crave it," she shares. "I want to do different stuff than I've done before. It's the reason why I do it, so I can push myself! To me, you never stop learning and growing, so when I get those opportunities to try something new, it's less about me being scared, and more like me being, 'Yeah, let's go! Let's do it!'"

Grimes loves the challenge presented by Mariah's complex love life.

Y&R Hot Topic: Could Arturo & Abby Be The Next Big Thing?

When it comes to love on THE YOUNG & THE RESTLESS, Abby's track record has been downright dismal. After all, the beauty's last boyfriend tried to kill her! That said, we gotta admit that we have been enjoying the flirtatious back-and-forth between Abby and Arturo. While we don't know much about the hunk, we like the idea of putting the former Naked Heiress opposite a working-class-Joe, anticipating that there will be just enough differences between the couple to add some sizzle to their romance. Of course, the biggest hurdle that they may need to overcome is Arturo's past with Nikki! Sure, Victor and his wife have nixed that whole "open marriage" arrangement, but Nikki's reaction to Arturo and Abby's relationship seemed pretty extreme for a woman who claims to have closed the book on her brief fling with the younger man. Something tells us that Arturo could be just what Abby needs... not to mention the canvas itself, where there are far too few have nots. In a town full of tycoons, it's nice to see someone whose financial status is much more relatable!

OUR TAKE

Abby tried figuring out how to tell Arturo she wasn't big on sharing when it came to wine.

Ink Master

■ Tattoos are hugely popular these days, but you won't ever find one on THE YOUNG & THE RESTLESS' Sharon Case (Sharon)! "I can't imagine having a tattoo — I just don't want ink on me," reveals the beauty. "I don't know why it's so fascinating. Some people have tattoos for makeup, but I don't want my makeup on full-time. It's a big commitment. It never goes away! I couldn't stand seeing it on me every day, whatever it is!" Case offers an exception regarding permanent ink, though. "I will tell you that I do find tattoos on men — when they have a whole sleeve [on their arm], like a rocker — are pretty hot," she admits with a laugh. "But I don't think one random tattoo of Mighty Mouse on your arm is hot! If you're a rocker, and you're doing a full sleeve, do it. But if not, I'd say pass... just pass!"

Secret To Her Success

■ When Kate Linder (Esther) was first cast as the Chancellor maid, she had only one line — “Dinner is served” — and didn’t even have a name until Katherine’s portrayer, the late Jeanne Cooper, gave her one. But every time I answered the door, I made Esther man-crazy. If Victor was at the door, I would have my character go absolutely ga-ga.” One time, Linder even asked the prop department for a spoon covered in chocolate. “When Esther answered the door, I’d have chocolate on me,” she recalls, noting that the improvisations must have worked, “because I’m still here more than 30 years later!”

Musings

As Father's Day approaches, some of your favorites from THE YOUNG & THE RESTLESS, THE BOLD & THE BEAUTIFUL and DAYS OF OUR LIVES reflect on their dads and what it means to be a dad

With Father's Day around the corner, the stars of THE YOUNG & THE RESTLESS, THE BOLD & THE BEAUTIFUL and DAYS OF OUR LIVES have naturally been thinking a lot, not only about the holiday but about the importance of dadhood. And luckily for Soaps In Depth, they've been kind enough to share their thoughts. So put off wrapping Pop's new tie for a little longer and read on for their heartwarming stories.

B&B New Lens On Life

B&B's Scott Clifton (Liam) says son Ford has changed his point of view

There's something about having a child that makes B&B's Scott Clifton (Liam) view the world with renewed wonder. The fascination his 2-year-old son, Ford, expresses at even the simplest things serves as a reminder to the actor of all the things we shouldn't take for granted. "It's like I'm seeing everything all over again," he explains. "Things I've become desensitized to are suddenly amazing because I'm getting to see them through his eyes. It's the same old stuff, but God, it's fascinating."

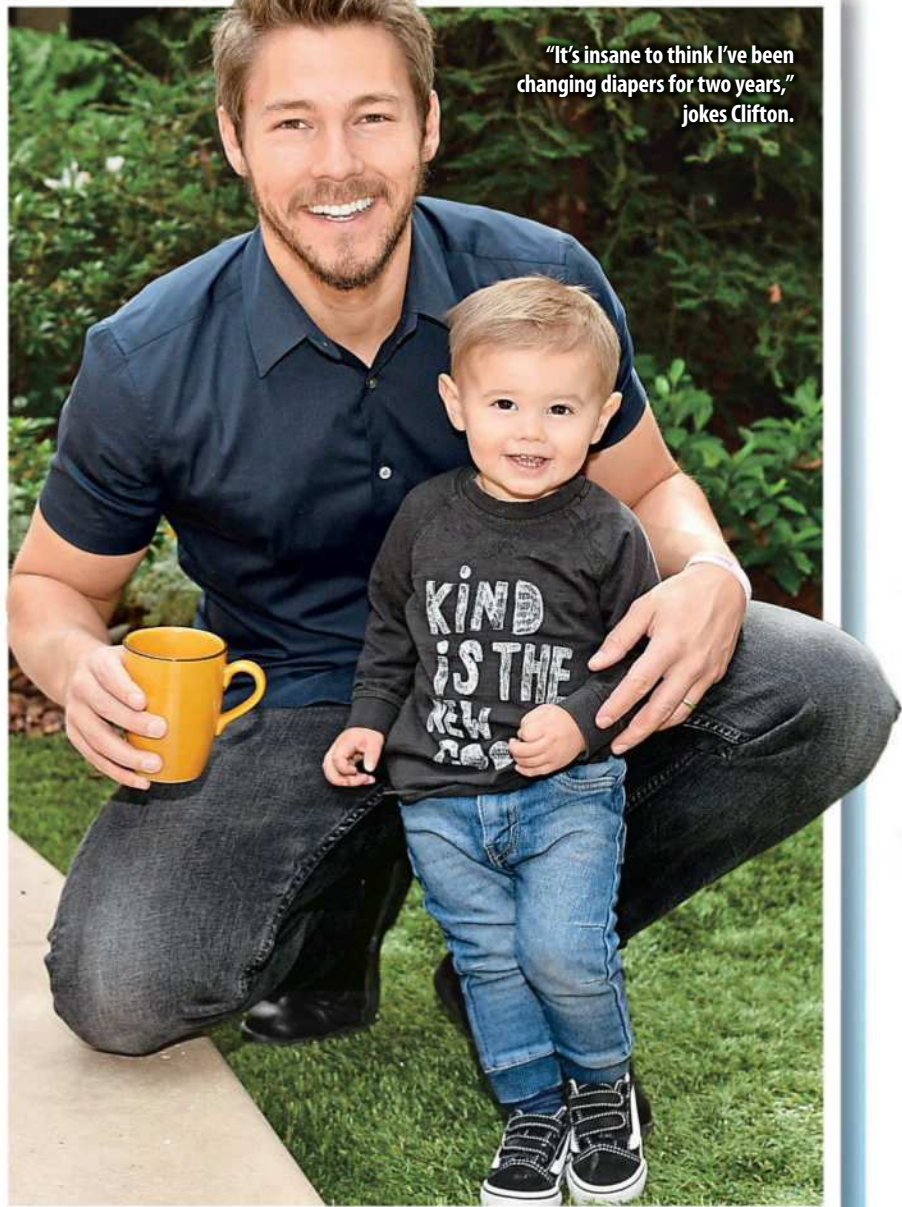

If simple things blow the toddler's mind, Clifton can only imagine how something of a bigger magnitude might rock his little world, which is one of the reasons he can't wait to take Ford to Disneyland. "I think we'll go when he's 3 years old, so he can register more of what's happening," says Dad, "and he'll also be more familiar with the Disney characters by then."

The actor is also eager to share his favorite pastime — camping — with his son. "That's definitely on my agenda. I think we could do it now, and he'd do great. Plus, I'm sure he'd be very tasty to a bear, so all in, everybody wins!"

Kidding aside, Clifton admits that what makes him happy has changed significantly since becoming a father. "My life is not about me anymore," he says thoughtfully. "My life is about him. Nothing is more important than him."

"It's insane to think I've been changing diapers for two years," jokes Clifton.

B&B Get It In Gear

B&B's Ingo Rademacher (Thorne) likes to keep his sons, Peanut and Pohaku, on the move

Most dads like to kick up their heels and relax on Father's Day, but Ingo Rademacher (Thorne, B&B) prefers the exact opposite. This June 17, the actor says he might ask his boys to join him for an afternoon bike ride through the Santa Monica mountains or perhaps a long run. "They don't always want to go, obviously," he says with a laugh, "but I always tell them, 'You're helping Dad stay in shape.'"

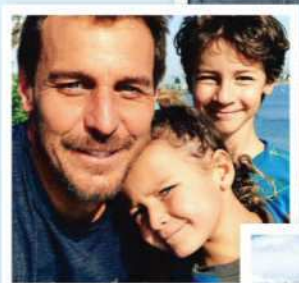

Though Peanut, 9, and Pohaku, 6, are still pretty young, they manage to keep up with their pop quite well. "I'm always amazed at how much they can both do now," he says. "Pohaku went for his first four-and-a-half-mile run the other day with his brother and me, and he made it all the way."

Of course, such exertions don't come without a bit of sightseeing along the way. "We're always stopping to look at things, whether it's a caterpillar crossing the road or a dead deer that was eaten by a mountain lion," he says. "Because they're home-schooled, I try to think of new cool things to do with them [that have an educational bent]. There are always things happening when you go out adventuring."

Even if his sons are reluctant co-pilots at first, they always finish the day excited about what they accomplished. "If you give a kid a choice of whether they want to play Street Fighter on PlayStation 4 or go for a run with Dad, they're going to pick playing video games every time, but when we do go out, it's always great," he says. "One of the joys of having kids is being able to watch them learn and do cool new things." ■

"It becomes clearer where you need to be" when you become a dad, says Thompson.

Y&R Precious Treasures

Y&R's Jason Thompson (Billy) has handed over his place on the priority list to his children, Bowie and Rome

Father's Day is less important to Y&R's Jason Thompson (Billy) than actually being a father to son Bowie, 2, and daughter Rome, nine months. And that means shifting his place in the household's pecking order. "It's hard to explain, but I said to my wife, Paloma, that I feel like there is something more important in life than me. Out of my wife and two kids, I am now fourth on the priority list!" he laughs. "I'm very aware of that, and I think that's healthy for me."

Indeed, the hunk found his life changing with his firstborn. "There's a preciousness to life," he muses. "It's nice when that becomes clear. There's also a self-acknowledgement in how you show yourself to the world. My boy is so observant right now, so you have to be aware of your actions. You look in the mirror a little bit different.

"Bowie looks at me, he looks at my wife and our relationship... I could tell him everything about the world," he continues.

"But he wouldn't understand that. What he understands is what he sees, and I need to be aware of that."

With the arrival of his daughter nine months ago, Thompson admits that his world has gotten a lot busier, what with juggling the schedules of two kids under the age of 3! "It can be pretty hectic," he says.

Still, that won't stop Thompson and his wife from grabbing the kids and taking off on adventures. "We are doing more weekend trips... We've been to Idyllwild [a rustic town in the San Jacinto Mountains], Joshua Tree [in the California desert] and up to San Francisco," he shares. "We plan to go to Europe for a couple of weeks, and then Australia. Paloma and I travelled a lot in the beginning of our relationship, and we want to keep that going. We like to explore. I think showing the kids different things — and doing it as a family — is important!"

DAYS Father Knows Best

To keep kids Machiah, Caden and Gaia happy, DAYS' Lamon Archey (Eli) becomes a balancing act

DAYS' Eli is about to become a father for the first time, and he's totally unprepared for it. "He has absolutely no idea what he's doing — he's a rookie!" acknowledges his portrayal, Lamon Archey, with a laugh. "Hopefully, he learns some stuff!"

The actor, who has three children of his own — 15-year-old Machiah, who lives in the San Francisco Bay area with his mother; Caden, 8; and Gaia, 5 — can't help but laugh at the single guy's predicament. "It's hard to give somebody advice because you're never really ready" to be a parent, he suggests. "It's just something that you deal with day by day and take step by step."

When Father's Day rolls around, Archey likes to keep it simple and do the kinds of things with his kids that he finds important and enjoyable all year long. "For me, it doesn't really matter what we do," he shares. "It can just be hanging out at the house

It's Archey's younger kids who joined him for this photo shoot, but his oldest is the one who "has my personality, mannerisms, everything," he says. "He's my spitting image."

playing video games or we can go to the park or Six Flags [Magic Mountain amusement park]... as long as we're together.

"The hard part about making plans," he continues, "is that the kids don't all have the same interests. Gaia's not so much into the boy things, and when she is, it's only for a limited amount of time, so [fiancée Mercedes Cornett and I] have to balance that out."

B&B Perfect "Payback"

Annika Noelle (Hope, B&B) showed dad Hank how Tinseltown sparkles

Prior to attending her first Daytime Emmy Awards ceremony in April, B&B's Annika Noelle (Hope) didn't have to think twice when choosing her date for the night. "My dad has essentially been the biggest supporter of me and my career, and he really believed in me all these years," she says of her pop, Hank, who flew to Los Angeles from Boston for the big event. "I always joked with him when he was still supporting me [financially] that one day I'd pay him back by bringing him on the red carpet. So this is my way of bringing it full circle, and it means a lot."

Getting gussied up in gown and tux is not, in fact, how the actress and her dad typically like to spend time together. In fact, they prefer roughing it! "Going camping — just the two of us — has always been our thing," says Noelle. "Between my sister and I, I was the 'outdoorsy' one, so camping was our father/daughter bonding time. This year, we went to Yellowstone together, so we're continuing the tradition."

ton's sports teams — says that her dad also taught her, from an early age, to root, root, root for the home team. "We're going to a Red Sox game in September, and we'll be rooting for them again," says the actress. "We'll be at Fenway together, and I'm very excited for that."

DAYS Goin' Back To Indiana

DAYS' Tyler Christopher (Stefan) has given his kids, Greysun and Boheme, a literal change of pace

Every parent wants to pass on the best of their own upbringing to their children. So it was no surprise that Tyler Christopher (Stefan, DAYS) would want to raise his kids, Greysun, 8, and Boheme, 3, in the Midwest. But instead of his native Delaware, OH, he's now settled them in wife Brienne's hometown of Midland, IN. "We were moving all over in Los Angeles," the actor recalls. "It's hard on anybody to constantly be moving to new schools... Now my son has his friends and his routine, and he loves it here."

Not only has the Christopher family settled down, but they've also adapted to the slower pace of living. "Look, we're in the heart of the Midwest. If L.A. is 110 miles per hour, this is 55," he says. "So Greysun's learning [better] because there's less distraction. The days are longer."

Working on the California soap set means that Christopher has to keep in touch with his loved ones via phone and FaceTime. It also means not being able to be too involved in his children's activities. "I was an athlete growing up, so I would love to be their football, basketball, baseball, soccer, dance or acting coach," he admits. "But I can't be there for two weeks and then be gone for three—I can't make a commitment to something like that."

But when he does return home, as he likely will for Father's Day, Christopher slips right into the routine and is able to give everyone his full attention. "I do my CrossFit [exercise] before they even get out of bed. So by the time they're up, I've already got my own personal responsibilities and the things I like to do out of the way," he reveals. "And then I'm just Dad. They love that." ■

Y&R's Gina Tognoni (Phyllis) lives a bicoastal life, what with her job on the West Coast and her home in New Jersey. Yet she says that no matter where she is, she will always celebrate her dad, Edward, on Father's Day. "Our family has always made sure we connect no matter our locations," she says, "so absolutely [there will be] a call to Dad!"

In fact, Tognoni has always been close to her father. "Growing up, I remember loving to make my dad smile or laugh," she shares fondly.

As far as traditions go, the beauty says food played an important role in the celebration! "We made sure he had a special kind of cake for Father's Day. We purchased a specific brand at the grocery," she reveals with a grin. "Chocolate cake with vanilla icing!"

Looking back, Tognoni says if she had to point to the biggest single lesson her dad has taught her, it would be: "Anything worth having will feel like a risk — keep going!"

One could say that Tognoni took that lesson to heart with her decision to pursue acting, and later when she decided to launch her own shoe business, Sole 9. Of course, in the latter business it also helped that she could utilize her father's expertise in that field! "I appreciate my father and what a pioneer he was — and still is," she adds, "in his field of manufacturing and selling shoes."

Tognoni says she's tried to give back to her dad in a variety of ways but feels like she has received so much more by having him in her life. "My father is a good man who always worked hard to give our family so much opportunity," she shares quietly. "He believes in himself, and I thank him for [being a role model] for us.

"I adore his ability to not take himself too seriously!" she adds. "I admire his belief in God. Everyone loves my dad — he's a beautiful man, inside and out!" ■

Keeping Track

There's nothing that Susan Walters would like more than to return to daytime. "I would love it!" says the actress, who got her start playing scheming teen Lorna on LOVING and later brought to life Jack's manipulative babymama, Diane, on THE YOUNG & THE RESTLESS. As a matter of fact, "I would have been happy to stay on Y&R till the end of my career. So absolutely, 100 percent" she'd do another soap.

A Killer Twist

Until that opportunity knocks, Walters can be seen in Lifetime's new thriller, Murder At 17 (airing Saturday, July 8, at 8 p.m. EST). In it, an accident causes her character's cheerleader daughter, Brooke, to suffer a brain injury and develop a dangerous mood disorder! "When one of her friends is murdered, Brooke's issues make her a suspect," Walters previews. "My character was aware that her daughter might be capable of doing something heinous and is in denial that [she actually could have]. But she is also trying to take care of her, support her and find out the truth."

Suspicious Minds

Complicating matters is Brooke's new love interest, who raises some red flags for Walters' alter ego. But given the complex nature of their own relationship, Brooke's not about to take Mom's advice! "My daughter came from a divorced home, so she has some angst toward me," Walters explains in character. "[Now] she's dating this young boy who just seems like 'too, too,' you know? At one point, I said, 'Why can't he date somebody his own age?'"

Like You've Never Seen Her

Having also played a concerned mother in the recent finale of Freeform's THE FOSTERS and a grieving Navy wife on CBS' NCIS, the actress was up for having some fun. Recently, she's been on the set of her next TV movie, Do Not Be Deceived, doing just that! In the flick (which also features PORT CHARLES' Jake, Rib Hillis), a progressive church minister welcomes a seemingly sweet couple into her congregation, only to become entangled in the man's deadly obsession. "I play a church gossip," Walters giggles. "The character was described as someone who is 'cuddly with helmet hair and an affinity toward floral sweater sets!' It's something that you don't normally think of me as."

Living The Dream

In her free time, Walters enjoys the Malibu, CA, lifestyle that she shares with her husband, Linden Ashby. (Before playing Y&R's Cameron, he played Walters' cousin, Curtis, on LOVING!) "We're so busy biking, hiking, walking on the beach and hanging out with friends," she shares with a smile, "that the day goes by." ■

Another ex-daytimer shines after dark

UMC's THE RICH AND THE RUTHLESS, from Victoria Rowell (ex-Drucilla, Y&R), is returning with all-new episodes and some exciting new characters beginning Friday, June 15. In the hilarious series, the fan fave stars as the actress/wife of a struggling soap producer who frequently clashes with a network exec played by Brenda Epperson (Y&R's former Ashley).

In honor of her recent 90th birthday, Soaps In Depth takes a look back at the life and legacy of THE YOUNG & THE RESTLESS and THE BOLD & THE BEAUTIFUL co-creator Lee Phillip Bell!

Decades before Facebook's Sheryl Sandberg advised women to "lean in," Lee Phillip Bell was doing that — and then some! A pioneer in the television industry, she hosted her own TV show in Chicago for years before teaming up with her husband, William J. Bell, to create THE YOUNG & THE RESTLESS and THE BOLD & THE BEAUTIFUL, which remain the highest-rated daytime dramas on television. While forging this career success, she also managed to raise three children who would grow up to each have a role in the lasting dynasty she and her late spouse worked so hard to create. This amazing businesswoman and matriarch recently celebrated her 90th birthday on June 10, which certainly merits a look back at her remarkable life!

▲ Married in October 1954, the beauty first met her future husband while working on THE LEE PHILLIP SHOW. When he quit his job in advertising to start writing for GUIDING LIGHT and AS THE WORLD TURNS, some of his more topical storylines were inspired by the social issues his wife addressed on her show.

The Young & The Restless

The Bold & The Beautiful

Even the cool kids took "satisfaction" when Bell interviewed The Rolling Stones back in the mid-1960s.

Bell's early reporting gigs included frequent trips to Paris and Rome to cover the latest fashion trends, and she also got to chat up wildly popular celebrities of the day like Marilyn Monroe and Judy Garland.

◀ The native of Chicago never lost sight of her Midwestern roots, as evidenced by this cover of TV Week magazine. The icon made her TV debut when she appeared on a local station to give an on-air flower-arrangement demonstration on behalf of her family's floral shop. The producers liked her so much, they asked her to return!

At the second annual Daytime Emmy Awards (which took place on board the S.S. Dayliner on the Hudson River), the Bells (along with Y&R's first executive producer, John Conboy) happily accepted the award for Outstanding Drama Series, the first of nine that Y&R has nabbed over the years.

Greg Vaughan (Eric, DAYS OF OUR LIVES) reflects on his big win

Good things come to those who wait... or so the saying goes. Twenty-two years, three daytime soaps, and a whole bunch of primetime series and movies later, and DAYS OF OUR LIVES' Greg Vaughan (Eric) finally got the recognition he deserves. He recently took home a Daytime Emmy! "Throughout the night, I had over 100 text messages, phone calls and E-mails from people — those who've seen the trials and tribulations and what it took to overcome them," he con-fides. "I've managed to stay above [the fray] and keep my head focused. That's kind of the moral of the story: No matter what you're going through in life, just take what you're given, make the best of it and never look back."

The actor is quick to point out that what's ahead for Eric didn't come as a result of his Emmy win. After all, the show shoots six months ahead of what's airing! "I like that they're focusing more on the core characters that people really want to see come out and shine."

Just as Vaughan was able to collaborate on the dark way in which Eric was brought back from prison, he's happy to

The gals from Freeform's THE BOLD TYPE are willing to risk it all!

THE DICE

Just as today's popular fashion magazines address issues that resonate with young women, so too does THE BOLD TYPE, the Freeform drama about three friends who work in that industry. New showrunner Amanda Lasher says that when the series returns (with a two-hour premiere on Tuesday, June 12, at 8 p.m. EST), it'll hit the ground running!

Will Jane Have Major Regrets?

"Some of the themes that we'll address are body image, Kat's racial identity, and, for Sutton, what it's like being in an elevated fashion world when you don't come from as much," the EP reveals. Meanwhile, Jane, who's left Scarlet for what looked to be a better opportunity at Incite, will "deal with what it's like having a new boss who values the headline more than the actual story."

Look for the neophyte columnist to get herself immediately into a vulnerable situation. Will she have the chutzpah to emerge triumphant? Ben, the passionate doctor that Sutton introduces her to, might just inspire her to move mountains. "Jane realizes that he would be a good subject for an article," Lasher previews, "and as she's getting to know him, she becomes enamored."

"Jacqueline is happy there's another woman on the board," Lasher offers, "but Cleo isn't necessarily on the same page."

Can Sutton Have It All?

Meanwhile, the publishing house's policy change regarding workplace relationships could open the door again for Sutton and Richard's romance. "They might not have to worry about losing their jobs," Lasher warns, "but they would have to worry about how things are perceived."

Having been promoted to the fashion department, Sutton's got a lot to prove to new boss Oliver, as well as to her competitive co-workers. "She'll need to rely on her strengths," Lasher suggests. "The fact that she has a background in business winds up being something that helps her."

FREEFORM/PHILIPPE BOSSE

FREEFORM/PHILIPPE BOSSE

“It takes Jane a little bit of time to realize that what she walked into at Incite wasn't exactly what she expected,” the showrunner previews. “She’s used to having more support.”

Kat's Got Some 'Splaining To Do!

Kat will be thrilled when Adena’s visa issues get worked out, allowing them both to return Stateside, but there remain other obstacles for the couple to contend with. For instance? “Kat’s an only child, she’s never been in a relationship before, and now,” Lasher explains, “all of a sudden, she has somebody in her life who just happens to be another woman.”

So Kat rushes the big step of introducing Adena to her parents. “It’s awkward,” the executive previews, “and then it winds up teaching Kat something about herself, seeing her family through Adena’s eyes.”

The social-media director will also have plenty of drama at work, including dealing with Jacqueline, who’s clashing with a younger female board member with different ideas for the magazine’s future. “I’m so proud to be part of a show that’s telling stories about women being in it together,” Lasher says enthusiastically. “Seeing them take on the world together is so much fun!”

The Young & The Restless

Peter Bergman took THE YOUNG & THE RESTLESS' Jack from one extreme to the other!

What goes up must come down. But THE YOUNG & THE RESTLESS' Peter Bergman proved the opposite is true as well. After alter ego Jack crashed and burned (quite literally, when his car plummeted into a ravine near the Abbott cabin), the mogul climbed out of his dark pit of despair to put his shattered life back together. The Emmy winner's broad-ranging performance — from Jack's pity party to him rising like the proverbial phoenix — was a guaranteed Gold Star!

Fighting Demons

In a hilarious twist, Dina revealed that Jack's biological father was... Victor! The scene, of course, turned out to be a dream — or, rather, Jack's worst nightmare — and jolted the mogul awake. Alas, Jack's torment was no laughing matter as he tried to drown his sorrows in booze. When that failed,

Bergman kept Jack's fighting spirit alive and kicking.

Wyatt had something to say that was even more important than "I do."

he turned to pills, which soon became a game of “Will he or won’t he?” Ashley and Billy’s arrival at the cabin — with the camera panning down to the coffee table and the pills spelling out “no” — revealed that Jack had finally conquered his demons.

We expected Jack to be on an upward swing, but we were startled by his swift transformation back to his old self — complete with swagger and smirk. And temper, which blazed in his eyes when he realized that in his absence, Billy had been appointed CEO and had no intention of relinquishing the position. Jack’s temper exploded when Billy advised his brother to take time to absorb his paternity shock. “Well, thank you for your insightful diagnosis, Dr. Abbott!” he snapped sarcastically. “You can keep your bogus sensitivity and whatever second-rate job you were about to offer me in my company! I’m leaving!”

New Reality

Jack has never been one to give up, and he called a board meeting to overturn the blood-Abbott clause. Yet if Jack has a fatal flaw, it’s overconfidence. When that strategy failed, his cockiness shifted to a longer-term calculation. Outwardly, he agreed to take a backseat to Billy... until he discovered his personal items had been cleared out of the CEO’s office and he had no place at Jabot! “Help me understand. My things are not in an office. What are they in, a storage bin? A broom closet? A cardboard box?” he fumed. “Was this the plan all along? Death by a thousand little cuts? Humiliate me to the point I’ll walk out of Jabot?”

Bergman brilliantly kept his character on an emotional seesaw — quitting one moment, gritting his teeth, determined to stick it out, the next. Later, he plotted with Kyle. “Billy is going to screw this thing up. When he does, you and I are going to step in. We will get the board to rescind that blood-Abbott clause. Me as CEO — you as my second in command.”

No one knows how to scheme like Jack... and no one knows how to capture our attention and ignite our admiration like his talented portrayer! ★

B&B Wedding Suspense For The Win!

Weddings on THE BOLD & THE BEAUTIFUL are always sumptuous affairs, which is why we love the fact that people tend to get married every other month or so on the show. Ill-advised or not, Hope and Liam’s May nuptials checked all the boxes. On the one hand, we were treated to lots of pretty dresses and flowers, a beautiful, blushing bride, adorable Logan-sister giddiness and a groom whose grin seemed permanently etched across his face. On the other hand, there was a dark undercurrent running through the fete, from King Curmudgeon Ridge’s party-pooper demeanor to Wyatt’s inner turmoil as he agonized over what degree of “truthiness” he was required to reveal — or conceal — as Liam’s best man.

“Liam tells me how trustworthy and honest I am, and I feel like a complete fraud,” he opined to Katie, who urged him, gently but firmly, to keep his trap shut about Steffy’s fidelity. As the bride walked down the aisle, the sour expression on Wyatt’s face stood in stark contrast to the sea of smiles surrounding him. Would he speak now... or forever hold his peace? We were dying to find out!

I'm not a big chocolate person. I'm more of a sour-taste person."

Daniel Goddard (Cane, Y&R)

"Pizza and French fries! They are calorically dense, so whenever I eat them I know I have to burn those calories. Other than that, I guess there's the cholesterol benefits of not eating them. I wish I could live on fried chicken, pizza and French fries. I wish they were a health food! Who doesn't?"

Darin Brooks (Wyatt, B&B)

"Uh, those two donuts I just had! I worked out for two hours this morning, and then I ate two donuts. I admit it! Don't make me feel bad about it!"

Karla Mosley (Maya, B&B)

"Gluten. Every once in a while I can't help it. When I was in Paris, I definitely had some baguettes, and I'm sure if I went to Italy, I would have to try some pasta."

Gina Tognoni (Phyllis, Y&R)

"Focaccia bread! All breads... warm, hot bread! I have to watch out for different things. Pizza, bread, anything dough-related. I'm [into] savory, not so much sweet. I want to dive right into the salty, buttery breads."

Sharon Case (Sharon, Y&R)

"A lot of things! I like burnt toast, and they say you're not supposed to eat burnt things... but I don't eat a lot of it. It's all a balance. If you take a lot of antioxidants, which I do, everything balances out."

Bold & Beautiful

The Wedding Is Off!

Wyatt called a “time out” in the middle of Liam’s wedding to Hope to explain that Steffy’s recent betrayal was just another one of Bill’s hoaxes. The bride was devastated, discouraged, and uncertain about how (or whether) to proceed with the nuptials. As Liam struggled to control the anger he felt bubbling up to the surface, Hope made the decision to put their wedding vows on ice — at least for the time being. The fact that Wyatt hadn’t called with news about the wedding made Bill anxious, and he ordered Justin to reach out to Donna for the 411, a request Justin refused. In the meantime, a giddy Ridge texted Steffy to let her know that Liam might not be getting hitched after all!

LIAM IS BACK WHERE HE STARTED!

Brooke was heartbroken for her daughter, while Ridge was relieved that his stepdaughter had slammed the brakes on her nuptials. Bill saw red when Wyatt revealed that he’d ratted him out to Liam, but Wyatt was unflinching in the face of his father’s rage. Realizing she still had a shot with Liam, Steffy begged him to go back to the moment before Bill’s interference — and to forgive her. Liam felt torn where his loyalties to the two women were concerned. Despite having almost said “I do” to Hope, he wondered if he maybe ought to reconsider Steffy again! Undeterred by Steffy’s claim that she wanted nothing further to do with him, Bill stormed over to her house, hoping this would be the visit where she finally admitted to being madly, hopelessly in love with him. Alas, it didn’t turn out that way!

STEFFY GIVES BIRTH!

After slamming the door in Bill’s face a bit too forcefully, Steffy faltered on her feet and took an awful spill, one that sent her into premature labor. Frantic, she phoned Liam to let him know about her accident, and he raced to the hospital to be with her. There, Steffy labored with a supportive Liam by her side, as Ridge paced the hallways in a panic. Back at Forrester Creations, Hope, Eric,

QUOTE OF THE WEEK

Brooke, Thorne, Quinn and Pam all fretted as they awaited news of Steffy's (and the baby's) condition. Dr. Phillips told Steffy she must give birth as soon as possible, because the fetus' heart rate was plummeting at a dangerously rapid rate! When the baby girl was delivered and ultimately deemed okay, Liam and Steffy bonded over their daughter.

LIAM MAKES HIS CHOICE

Ridge was overwhelmed to meet his granddaughter, and he urged Liam to think about Steffy and their new family and make the right decision for their future. Liam carefully weighed Ridge's advice, but also seethed with rage over the fact that Bill was responsible for sending Steffy into early labor. Steffy headed home from the hospital, still not knowing whether Liam would ultimately stay with her and the baby. When she got to the house, she found Liam waiting there with big news. Meanwhile, knowing that Liam was overjoyed by the birth of his and Steffy's child, Hope reflected on the reality of the situation and what it meant for her own romantic future.

RIDGE COMFORTS BROOKE

When Brooke took Wyatt to task for not speaking up until the middle of Hope's wedding ceremony, Quinn rushed to her son's defense and urged him not to blame himself for his father's duplicity. Despite being on opposing sides of the "Who should Liam be with?" debate, Ridge comforted Brooke in the aftermath of Hope's botched wedding. Ridge admitted to Thorne that it had been tricky to navigate the sticky situation with Steffy and Hope while still respecting his wife's opinion. The men speculated about whether or not Liam and Steffy might actually have a future together after all.

For a change, Sharon got to be the one saying, "I told you so!"

War At Newman Enterprises!

Nick and Sharon gave up their pretense that they could be "friends with benefits" and reunited officially. Not surprisingly, the reaction was mixed, with Victor amenable to their reconciliation, Nikki against it... and Faith worrying that they'd only break up again! While mending their father/son bond, Nick was startled when Victor asked him to come back to Newman and offered him the COO position. Of course, Nick wasn't as startled as Victoria, who hadn't realized she'd been ousted! Refusing to displace his sis, Nick confronted Victor about his latest manipulation. When their argument escalated, Nick threatened to stop his dad from visiting his children. Victor countered by reminding his son that Nick had no rights where Christian was concerned, since the boy was Adam's son! Shaken, Nick told Sharon that he wanted to move his family to San Diego. Unfortunately, he wasn't fast enough — Victor launched a custody battle for his grandson! Victor hired Michael, while Nick was represented by Brittany. Nick's stress level soared into the red zone when Summer came home with a new attitude that landed her in jail after she stole a car!

JACK SEARCHES FOR THE TRUTH

At loose ends after quitting Jabot, Jack tried convincing Neil to let him launch a cosmetics company under the Hamilton-Winters umbrella. Yet Neil refused, suggesting that his friend needed to take more time for self-reflection. Under-terred, Jack went to Ashley with the same proposal of starting a company to rival Jabot. Believing that her brother only wanted to use her for her cosmetic creds, she refused. At an impasse, Jack turned his attention to exploring his family roots, which meant trying to figure out his real father's identity! Meanwhile, Kyle continued to be two-faced and smarmy by voicing loyalty to Billy at Jabot while trying to get in tight with Victor at Newman! On the personal front, Kyle was stunned when Summer returned home, still seething about the way their relationship had ended!

IN OTHER NEWS...

Abby's relationship with Arturo deepened... until, that is, a jealous Nikki decided to fill her stepdaughter in on her own past with the sexy contractor! Furious, Abby broke things off with Arturo. When Abby later saw him dancing with Summer, she poured a drink over his head! Meanwhile, Hilary and Devon were thrilled to find out she was pregnant. Wanting to get even closer to her ex, Hilary tried to buy Chelsea's old penthouse. Determined to put up roadblocks between Devon and Hilary, Neil outbid her! Unfortunately, his plan backfired pretty spectacularly when Devon invited Hilary to move in with him! Across town, Lily freaked when she caught Shauna in Charlie's bed. However, the teen revealed that nothing had happened. In fact, Charlie had helped her hide after she'd run away from home. Not surprisingly, Lily didn't want the pair in such close quarters. The solution? Shauna moved in with Devon and Hilary!

GENERAL HOSPITAL

Mike's new nurse, Felix, turned out to be the perfect fit. After spending time with his son, Drew finally agreed that Andre's memory therapy was just too risky. Peter managed to escape the WSB and reclaim the flash drive with Drew's memories... only to end up as Obrecht's captive! While the grieving mother was determined to get a confession out of him, Nina was conflicted over the whole ordeal. Maxie, who was unwillingly moved by a letter from Peter, was released from GH, but baby James still had to stay in the NICU. After pleading not guilty by reason of insanity, Carly was remanded to Pentonville to await trial. Michael claimed to stand by Nelle, but in reality, he was secretly wearing a wire! After Alexis started digging into her daddy issues with Kevin, Valentin slipped her an envelope that promised her answers about the Cassadines. Julian, who made another date with Kim, was upset to learn the particulars of Lucas and Brad's adoption and wanted to know the mother's identity. And Kiki officially reported Bensch. Unfortunately, the creep talked his way out of it — so she went ahead and hired Alexis!

Is Nelle's fondest wish or worst nightmare coming true where Michael is concerned?

Heaven's loving light shines from within

Cardinals are among the most treasured gifts that nature shares with us during our time on earth. But this beautiful songbird's reach goes far beyond our physical world. Long associated with Heaven and the promise of the spiritual realm, cardinals are widely believed to be messengers from above, the embodiment of loved ones who have gone before us. Now, the symbolism of the cardinal and the comfort it brings in times of loss are celebrated in a hand-crafted limited edition. Presenting the "Messenger from Heaven" Illuminating Heirloom Glass Ornament, featuring the artwork of James Hautman. With one look at this precious ornament, you'll be captivated by the elegance of its design. In the center is a comforting sentiment in golden calligraphy. LED lighting inside the glass illuminates with a celestial glow.
