There's a great new show you've gotta see...

It's called Game Of Thrones and it is seriously addictive. Yep, seven long years after the world got hooked on GoT, I've finally come to the party. And it's amazing. I started bingeing Season One over the weekend and it's been very hard to drag myself off the couch ever since.

I'm officially converted, though I get the impression it's starting to annoy the NW-ettes, who are confused about why I'm suddenly wearing OTT furs and obsessing that winter is coming.

But as anyone who knows me can attest, I'm not always the fastest adopter of new things. (I famously asked a room full of colleagues, "Who is Adele?")

That's why I rely on the NW-ettes to keep me up-to-date with the latest and greatest – like they do in the mag every week!

But just when I think I know nothing (like Jon Snow!), someone surprises me with their own lack of pop culture cred. Like our deputy editor Hilary – who has never seen Mean Girls! Nope, this is not a drill! When she told us this last week, we sent her home and told her not to come back until she'd watched it at least three times. So not fetch!

Enjoy the issue,

Mark

News in a Flash!

Brad was all smiles as he left his lawyer's office in LA on May 23

After the court docs were published, Ange's spokesperson insisted, '[She] has been focused only on [her children's] health and needs'

Maddox (left) isn't listed in the court docs – and some are wondering if it's because there's still lingering tension between him and Brad following the plane incident that prompted Brange's split

Petitioner shall forthwith provide Respondent with each of the minor children's personal cell phone numbers… Petitioner shall not monitor the minor children's texts

If the minor children remain closed down to their father… it may result in the court ordering primary physical custody to Respondent

Ange ordered by judge

'GIVE BRAD HIS KIDS – OR ELSE!'

It's been going on for almost two years, but Brangelina's custody battle just took a dramatic new turn...

She demanded full custody of their six kids when she filed for divorce in September 2016, but Angelina Jolie has now been ordered to give ex-hubby Brad Pitt equal access to their brood.

In fact, Ange risks losing primary custody altogether if she doesn't follow the terms of a new temporary agreement. Eek! The judge presiding over the former couple's drawn-out custody battle has decided it's "harmful" if kids Pax, 14, Zahara, 13, Shiloh, 12 and twins Knox and Vivienne, nine, don't have a good relationship with Brad.

As well as dramatically upping Brad's visitation with the kids over the next two months, Ange, 43, must give him their mobile phone numbers – excluding Maddox, who at age 16, can make his own choices on the matter. Ange's also been banned from monitoring Brad's calls and texts with the kids.

"The court generally expects parents to make the best decisions for their children and family, but when a parent is proving they're not acting in that way, the court will start imposing sanctions," explains LA-based lawyer Christopher Melcher.

David Glass, another divorce and family lawyer, agrees that the judge's ruling is unusual, but must have seemed necessary if one parent was clearly "alienating" the kids.

"It takes a lot to move the court past estrangement into alienation, but once it's determined that one parent is alienating the kids, the court has no choice but to jump in and make pretty strong orders right away."

'ANGE CAN'T CHECK THE KIDS' TEXTS WITH BRAD'

Brad, 54, admits hardly seeing his brood has taken its toll on him, as well as them. "It's very jarring... to have their family ripped apart," he said last May. "Kids are delicate. They absorb everything. They need to have their hand held and things explained. They need to be listened to."

Kesha and Katy pose together at the 2010 American Music Awards

Kesha's shock accusation

'DR LUKE ALSO ASSAULTED KATY'

Kesha has accused music producer Dr Luke of raping Katy Perry, 33! The shock claims were revealed last week after Dr Luke – real name Lukasz Gottwald – filed new court docs in his four-year legal battle with Kesha, who has accused him of sexually assaulting her too, along with several other claims.

"On Feb. 26, 2016, [Kesha] sent a text message to Stefani Germanotta p/k/a Lady Gaga which repeated [Kesha's] false claim that Gottwald had raped her," Dr Luke's lawyer writes in the docs. "In this text message, [Kesha] also falsely asserted that Gottwald had also raped Katheryn Hudson p/k/a Katy Perry."

Dr Luke's lawyer adds that the information Kesha, 31, sent to Gaga caused the Joanne singer, 32, to spread "negative messages" about Dr Luke, 44, to the press and on social media. The producer's legal team has since issued a denial about the "malicious falsehoods".

"Katy Perry herself confirmed that Dr Luke did not rape her," the statement reads. "Kesha's accusation to the contrary is baseless and irresponsible, and it is disrespectful to both Katy Perry and Dr Luke."

At press time Katy – seen here with Dr Luke in 2014 – had not commented on the claims

Kendra & Hank

SPLIT GETS HOSTILE!

Kendra and Hank with their children Alijah and Hank Jr

Two months after Kendra Wilkinson declared April 6 "the last day" of her nearly nine-year marriage to Hank Baskett, the exes are having a hard time making a clean break.

While boxing up her belongings on May 28, the former Playboy model wrote on Instagram, "Why do I have to go through this pain?" And on June 5, in a series of since-deleted tweets, she accused her 35-year-old ex of recording her during an argument and blaming her for his past infidelity and the ending of his NFL career.

Hank and Kendra, 33, "both have so much animosity toward each other," a source tell Us Weekly. "It's become an unhealthy situation."

Still, despite the drama, the ex couple – who share kids Hank Jr, eight, and Alijah, four – say they are making an effort to act amicably.

Two days before Kendra's Twitter rant, they enjoyed a birthday party for pal Jessica Hall's daughter. "There was no indication there was any kind of friction," party planner Richard Harlow says.

Even the day after her epic rant, Kendra cleared the air on Twitter, writing, "I am done tweeting about Hank out of respect for my kids. Love will always win... we will all be fine after this hurdle is over." We hope so!

STANLEY NAMES BUB AFTER EMILY

Stanley Tucci loved his Devil Wears Prada co-star Emily Blunt so much that he married her sister Felicity – and now the couple have named their new daughter after Em. Cute! "Hopefully she will have the looks and brains of her mother and one of my better personalities," Stanley jokes of newborn bub Emilia Giovanna, a sister for the pair's son Matteo. Stan also has three teen kids from his first marriage to Kate Tucci, who died of cancer in 2009.

FARRAH'S SON: SHOCK MURDER CHARGES

Redmond O'Neal, the son of late actress Farrah Fawcett and actor Ryan O'Neal, was charged with attempted murder on June 11, with police alleging the 33-year-old is behind a string of violent crimes which took place in Venice Beach, LA, last month. According to reports, Redmond – who has a history of drug abuse – stabbed two men and punched another three. Meanwhile, he was already in custody for allegedly robbing a 7-Eleven in May.

ROSE: 'HARVEY SET UP MY COCAINE ARREST!'

Rose McGowan claims she's been framed by her alleged sexual abuser, former Hollywood powerhouse Harvey Weinstein, after she was indicted on a cocaine possesion charge on June 11. "There is simply no point in time at which the evidence places Ms McGowan and the cocaine together in the same place," says the actress's lawyer Jessica Carmichael. "It is now public knowledge that Weinstein employed underhanded tactics to 'silence' his victims." The star's case will go to trial in January.

BIEBS'S BAC 'HAILEY'S TH

JUNE 11

Hails couldn't keep her hands off Biebs as they made a splash in Miami

The on-off pair are serious about making it work this time

Clearly it wasn't too late for Justin Bieber to say sorry to Hailey Baldwin – because she's let him come crawling back after things didn't work out (again!) with his other on-off love Selena Gomez.

Biebs and Hails couldn't keep their mitts off each other during a romantic mini-break to Miami last week. They packed on the PDA poolside, partied into the wee hours at LIV club and worshipped together at the VOUS conference. Praise be!

"They love to party and they love their church organisation," a pal reveals. "They have finally cleared the air and realised they genuinely have a lot of fun together."

So much so that this time, NW has learned Justin's serious about Hailey and is telling her that she's The One for him!

"Of course, it's music to her ears," explains our spy. Aww!

Indeed, commitment is just what Hailey, 21, has been hoping for all along. She and

E ONE!'

JB had been pals for years before they decided to take things to the next level during a vacay in St Barts in January 2016.

The pair ended up splitting that April and Justin bounced from groupie to groupie until he rebooted his romance with Selena last October, before they ended it again just a few months later. Meanwhile, Hailey was most recently linked to her other good mate Shawn Mendes. But it's Justin who always had her heart.

"Hailey has always maintained a friendship with Justin, even when he was back with Selena," continues the source. "She is hoping, however, that this time might be different. Hailey would love a long-term relationship with Justin. She thinks Justin is smart, funny, incredibly talented – and the sexiest guy on the planet."

Now, some are even speculating that Biebs might be contemplating having a baby with Hailey, as he's made no secret of the fact that he's always wanted to be a young dad.

"By 25 or 26 I see myself married or starting a family," the 24-year-old singer has revealed.

And what beautiful babies they'd be!

'I like that he just does what he wants and he pays for women,' Heidi says of Charlie

Heidi ran Hollywood's most famous prostitution ring

He's got cash to splash

EWW... CHARLIE'S $400K HOOKER BILL!

Former Hollywood madam Heidi Fleiss has claimed her one-time client Charlie Sheen spent about $400,000 a year on prostitutes back in the 1990s.

Speaking to The Hollywood Reporter on the 25th anniversary of her infamous arrest, Heidi says that, while Charlie claimed during her trial that he dropped only $53,000 on her escort services, "he probably spent closer to $300,000 or $400,000 on girls".

Meanwhile, last week a mystery woman suing Charlie, 52, for exposing her to HIV alleged that he forced her into signing an NDA to keep the scandal under wraps.

The woman – only known as Jane Doe in the court docs – also claims she was confronted by four "thuggish" men with weapons, including guns, when she showed up to the actor's house, before she was led to a garage and made to sign the agreement.

Irina bans Bradley

'STAY AWAY FROM GAGA!'

With just four months to go before the release of his passion project A Star Is Born, director and star Bradley Cooper wants to hang out with co-star Lady Gaga 24/7 – but his babymamma Irina Shayk is struggling to keep a poker face about it.

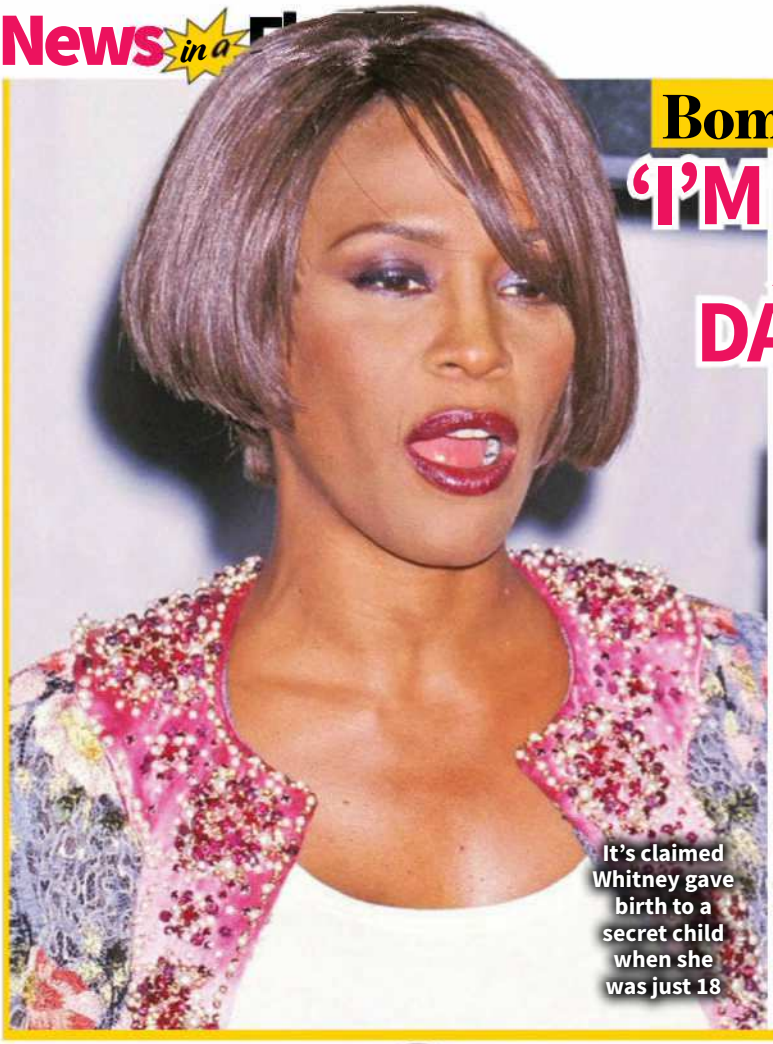
"Brad's with Gaga non-stop, both at the studio and at her house, often until the early hours," reveals our insider. "Bradley's such a perfectionist and he's still tinkering with the finished project and he wants Gaga's input."

While Irina, 32, gets where Brad, 43, is coming from, she finds it "totally inappropriate that he's seeing so much of [Gaga] at such odd hours", continues the source. "She's very threatened by the situation."

Uh oh – more like 'A drama is born'.

While the film is getting mixed reviews from early screenings, it's already generating Oscar buzz for Gaga, 32 – who has been labelled a "revelation" in the role of struggling country muso Ally. But will the success come at the expense of Bradley's relationship with Irina?

'I really relied on her,' Bradley says of Gaga



It's claimed Whitney gave birth to a secret child when she was just 18

Bombshell claims

'I'M WHITNEY'S SECRET DAUGHTER'

Whitney's family are adamant that Bobbi Kristina was her only child

A Missouri woman has made stunning claims that she's the daughter of the late Whitney Houston – and even has the documents to prove it.

Rena Houston reckons the singer gave birth to her in 1981 when she was just 18, and placed her in a foster home in St Louis to avoid damaging her career, which was looking very promising at the time, with music producers clamouring to work with her.

Rena adds that Whitney called her up in 2010 and then visited her with her other daughter, the late Bobbi Kristina Brown.

"Whitney came down the street where I lived in a big car," Rena, 36, recently told Radar Online. "She pulled up and we started talking. She said she was my biological mother and she wanted to be involved with me."

Whitney died in 2012 at the age of 48, accidentally drowning in the bathtub, although heart disease and cocaine were listed as contributing factors in the coroner's report.

When Bobbi Kristina died three years later, her mother's $26 million estate went to Whitney's mum Cissy and her two brothers.

"The family is clueless as to who this woman is or how she can possibly back up her claims," a source close to the Houston family says. Hmm...

Shailene is ready to be Ben's wifey

Big little proposal

SHAILENE'S READY FOR A RING!

The couple made their red carpet debut at the LA premiere of Shai's new movie Adrift on May 23. And according to a source, "She's telling friends that he's The One. She's made no secret about the fact that she thinks Ben is marriage material."

Big Little Lies star Shai, 26, first fell for the Aussie-Fijian, 27, while shooting Adrift in Fiji last year, and is now considering leaving Hollywood behind for him! "She's never been a fan of living in LA and loves Fiji," adds the pal. "She'd absolutely be up for starting a family there."

Meg tells all

'WHY I REALLY QUIT HOLLYWOOD'

The You've Got Mail star hasn't appeared in a movie since 2015

Meg Ryan has revealed she doesn't regret pressing pause on her Hollywood film career because she never wanted to be an actress anyway.

Fessing up during a talk with Gwyneth Paltrow at the Goop Health Summit in LA on June 9, Meg – who was dubbed "America's sweetheart" in the '90s thanks to a string of hit romantic comedies – admitted, "I didn't really aim to be an actor. I was a journalism major at school, and a curious person, and I wanted to go back out into the world and figure out who I was – am – in relationship to other things and other people and other environments.

"The whole idea of being a famous person... I felt like a witness to, I didn't feel exactly in it," the star, 56, adds. "I felt like a student of it in a way, or that I was watching it in an anthropological way."

Game Of Thrones might be ending next year, but we won't be without the world of Westeros for too long, as HBO has ordered a prequel drama that takes place 10,000 years before the current series. Yaaass! The show – which is being written by GoT author George R.R. ROBBIE'S GETTING A REALITY SHOW!

VINCE OFF TO REHAB?

Vince Vaughn was arrested on suspicion of drink driving in LA on June 11. "He was a partier but after he got married and had kids he settled down a bit but obviously he still likes to drink," spills a friend of the Wedding Crashers star, 48, who was released after posting bail of US$5000. "Vince calmed down a lot when he became a dad so this comes as a shock to his friends who are wondering if rehab might be a good idea."

Diane & Norman SHOTGUN ELOPEMENT

The couple are rushing to the altar before their bub arrives

Diane Kruger once vowed she'd never tie the knot again following her divorce from French actor Guillaume Canet – who's now married to Marion Cotillard – in 2006 after five years of marriage.

"Does it matter if you sign a piece of paper?" Di, 41, asked in 2016. "It doesn't make it last."

But it seems she's had a change of heart now that she's expecting her first bub. Yep, NW hears the actress is planning a shotgun wedding to her babydaddy Norman Reedus.

"They'd like to quietly make it official before the baby arrives and it wouldn't be a surprise to anyone if it was just the two of them," spills the pal. "They're very private and wouldn't have a big celebrity wedding – they'll elope somewhere remote instead."

While the insider adds that Diane's ex Joshua Jackson, who she dated for 10 years before splitting in 2016, would absolutely be banned from the nuptials, Norman's ex Helena Christensen would likely be invited if they end up having a bigger celebration.

Indeed, The Walking Dead actor, 49, and the supermodel, also, 49, have remained friendly since they pulled the plug on their five-year romance in 2003. The pair even attended their 18-year-old son Mingus's high school graduation together on June 6.

"Helena gets on really well with Diane too and is really happy for her and Norman," shares the pal. "They're one big modern family and there's no weirdness there, so she'd definitely be invited."

Having kids has always been on Di's to-do list

Pals worry Jim and Reese – who wed in March 2011 – have been hit by the seven-year itch

BIG LITTLE ~~LIES~~ FIGHT

Reese's hubby WALKS OUT!

The star turns to her girlfriends as things get tough at home

Nicole, Meryl and Shailene have been a great support for Reese

Watch out, Reese – Nic once boasted that her nickname was 'The Pool Shark'

FRIENDS FOREVER

The BLL cast aren't just co-workers – they're BFFs too! The gang took a break from filming the second season of the hit series recently to share a night out bowling and playing pool. Reese, Zoe and Laura also supported Shai by going to see her new flick Adrift (below right).

Nic managed to put a smile on Reese's dial!

She plays a woman whose second marriage is on the verge of collapse in Big Little Lies, and there are growing concerns that life's sadly started to mirror art for Reese Witherspoon.

As recently reported by NW, the star and her second hubby Jim Toth jetted to Cabo San Lucas, Mexico, last month to spend some much-needed quality time together after their busy schedules apparently led them to become "two ships passing in the night".

But there are now claims that, no sooner had the couple returned to LA, they got into a heated argument which saw Jim walk out in a huff to clear his head.

Oh no! Poor Reese!

When Jim stormed out, "Reese would have been totally shocked, especially after they ironed out their differences during their holiday," claims an insider. "Reese loves Jim and would have been very quick to apologise for making him feel like he was coming in second to her friends and work."

Fighting with Jim more and more as she struggles to balance her family with her career, which is better than ever, Reese is apparently turning to her Big Little Lies co-stars Nicole Kidman, Laura Dern, Shailene Woodley, Zoe Kravitz and Meryl Streep for advice.

The gang – minus Laura – had a girls' night out at a bowling alley recently, and the insider reckons it would have helped Reese take her mind off things.

"They've all really bonded and become lifelong pals. Between them all there's plenty of relationship advice to be had," explains the insider. "They offered to help her with her workload to give her more time with Jim, and also just had some good old-fashioned fun. They've all had their marriage struggles and are telling her not to dwell on the fight too much, as all couples go through these stages."

Reese openly admits she turns to her girlfriends when times are tough.

"I don't know what I would have done so many times in my life if I hadn't had my girlfriends," she said in 2013. "They have literally gotten me up out of bed, taken my clothes off, put me in the shower, dressed me, said, 'Hey, you can do this,' put my high heels on and pushed me out the door!"

And, of course, she's gone through all this before, so it's understandable she's seemingly so shaken up after the row with Jim, 48 – who she has son Tennessee, five, with.

Indeed, Reese's first marriage to Ryan Phillippe – who is the father of her eldest kids Ava, 18, and Deacon, 14 – ended in divorce in 2007.

"It was very humiliating and very isolating," she has said.

But pals are confident history won't repeat this time around and are hopeful she's not headed for divorce number two.

"No-one thinks Reese and Jim will split. They're absolutely perfect for each other," says the insider. "If anything, this will only make them stronger."

Our fingers are crossed... ■

‘Reese loves to insist everything’s rosy in her life. But there have been plenty of rumblings of trouble between her and Jim over the years,’ claims a source

Our two fave Gemini vegetarians are returning to the big screen!

It’s official! Elle Woods IS BACK!

Reese’s workaholic tendencies are apparently causing some tensions in her marriage. But that’s not stopping her from adding another movie to her already-filled plate. And it’s one we’ve been waiting years for...

Yep, the actress has confirmed reports she’ll be reprising her iconic role as Elle Woods in Legally Blonde 3. “It’s true,” she captioned an Insta video of herself floating in a pool wearing one of Elle’s bikinis. Yaaass – snaps for Reese!

The star will also be producing the flick – which will be released on February 14, 2020 – through her company Hello Sunshine.

While the plot is yet to be revealed, we’ve heard of whispers that Reese’s daughter might be joining the cast as Elle’s niece. OMG!

Ava is a perfect fit for the Legally Blonde world if you ask us. Not only is she a carbon copy of Reese, but she’s a real-life Elle!

Yep, like Elle does in the sequel Red, White & Blonde, Ava’s getting involved in politics. Already she’s thrown her support behind a number of worthy causes, like lobbying for tighter gun control in the US and the #TimesUp movement. We bet she’s mastered her bend and snap too!

Ava recently shared that she’s so excited to get to vote for the first time

'Jen and Amal becoming friends would have to be Ange's worst nightmare come true,' claims the insider

Jen & Amal NEW BFFs

The pics that Ange

Jen took her ride-or-die bestie Court as her plus-one

The star's seeing red over her sworn enemies getting chummy

Jennifer Aniston may have attended George Clooney's Life Achievement Award Gala with her long-time friend Courteney Cox – but she's got herself a new BFF in Amal Clooney!

The pair were spied having a cosy catch-up during the star-studded American Film Institute event, which was held in Hollywood on June 7. But one person who isn't so thrilled with their blossoming friendship is Angelina Jolie.

"No doubt Ange's ears were burning as word is she flipped when she saw the photos online," dishes NW's insider. "Apparently she went on a huge rant that Jen was a phony and a sycophant." Way harsh!

It's no secret that Jen, 49, and Ange aren't exactly each other's favourite people, given the way Ange "stole" Jen's then-hubby Brad Pitt while they were filming the 2005 flick Mr & Mrs Smith.

As for Amal, it's believed the Maleficent star doesn't hold her in high regard either.

Life & Style once reported that Ange, 43, "couldn't stand" Amal back when she and Brad used to hang out with the Clooneys because "she was filled with envy". And eventually it became an issue between best mates Brad and George, 57.

"Angelina would even knock Amal's looks and fashion sense," a source told the publication.

"Amal seemed to ignore it, but George didn't want to sit by and watch his wife get cut down."

So to see Amal and Jen now holding court over Hollywood together while she's been "exiled", would have been "a very bitter pill for Angie to swallow", adds NW's insider.

Still, it's likely that Jen and Amal, 40, couldn't care less about being on Ange's bad side. The duo have become fast friends in recent months. It's even been suggested that Amal was instrumental in Jen and Brad, 54, rebooting their relationship earlier this year!

"During the event they talked about organising a proper girly night out soon," adds the insider. "Jen loves spending time with Amal and thinks she's absolutely perfect for George. She's a big fan."

Indeed, after Amal attended her first Golden Globes with George back in 2015, Jen couldn't stop gushing over her. When asked by reporters how she thought the human rights lawyer handled things, Jen joked, "I think if you can save countries, you can walk red carpets. I think that's probably a skip in the park for her." ■

Soph & Ryan's shock new romance

'We're so IN LOVE'

Ryan and Sophie are head over heels for each other after mutual pal Jackie O played cupid!

Apparently there's a damn good reason Love Island host Sophie Monk isn't interested in a fling with one of the castaways on her reality show in Spain, and that's because she's already got a man waiting for her back at home – Married At First Sight hunk Ryan Gallagher!

This is not a drill, people!

According to industry insiders, the reality babes, who each failed to find love on TV, started seeing each other more than a month ago, and it was basically love at first sight.

"They were set up by their mutual friend Jackie O [the KIIS FM radio host] after Ry revealed he had a crush on Soph," the insider spills to NW. "Soph gave Ryan a call one night and the rest is history!"

With Sophie, 38, being over in Mallorca, Spain, while Love Island films, the new couple have been making it work long distance until the TV personality comes home in about three weeks time.

"They're talking every day on the phone for, like, five hours," the insider dishes to NW. "They're seriously smitten with each other."

In fact, things are said to be so serious between the pair that Ryan, 30, has already got the seal of approval from Sophie's sister Lucy!

"Lucy and Ry are following each other on Instagram and she thinks he's perfect for Soph," the source adds. "Lucy has always wanted Soph to find what she has – a loving family of her own – and she thinks Ry could be the bloke to give her one!"

And despite the age gap between the pair, "no-one's batting an eyelid at it because they're just so compatible".

This is said to be a dream come true for Ry, who's long held a torch for the bombshell blonde.

"I like a full-on plain girl who walks around in her trackies and is a bit of a bogan, like Sophie Monk," Ry gushed to NW back in December.

"Sophie's just got the personality that I love – you know, [the type] who just wants to do stuff with me and likes the stuff that I want to do. My best mate and a relationship, I love that."

If it does work out between the pair, we could expect to see some rugrats in the future, as Soph's already revealed plans to freeze her eggs when she returns Down Under.

And Ry is so on board.

"I can't wait – I fking love kids," he gushes. "I want between four and six."

Well, you kids better get busy! ■

THEIR ROAD TO LOVE

Soph and her winner Stu Laundy, 45, couldn't make it work post-Bachelorette, while Ryan and 'wife' Davina Rankin, 27, were a match made in MAFS hell. But Ry and Soph? Well, that's just a dream come true!

'I love someone funny and if he's not funny he just needs to laugh at my jokes,' Soph says of her soulmate. Well lucky Ry's a stand-up comic, babes!

JOSH SHATTERED

'CASS BROKE MY HEART... I was going to propose!'

Josh Moss's fairytale Love Island finale has all come crumbling down! We were just as devo as he was when Cassidy McGill, 23, ditched him for hunky newcomer Dom Thomas, 26 – and now we can reveal Josh had every intention of going all the way with Cass and was even planning to get down on one knee and ask the Victorian model/bartender to spend the rest of her life with him!

Whaaat?!

"I'll definitely propose," Josh, 25, spilled to NW, revealing that his intention was to pop the question with a ring bought at the airport on his way to the villa in Spain.

Oh, Josh!

Luckily for the loveable sports administrator, he was prepared in case it didn't go his way – by keeping the receipt!

"It's refundable," Josh laughs.

But he's not giving up hope on a happily ever after in Mallorca just yet.

"I wanna find love! I want The One, not the next one," fan-favourite Josh tells NW. "I want to find my wife and I want to settle down and have 11 kids! Well, maybe that's too many, let's go with nine. I'd be about that."

Better get cracking, Joshy!

Love Island* airs 8.30pm Sun-Thurs on 9Go! and 9Now

SOMEONE CALL SECURITY!

Sparks are flying in the villa – just not in the way we expected! Elias revealed to NW that it all kicked off after he told Justin the ladies thought he was "camp". "He didn't take that very well. He didn't speak to me for the last week," Elias spills, admitting Justin's calm reaction on screen was the exact opposite of what went down. "His reaction was quite adverse." And now with feisty couple Erin and Eden at war with the rest of the cast after sending Justin home, the villa is officially in meltdown mode! "Things got so heated they thought it would turn physical – a full-on punch-up," our on-set source spills. And the show's voiceover guy Eoghan McDermott confirms crew were concerned for everyone's safety. "After the arguments about Eden and Erin's decision, I know everybody got sat down afterwards and the psychs were there and everyone was saying and asking, 'Are you ok? Do you feel comfortable going to bed? Can we check in with you again in the morning after you sleep it off?' Everyone gave the all clear in the end but tempers really did start to flare up that night and it boiled over quite a bit," he tells NW.

POSH & BECKS DENY SHOCK NEW CLAIMS

The couple put on a united front as they face their biggest scandal yet!

David and Victoria Beckham have been married for almost 19 years and in that time their very public relationship has survived a storm or two. Hellooo, Rebecca Loos?

But when it was alleged last week that Becks, 43, had cheated with his daughter Harper's 23-year-old school teacher – and got her pregnant, no less! – it looked as if Posh and Becks were over for good.

In fact, UK bookies Paddy Power stopped taking bets on a Beckham split for the first time ever amid growing buzz an announcement was imminent.

The couple quickly denied the lovechild claims via their spokeswoman, saying, "There is no statement due, no divorce and a lot of Chinese whispers and fake social media news. This is all very bizarre and an embarrassing waste of time."

Yet it still left many wondering about the true state of the couple's marriage, which The Sun says is a "complicated beast".

"There are power battles, jealousy, a genuine love for their children and, above all else, a desire to keep the [$880 million] Brand Beckham going," stated the UK newspaper.

But crazy talk of getting another woman pregnant takes the drama to the next level.

Insiders have revealed that behind the scenes Victoria, 44, is "miserable as sin right now".

The star admitted to calling David – who was in the US – after she caught wind of the rumours, asking, "Are you divorcing me?"

But, instead of pulling the pin herself, sources say the fashion designer is too proud and embarrassed to end her marriage to the man she once boasted had golden balls.

"This goes further than Brand Beckham, although that's still a huge factor," a source reveals. "At this stage though, it's mostly about Victoria's willingness to overlook certain things, because she can't see a life without David and the kids all being together. She acts as though they're the happiest couple alive when everyone knows that's far from the reality."

Infidelity rumours aren't the only issues in the Beckham marriage though. Vic is not on board with David relocating to Miami where he's launching a new Major League Soccer team. She's visited Florida just once since the news was announced in January. The fact that David has teamed up in the venture with his party pal Dave Gardner – who Vic is no fan of – has left a sour taste too.

Meanwhile, David is said to be uncomfortable with Victoria constantly sharing intimate family snaps on Instagram.

UK journo Piers Morgan has claimed that the couple's four children Brooklyn, 19, Romeo, 15, Cruz, 13, and Harper, six, are being "pimped out" to boost the brand. And the fact that the whole family is expected to appear on the cover of an upcoming issue of British Vogue to mark the 10th anniversary of Posh's fashion label doesn't sit easily with Becks either.

'THEIR MARRIAGE IS A COMPLICATED BEAST'

"David does get really pissed off with how much she is putting the kids out there. It's becoming a real problem between them," claims a family friend.

Posh's label, while well respected, is struggling financially too and last year she was left humiliated by reports she'd received a $44 million cash injection from David.

But according to friends, David's got no problem with helping out financially – because a busy Posh is "out of his hair". Meanwhile, his partying and flirty friendships with other women are also, understandably, a source of tension too.

David's made no secret of the fact that an almost two-decade-old relationship is hard work.

"Of course you make mistakes over the years," he admits. "We all know marriage is difficult at times, but it's about working through it."

Despite the fact that Posh is said to be "seething, devastated and furious" by the latest upset in her marriage, she's refusing to call time just yet and has relied on a tried and true formula to deflect negativity around her relationship – by packing on the PDA with David.

Shortly after his alleged affair with assistant Rebecca Loos was uncovered in 2004, the couple were photographed frolicking in the snow together and walked a red carpet clutching one another's hands. This time around, they put on a stilted show of togetherness at a fashion bash in London on June 10. "So proud of @davidbeckham..." Posh gushed on Insta.

Despite the drama, Victoria's always angrily dismissed claims that theirs is a marriage of convenience.

"Do we stay together because this is a brand? Of course not," she slammed last year. "We stay together because we love each other and because we have four amazing children."

But that was before this latest hurtful scandal was outed. And it seems only time will tell if Brand Beckham can really remain united... ■

Ariana engaged

‘Don’t Pete

The singer’s family worry her new fiancé’s druggie demons may come back to haunt them both!

Comedian Kathy Griffin weighed in on Ari’s big news, tweeting, ‘Get a pre-nup girl’. Awks!

Ari can’t stop flaunting her three-carat sparkler – which cost $100,000!

Ariana Grande may have plenty more tears left to cry, as her nearest and dearest are worried she’s making a huge mistake by marrying Pete Davidson.

The pair shocked the world last week when they announced that they’re engaged – after just four weeks of dating!

“They are a perfect fit,” a pal says of the smitten kittens, both 24. “They are looking forward to a long engagement together.”

And Ari’s family are breathing a sigh of relief that the pair are, for now, in no rush to get to the altar, amid fears SNL funnyman Pete is still haunted by his drug demons.

“They would like them to wait. They’re concerned by his history and that he may lead Ariana astray,” alleges a friend.

Pete has spoken openly about his substance abuse issues and struggle with borderline personality disorder. He labelled last year a “fking nightmare”, and admitted, “I’ve been a pothead forever. I started having mental breakdowns where I would, like, freak out and then not remember what happened after. Blind rage.”

While Pete now claims he’s “quit drugs” and is on the right

NICK & PRIYANKA MEET THE PARENTS

Nick Jonas and Priyanka Chopra have already checked off a major relationship milestone – meeting the fam!

Yep, the cougar-loving singer, 25, took the Quantico actress, 35, to his cousin Rachel Tamburelli’s wedding in New Jersey on June 9. “This is a big step... [Nick’s] family enjoyed getting to know Priyanka as well,” reveals a close pal. “She fit right in!”

'Ariana [always spoke] about a winter wedding, which seemed a little cold, but she loves the idea of a winter wonderland-type scene. We used to laugh about her fun ideas of a snowy wedding day,' a close pal shares meds for his condition, a recent post on the website Blind Gossip suggested his mental issues may still be playing havoc with his behaviour – and could even be behind the quickie engagement!

"He has no impulse control. He is a mess. There is nothing we can do but ride this one out," a source says of the mystery star, who many commentators guessed to be Pete.

It's not just the substance abuse that's sparked concerns. The fact that Pete and his ex-girlfriend of two years Cazzie David ended things only one month ago – around the same time Ari called things off with Mac Miller – is raising alarm bells too.

Despite the drama surrounding the engagement, a head-over-heels Ari is all in.

"For both of them, this relationship is heaven compared to their past relationships and they're just clinging to that heaven and thrilled about it," a source tells Entertainment Tonight. "She's with someone who appreciates her and makes her laugh and just makes her feel good.

"In relationships, Pete is known to be the caring on and the full-steam-ahead guy," adds the source. "The combination of a girl who is yearning to be loved and mixing it with a guy like Pete creates this intense relationship that is moving a million miles a minute." ■

Jen and Cooke coordinated their outfits for a cute date in New York City on June 7

J-Law's SHACKED UP WITH HER NEW MAN!

Jennifer Lawrence is writing her own (silver linings) playbook when it comes to romance. Yep, while most normal couples wait a good few months before moving in together, we hear J-Law, 27, is already shacking up with her new boyfie Cooke Maroney!

The pair has only been dating for about five weeks, but Cooke, 33, "has pretty much moved into Jen's pad in New York," reveals NW's source. "She's not working on anything right now and they're spending all their time together."

They even had a recent double date with Jen's BFF Emma Stone and her rumoured new man Justin Theroux!

Meanwhile, J-Law's loved ones aren't worried she's moving too quickly with Cooke, as the art dealer already has the seal of approval from J-Law's pals – as it was her childhood bestie Laura Simpson who introduced the new couple!

RHONJ's Bange to Body

Teresa's mum bod on a New Jersey beach in 2014 was nothing to be ashamed of...

Will Audriana, Milania, Gabriella and Gia follow in their mum's footsteps?

NOW

... but then she got seriously ripped thanks to weights and cardio sessions five times a week!

'She wanted to challenge herself physically and is extremely happy with how she did,' a source tells Page Six ed-up mum rbuilder!

Does she even lift, bro? Clearly! Teresa's gone from Real Housewife to Real Hulk!

Teresa Giudice has had a rough few years. She returned home from an 11-month prison stay in December 2015, saw her husband Joe Giudice, 46, off to serve his 41-month sentence in March 2016 and buried her beloved mother just one year later.

With all the stress, "I have to keep my mind busy," the Real Housewives Of New Jersey star, 46, says.

Enter bodybuilding.

On June 9, Teresa stunned the globe when she appeared on stage in a blinged-out bikini to compete in the 40-plus bikini division of the South Jersey Bodybuilding Championships.

"[After getting into yoga] I was looking for the next thing," she says. "I also wanted to show my daughters that if you put hard work and time into something, you can achieve anything."

And she did. Despite only training for six months – albeit five or six times a week – the mother of Gia, 17, Gabriella, 13, Milania, 12, and Audriana, eight, came in third place on the day!

We chatted to Teresa to get all the goss on how she went from Real Housewife to extreme bodybuilder!

What inspired you to get into bodybuilding? It was something I've always wanted to do – for myself. I've gone to the gym since I could drive. I wanted to see my body transform.

Why do this now? Joe used to always say, "You're not doing that." I don't think he wanted me on stage in a bathing suit. Then he recently said, "You know what, you should do it." He's been so supportive, he's so happy for me. He was excited for me.

Has he seen your body? He's seen me with clothes on when I visit, but hasn't seen any pictures [from the competition].

How has your body transformed? I love the way my arms and back look. All my clothes are big on me. My body drastically changed because of yoga, but this was even more extreme. It debunks the myth that if you're over 40, you can't look good.

'I FEEL LIKE I LOOK SEXIER AND I'M MORE CONFIDENT'

Do you still feel feminine after bulking up? Oh yeah. I feel like I look sexier. This is the most confident I've felt after my kids. This is the best I've ever felt since having Gia.

Why did you keep quiet about this until the competition? I didn't want to tell people and then cancel. When I started telling people, I realised there was no backing out! I was nervous about showing my body. Yes, I've been in the spotlight, but being on stage half-naked is a whole different thing. I'm proud of myself. I kept on saying to myself, "Teresa, you know how to do this."

Will you keep going? Yes. I want to keep training. The next step is getting first place, and then we'll see from there. I'm very competitive. I want to win next time. ■

Guess the New Jersey Housewives will think twice about starting beef with Teresa now...

Kaia's mum Cindy admits she's worried about the teen. '[In my day] you could have boobs, hips... a little extra flesh. Now, the models are expected to be so much thinner,' she says

'Kaia would not want to lose more weight,' New York-based nutritionist and dietitian Alexa Fishback tells NW

KAIA GERBER

Super skinny model

Her famous supermodel mamma Cindy Crawford once advised her to "enjoy carbs" while she still can.

But Kaia Gerber doesn't appear to have been indulging in her beloved bagels, pizza and pasta since becoming the world's most in-demand young model. And fans are worried the star's getting slimmer and slimmer by the day after she stepped out looking rail thin in New York last month.

"Her bones were visible through her top and when she turned on the side, she basically disappeared," one concerned onlooker says of the It-girl, 16.

Now there's growing fears that the new queen of the catwalk may have succumbed to the fashion biz's mantra that models must be super-skinny.

"But it would be really sad if that is the case, as Kaia 100 per cent didn't need to lose any weight," an industry insider tells NW. Hear, hear!

"You can tell it's more than her just being 'naturally thin', because even when she is made up her cheeks are sunken in and she has bags and dark circles under her eyes," adds one online commenter. "You should not see that in a person Kaia's age."

Even more worrying, NW's insider says it looks like 175cm-tall Kaia might weigh as little as 45kg!

Still, the Marc Jacobs beauty ambassador insists she's got a good head on her shoulders and that this is just her natural size. "Staying in shape is definitely something I think about, but I don't let it get in the way. I'm active, but I'm not just going to wake up and go to the gym and not eat pizza. If there's pizza or if there's ice cream, I'm going to eat it," Kaia declares. "If you're not going to eat it when you're 16, when are you going to eat it?" ■

EMILY RATAJKOWSKI

Thinsta obsessed

Her fans are usually frothing over her fit figure, but Em Rata's recent weight loss now has followers urging her to binge on a burger or two.

Although she stands at 171cm, it's estimated that the model/actress weighs just 50kg. "Emily really can't afford to lose any more weight," says Melbourne dietitian Melanie McGrice. "She's already at the bottom of her healthy weight range."

Despite the concern from her fans, Em's still obsessed with flaunting her frame no matter her size. In fact, the 27-year-old is happy with her slender frame. "I refuse to live in this world of shame and silent apologies," she blasts.

KATE BOSWORTH

'I'm not too thin'

Kate has always been a skinny-minnie, but according to sources she's running the risk of slipping into total "bag-of-bones" territory. Way harsh!

Despite the worry about her weight, the actress, 35, says the fears are totally unfounded.

"[Being thin] is nothing to do with not eating. I'm like a whippet," says the star, who adds she doesn't starve herself and eats "all things in moderation". In fact, she lives by the 80/20 rule of eating healthy 80 per cent of the time, and indulging the other 20 per cent.

RUBY ROSE

'I am healthy!'

The Aussie actress's bony bod and jutting shoulder blades continue to make headlines despite her claims she is living a healthy vegetarian lifestyle.

LA-based dietitian Lisa DeFazio believes the actress is drastically underweight for someone of her 170cm stature.

"A healthy weight for Ruby would be [closer to] 61kg," Lisa suggests.

But Ruby, 32, has hit back at eating disorder claims and insists there is nothing to worry about.

"I'm running at an optimum level. I am deficient in nothing and have endless energy," she tweeted.

Hilary's up th DUFF

...but she's torn between two men!

'We made a baby girl! She will be as beautiful and sweet as her mother,' Matthew wrote on Insta alongside the same snap Hils shared

'THEY HAD BEEN TRYING FOR A WHILE'

Her ex-hubby is seriously raining all over her baby buzz

Hilary Duff's lips are no longer sealed on the super-exciting news that she's pregnant again!

Just days after her big sister Haylie welcomed her second daughter Lulu, the Younger star announced on June 7 that she too is expecting a baby girl.

"Guess what guys! @matthewkoma and I made a little princess of our own and we couldn't be more excited!!!!!!" Hils captioned an Insta snap of herself bumping out with babydaddy Matthew Koma. Congrats guys!

"This baby was no accident," adds NW's insider. "Hilary had been trying for a while and got especially broody after Haylie fell pregnant again."

And the pregnancy couldn't be coming at a better time, according to Hils's Younger co-star Nico Tortorella.

"I've known for a few months... Timing-wise, it's perfect. She's going to have the baby and we don't start shooting [Season Six] until next year. It's perfect!" Nico, 29, gushed following Hilary's big reveal. "She's been talking about having another baby for years and I'm so excited that she gets to have one."

But one person not exactly thrilled by the news is Hilary's ex-hubby Mike Comrie, with whom she has son Luca, six.

Hils, 30, and the former ice hockey pro divorced in 2016 after six years of marriage. But according to NW's insider, hearing that she's having a baby with another man is Mike's worst nightmare. "He always thought they'd end up together again and hopefully have another kid themselves."

The source adds that Mike, 37, hasn't really warmed to Matt, 31, since he and Hils started dating in early 2017, and that things are already very awkward at weekends, or whenever they're together with Luca.

But he's going to have to swallow his pride and be more positive now, says the source, because Matt's extremely protective and "won't tolerate the negativity".

Meanwhile, Hilary isn't letting Mike's less-than-enthusiastic reaction to her pregnancy get her down – or ruin her relationship with Matt.

In fact, Hilary is so secure in their relationship that she's apparently in no rush to get hitched just because they've got a bun in the oven.

"She and Matt had a rough patch last year, but they are in a good place now and she figures why fix it if it's not broken," explains the insider.

Hils herself has said she's more than happy to have a baby out of wedlock.

"I don't want to say I wouldn't get married again, but it's not important to me," she said in 2016. "I don't feel I would need to be married to have another child. If I felt strongly enough toward someone or if someone felt strongly about it, I might say OK. But it's not essential." ■

Sutton says Emily was 'very excited' to meet Mickey Mouse when she and hubby Ted took her to Disneyland in January

'We followed in [Peter's] footsteps,' Sutton says of her co-star

YOUNGER'S ADOPTION CONNECTION

The Younger cast is one happy family – and it turns out Peter Hermann (aka Charles) actually had a huge part in helping his leading lady Sutton Foster (Liza) start her own brood.

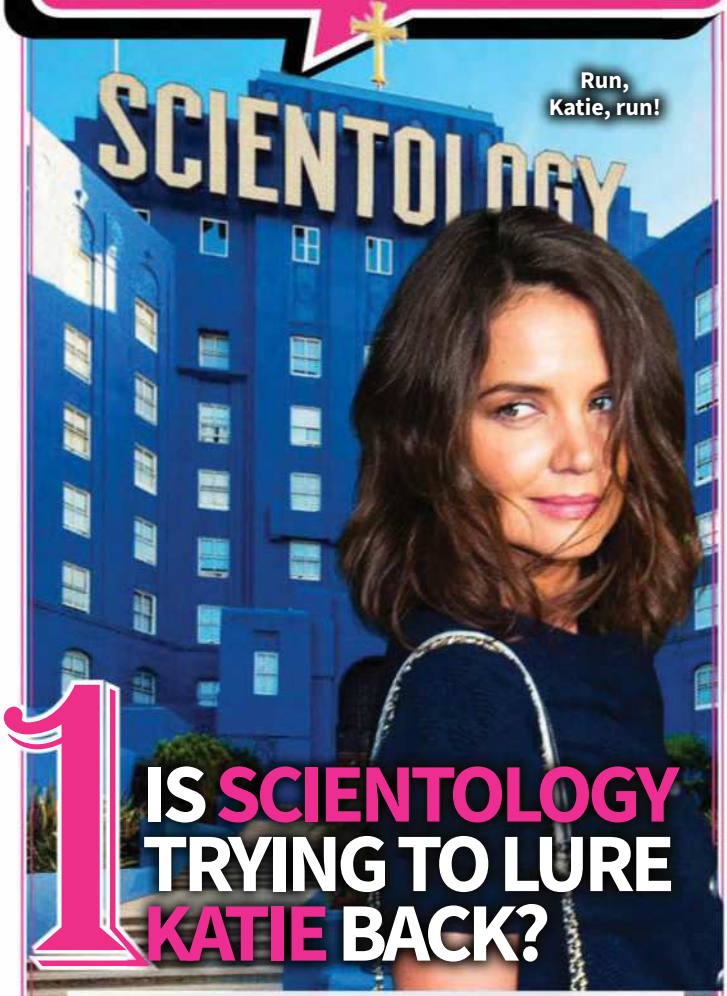
Sutton adopted baby girl Emily Dale with her hubby Ted Griffin in April 2017, and says she turned to Peter, 50, for advice about the process as he and wife, Law & Order: SVU star Mariska Hargitay, adopted their two youngest children.

"[Peter]'s a huge reason why we found our daughter. I'm gonna start crying when I think about it," says Sutton, 43. "I met my husband later in life and there are many ways to have a family. When we started approaching the road toward adoption, [Peter's] the guy we talked to." Aww! Just one more reason why we're on #TeamCharles!

RAINBOW FAMILY

After they welcomed biological son August in 2006, Peter and Mariska, 54, went on to adopt daughter Amaya (above right) and son Andrew (above left), both seven, in 2011. "Parenthood in whatever form, whether biological or adopted kids, it is an exquisite journey to bring a young person into your life," Peter says.

This week's BIG QUESTIONS



Run, Katie, run!

1 IS SCIENTOLOGY TRYING TO LURE KATIE BACK?

After divorcing their poster boy Tom Cruise in 2012, Katie Holmes was considered a "suppressive person" by the Church of Scientology. But now the controversial religion is apparently trying to woo her back into the fold. Whaaat?!

NW has learnt that top Scientologists are building a multimillion-dollar super church near Katie's family home in Toledo, Ohio, and reckon the star, 39, could attract locals to the cause.

"We have a lot of people from Toledo here already," church spokesperson Jack Sushko tells NW. "And we're sending out information to everybody who has been connected to the church over the years. I'm sure she will have been contacted."

Jack adds that the door "is always open" for Katie. "It would be great to see her back. She's a cute kid. I don't have all the data on what happened with her and Tom – but there are steps which can be taken." OMG!

2 WHY IS KYLIE HIDING STORMI?

Kylie informed fans last week that she won't be posting pics of Stormi for the foreseeable future

3 WHY WAS MATT FROM OCEAN'S

Kylie Jenner has been getting 'kidnap threats' and that's why she won't show more photos of Stormi

BYE STORMI: Kylie Jenner Has Ripped Photos Of Her Blessed Bb From Instagram

She's been posting one adorable photo after another of her baby girl Stormi Webster ever since she arrived on February 1. But last week Kylie Jenner announced that she'll no longer be sharing any snaps of her too-cute four-month-old and deleted all but a few obscured Stormi pics from her Insta account.

So what gives? Well, according to a source, the first-time mum, 20, is paranoid that posting pics of Stormi could lead to her being kidnapped!

"She hardly takes Stormi out in public, but is now making sure that she's got protection at all times," a klan insider reveals. "There have also been trolls [making] direct threats to kidnap her." Scary stuff!

"She isn't taking any chances though," adds a second source. "Kylie has upped her security and is no longer going to parade her baby around like an accessory."

However, some fans have suggested that the real reason Kylie's taken Stormi off her socials is because the tot's started to look even more like Ky's bodyguard Tim Chung, rather than her presumed dad Travis Scott, following the recent conspiracy theories over her paternity.

"That baby really looks like her bodyguard," commented a fan. "Like, for real for real." Krazy much?

CUT 8?

Matt Damon was confirmed to star in Ocean's 8 – but now that the heist flick's been released, audience members have noticed his cameo doesn't appear in the final cut.

Matt, who played con artist Linus Caldwell in the Ocean's trilogy, has always downplayed his involvement, insisting, "I'm not really in the movie a lot, this is a movie about the women."

However, it's now being speculated that his scene in the spin-off was ditched because of controversial comments he made last December that seemed to minimise the seriousness of Harvey Weinstein's alleged sexual assaults.

A petition calling for Matt's removal from the film generated almost 30,000 signatures. And while director Gary Ross has said that Matt, 47, was culled for "storytelling" reasons, it looks like protesters may have won their battle...

4 IS ONE TREE HILL COMING BACK?

Ravens fans rejoice – the One Tree Hill gang is returning to our screens! Well sort of...

Last week fans went into a frenzy that a reboot was on its way after the show's stars Hilarie Burton, Daneel Ackles, Robert Buckley and Antwon Tanner all shared pics from what Antwon called a "new project".

"On set with some oldies but goodies," Antwon tweeted.

Days later People mag confirmed the gang were indeed filming a new project together. But sadly they won't be returning to Tree Hill.

Instead, they'll be starring in a new Lifetime movie called The Christmas Contract, which will debut later this year. The flick follows Hilarie's character as she returns to her hometown for Christmas after splitting with her boyfriend.

Sure, it's no OTH, but we might check it out all the same!

Kimmy's attempts to turn back time have taken a kreepy turn...

Kim Kardashian has made no secret of the fact that Cher is her biggest idol. She even dressed as the singer to attend her Las Vegas concert recently, as well as for Halloween last year – alongside her BFF Jonathan Cheban as Cher's ex-hubby Sonny Bono!

"There is no-one more beautiful on this planet," Kim says of Cher, who, like her, has Armenian roots. "She's the ultimate legend."

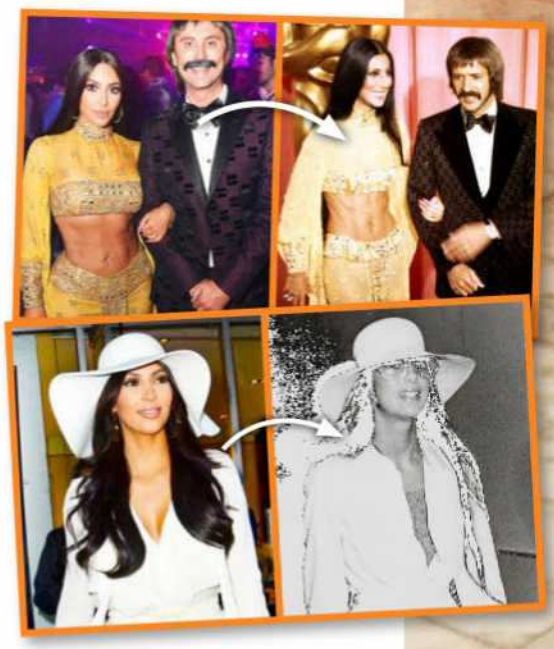
But NW's learnt that Kim, 37, has taken her obsession with the iconic singer, 72, to the next level – by spending hundreds of thousands of dollars to look like a young Cher!

"She can't stop poring over photos of Cher from back in the day. In Kim's mind, Cher was the most beautiful woman in the world back then," reveals a Kardash klan insider. "Word is she's been taking her favourite pictures into her surgeon's office to try and see what subtle changes she can make to help her look more like Cher. She's completely obsessed!"

And sources say that Kim isn't holding back when it comes to going under the knife, reportedly spending $330,000 on filler in her face and lips, as well as lipo to make her waist as tiny as possible. There's even talk she's had her jaw shaved to give her more of that "Cher look"!

But the mother-of-three might want to be careful she doesn't end up looking like Cher today...

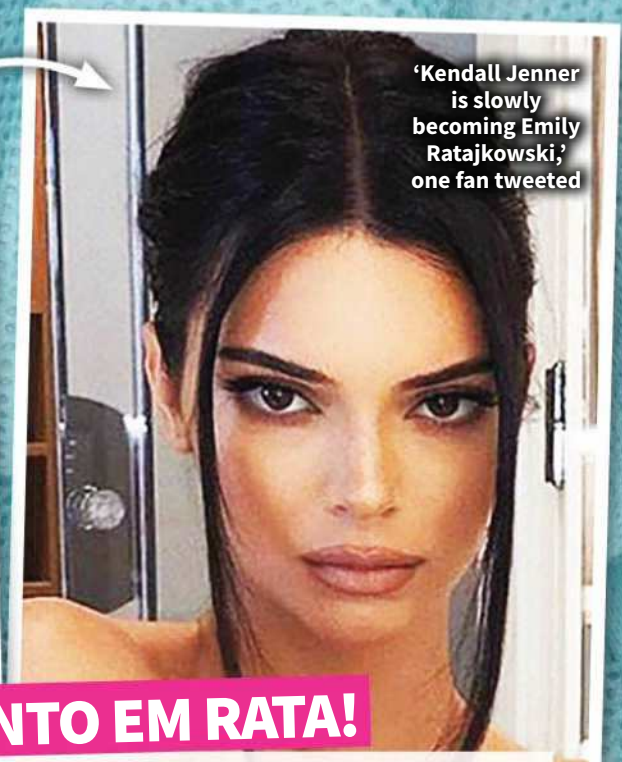
"Cher has had a lot of work done herself, but sadly it hasn't aged very well," adds the insider. "Kim needs to make sure she doesn't go overboard – or she could start looking like she's made of plastic!" ■



IF SHE DOESN'T STOP SHE'LL LOOK LIKE THIS!

KARDASHIAN SURGERY KLONES!

Biatch stole her look!



'Kendall Jenner is slowly becoming Emily Ratajkowski,' one fan tweeted

KENNY'S TURNING INTO EM RATA!

The internet went into overdrive recently after noticing Kendall Jenner looks just like her rival Emily Ratajkowski these days – and sources say it's no coincidence!

"They already had a similar look, but it definitely seems like Kenny's modelling herself on Emily," alleges an insider. "Kenny has her own really successful career, but she can see that people think of Em as one of the hottest women in the world. She'd love to have that same kind of sex appeal. People are convinced she got her lips done to look more like her!"

However, if she has turned to Em, 27, for inspiration, the supermodel, 22, would never admit it.

"They aren't exactly friends," adds the insider. "Kendall would be pretty red-faced if this got out!"

Meanwhile, it's also been claimed that Kenny's messed with her mug to avoid looking like her dad Caitlyn!

"Between her and [sister] Kylie, Kendall always looked the most like Cait," alleges a source. "She had the same thin lips which she's pumped full of filler and the same square jaw, which she's softened with more fillers."

CAIT'S MORPHING INTO HER GIRLFRIEND!

Caitlyn Jenner isn't just reliving her youth with girlfriend Sophia Hutchins – she's literally winding back the clock as she continues her crazy surgery spree to look just like the young model.

Most recently, the star, 68, appears to have undergone another rhinoplasty to streamline her snout so that it resembles Sophia's slender sniffer.

But while Cait's clearly stoked with her new nose, according to Massachusetts-based plastic surgeon Dr Dave E. David, "[It's] not a very nice one." Ouch!

Cait clearly loves everything about Sophia!

Dr David also believes Cait has overdone her lips, had fillers to get her high cheekbones and undergone liposuction to tighten her neck.

Meanwhile, not only are the girls twinning with their nips and tucks, but Sophia, 21, has hinted she's now shacked up with her cougar lover.

The transgender blonde recently uploaded a selfie in what appears to be Caitlyn's bed, captioning the snap, "Home," with a series of love heart emojis. Discussing their inseparable bond, a close friend tells Radar Online, "They consider each other soulmates and freely admit they couldn't imagine a life with anyone else at this point."

The pair are said to have a lot in common – and that now includes their faces!

Susan and Geena had some stiff competition for their roles

Geena says being cast in Thelma & Louise 'changed everything for me'

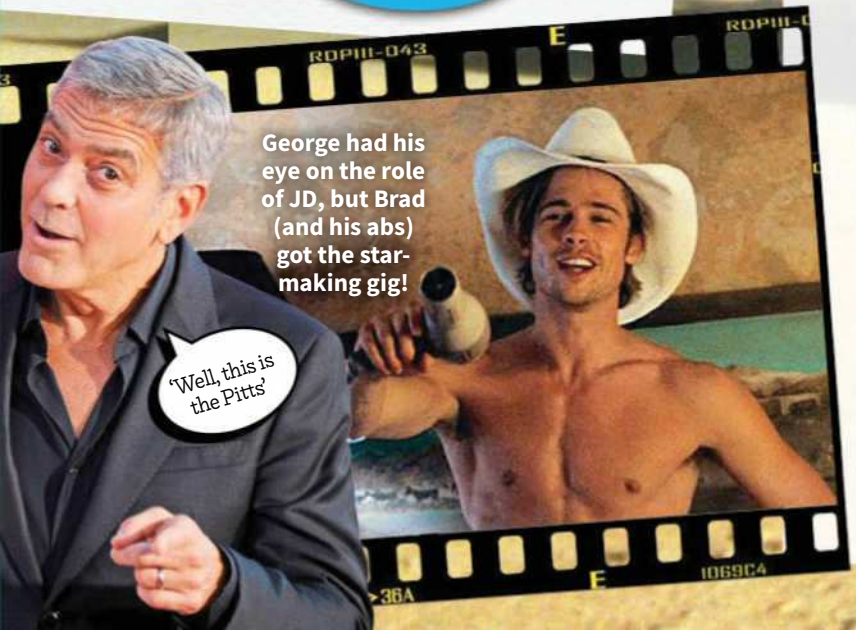
The secrets of THELMA & LOUISE



George had his eye on the role of JD, but Brad (and his abs) got the star-making gig!

Together they formed one of cinema's most iconic, butt-kicking duos, but Geena Davis and Susan Sarandon almost weren't Thelma & Louise. Whaaat?!

Yep, Jodie Foster and Michelle Pfeiffer were originally slated to star as the vigilante heroines in the 1991 flick, but ultimately had to turn down the juicy parts after production was delayed.

And once that happened, Tinseltown's top actresses duked it out for the roles in the Ridley Scott classic.

"It seemed as if every agent who represented anyone with a vagina and a pulse besieged [production company] Pathe and Ridley's company for a shot," author Becky Aikman dishes in her behind-the-scenes book Off The Cliff: How The Making Of Thelma & Louise Drove Hollywood To The Edge. "Producers and studios may have shied away from it, but actresses were desperate for the meaty, flawed, fully loaded roles it provided, with character arcs that would put the players' skills to the test."

Two of those actresses were Meryl Streep and Goldie Hawn. "Meryl and Goldie called me and said, 'Can we come in and meet?'" recalls Alan Ladd Jr, who was the studio chief at MGM/UA.

But first, let them take a selfie...

The biggest names in the biz – including one Mr Clooney – fought it out to star in the classic flick!

"They read the script – they loved it, thought the parts were great. Meryl thought that, at the end, one of them – Thelma or Louise – should live. Of course we didn't particularly agree with that," continues Alan.

Ridley recalls Goldie was "funny as hell" but ultimately believed the star (then in her mid-40s) was too old to play unhappy housewife Thelma – so the part was awarded to Geena, who was a decade younger. And it was obviously the right call, as both Geena and Susan ended up being nominated for the Best Actress Oscar for their efforts.

The director also greatly admired Meryl as an actress, but insisted the character of Louise "needed to be tough" – a quality he didn't see in Meryl's previous posh performances.

Susan was one of the few female stars who didn't contact Ridley about the film – but he called her about playing Louise. However, the star had reservations and wanted assurance that Louise's fatal shooting of Thelma's would-be rapist wouldn't be treated lightly.

"It's a huge thing to take another life. I am not interested in doing a revenge film," Susan has said. "I'm not interested in being Arnold Schwarzenegger. I'm interested in the fact that taking a life has consequences, that she has to pay for that."

'GEORGE AUDITIONED FIVE TIMES BUT LOST TO BRAD'

After Thelma's assault, and the man's murder, the women begin their life as fugitives, crossing paths with dishonest drifter JD – played by a young Brad Pitt in his breakout role.

Though he was only on-screen for a few memorable minutes, the part launched Brad's career.

But the Hollywood heart-throb has more than his acting talent to thank for winning the part. Geena admits she kept messing up her lines when Brad was auditioning with her because he was just soooo good-looking. Afterwards, when Ridley and the casting director were discussing who to hire as JD, she blurted out, "The blonde one. Duh!"

In a quirky twist, Brad beat out pal George Clooney for the plum part – a sticking point for the Ocean's Eleven star, who auditioned five times!

"The funniest thing is, I didn't watch that movie for a long time," George says. "I was really stuck doing a lot of bad TV at that time. And I had auditioned and auditioned, and it got right down to Brad and I, and he got it... When I saw it, I thought actually that was the right choice. [Brad] was really good in it, and I would have fked it up somehow."

Aww – don't worry, George, we reckon things have turned out alright for you all the same! ■

Jessica & Justin Baby no. 2!

We can all stop crying a river – the loved-up pair are finally expecting again!

CAN'T STOP THE (FAMILY) FEELING!

"I think it would be amazing to have a bigger family," Jessica shared on April 11. And with the couple posting adorable pics like this, we think it would be too!

Justin Timberlake recently crowed that he wanted to have "as many kids as we can" with wifey Jessica Biel. And it appears he's getting his wish, as sources have confirmed the couple are finally giving their adorbs son Silas, three, a sibling!

"Her inner circle is buzzing that she's nearly three months along with a baby girl, but she wants to keep it hush-hush until she's well into the second trimester," shares an insider. "They're over the moon and so excited."

The new addition couldn't come at a better time for the Hollywood power couple. After the massive success of her Netflix hit The Sinner put her back on top of the Hollywood A-list, Jess, 36, felt comfortable easing her workload in order to focus on having a healthy pregnancy.

"Jess is taking a step back to take care of herself," notes the source.

Despite all her careful planning during her first pregnancy, she ended up needing an emergency C-section, and now that she's juggling a career and a toddler, "she doesn't want to spread herself too thin", adds the insider, who cites the star's hands-on running of her family restaurant Au Fudge in LA as another toll on her time and energy.

With Justin, 37, also wrapping up his Man Of The Woods tour not long after Jess's estimated January due date, the pair will both be able to focus solely on the baby.

In fact, Jess may even ride along with her hubby on a few more tour dates so long as she's up for it – a plan she believes can help them stay connected through the pregnancy.

"It's so easy to get out of touch with your partner, especially if you're in one part of the world, and they're over in another part of the world," Jess says. "So having his back and he having my back in every moment of our lives... you feel like you're not alone in the world."

Indeed, with Jess having gushed that becoming parents "changed everything" for her and JT because "we're both in awe of each other", the source adds that the expectant couple are in "an amazing place now".

And while Jessica may have been initially hesitant to add to their brood with her career going strong and Justin on the road, "watching him with Silas has only strengthened their bond", dishes the insider.

"She trusts that Justin is completely dedicated to their family. Even if she would've preferred to wait another year, Justin just charmed her into it!" ■

Justin and Jess will have plenty of help when bub number two arrives, with JT's mum Lynn (left) and Jess's ma Kimberly being so involved!

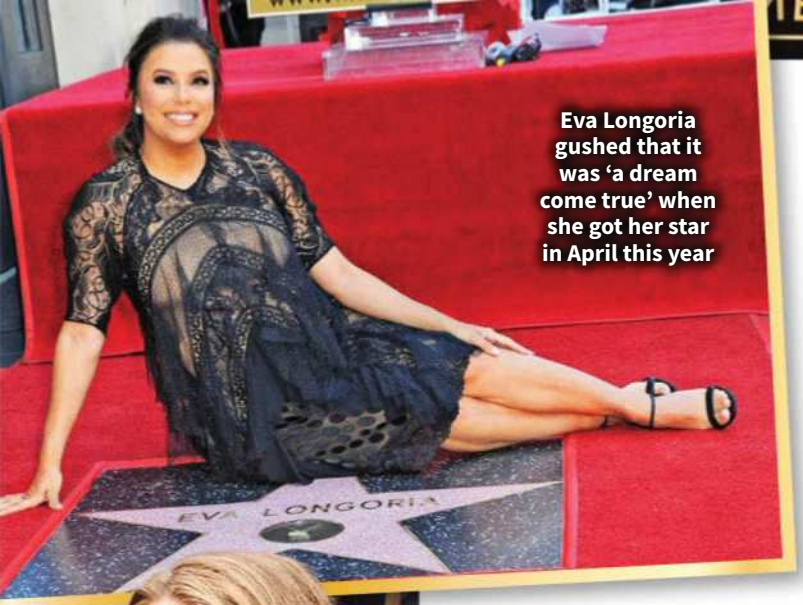
Mariah Carey was 'super excited and feeling so humbled' to score her coveted spot on the Walk of Fame in August 2015

Jennifer Aniston was honoured in 2012

What it really takes to get on the HOLLYWOOD WALK of FAME



Eva Longoria gushed that it was 'a dream come true' when she got her star in April this year

Think you're just handed a chunk of LA pavement? Think again...

Ah, the Hollywood Walk of Fame – a roll call of those who have truly made it in showbiz. Ever since the first permanent star was laid in 1960 – immortalising the director Stanley Kramer in concrete – fans have flocked to Hollywood Boulevard to get a glimpse of their idols' names etched in stone.

Meanwhile, any celeb given the accolade is suitably gushy about just how tremendous the career-defining honour is. Especially because it's "such a surprise". But is it really?

Tough gig

As it turns out, a celebrity has to put in a fair bit of grafting if they want to see their name in concrete. In fact, not only do they have to nominate themselves to be considered – or approve any sponsors wishing to nominate them – they also have to shell out a cool $53,000 for the privilege, with payment going towards the unveiling ceremony and the plaque's ongoing upkeep.

Each June, a committee from the Hollywood Chamber of Commerce chooses the potential honourees from a pool of 300 applicants. These will have been submitted by the celebs themselves, by the studios behind their current blockbusters or sometimes even by fan clubs outraged that their idol has been cruelly overlooked. Basically, it's a very harsh CV appraisal!

The criteria for selection is strict. The entertainer must come from the world of movies, TV, radio, recording music or live performance (or a combination), with a minimum of five years' experience behind them.

Unfortunately for Kim Kardashian, the committee is yet to see reality TV as a star-worthy profession. Awks!

"We're happy to consider reality stars once they get nominated for – or win – an Emmy, a Grammy, an Oscar," Ana Martinez, a spokeswoman for the Hollywood Chamber of Commerce, once said. "We'll consider them when they're legitimate actors or singers."

The celebs must also have a history of "charitable contributions" and be able to show clear examples of their philanthropic efforts. Overall, between 24 and 30 recipients will be chosen – a veritable who's who that must be approved by the City of Los Angeles. It's a tall order, even by Hollywood standards.

The terms & conditions

Of course, there are always Ts and Cs. All recipients must agree to personally attend their star's unveiling and bring along their famous friends, as this provides the city with a huge and unmissable PR opportunity, attracting hundreds of tourists.

But if you ever plan to scour the Boulevard for George Clooney's star, you'll be disappointed to learn he's a glaring omission – the actor was nominated, but refused to attend his ceremony.

And don't go thinking posthumous awards are any easier to come by. Every year, one award is granted to a celeb who is no longer with us, but only after they have been deceased for five years or more.

In this case, a relative must attend the ceremony. This year, Steve Irwin's widow Terri and kids Bindi and Robert accepted his posthumous star.

Special stars

Meanwhile, like all celeb-touched landmarks, the stars often become a place of mourning once the famous person has passed away. Even today, fans lay flowers at the pseudo-gravestone of their dearly-departed idols. Michael Jackson and David Bowie's stars are constant memorial sites, and when Carrie Fisher passed away in 2016, fans flocked to a blank star and used stick-on letters to create a makeshift tribute, as the Star Wars legend had yet to become a Walk of Famer herself.

As of this year, more than 2600 stars have been laid down on Hollywood Boulevard and parts of the adjoining Vine Street, but some make a more lasting impression than others.

Take, for example, Muhammed Ali's tribute. Out of all the big names, his is the only one to be mounted on the wall next to the pavement. This is because the late heavyweight boxer converted to Islam in the 1960s, and told the committee that he would not allow people to walk over the name of the prophet Muhammad. The otherwise super-strict Chamber of Commerce complied.

And then we have fictional characters who are simply too big to ignore, including Kermit the Frog, Bugs Bunny, Tinkerbell and Shrek.

But never forget, Hollywood is still a viciously unjust place – Minnie Mouse was only presented with her own star this January, a whole 40 years after Mickey received the honour. We stand with you, Min!

Making it big

There's no doubt that the "honour" of receiving a star on the Hollywood Walk of Fame is a loaded term, requiring a celeb to jump through hoops to nab that coveted spot. And yet, the majority of our favourite A-listers happily comply, and the chance to put their name on that pavement remains one of the strongest signs of acceptance into the upper echelons of Tinseltown.

After all, for the super-rich, $53,000 is pocket money – and more often than not, studios are happy to foot the expense if it means their actor hits the headlines at the right time.

In addition, while nabbing an Oscar remains out of reach for most entertainers, a spot on the Boulevard is inspirational, yet attainable.

Over the past few years, we've seen such stars as Eva Longoria, Ryan Reynolds, Jason Bateman and Chris Pratt proudly claim their piece of pavement – and the list only stands to grow.

So with that in mind, please excuse us while we update the CV and increase our philanthropic efforts... just in case. ■

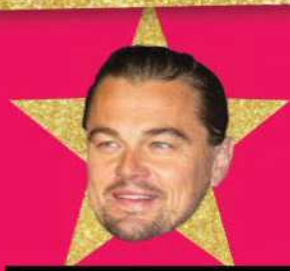
THE STARS WHO ARE A BOULEVARD NO-SHOW

BRAD PITT

While his first wife Jennifer Aniston has a star, Brad has never been nominated – and he's clearly too cool to nominate himself.

JULIA ROBERTS

It was a case of "thanks, but no thanks" for Jules, who said she didn't want to go through the application process.



LEONARDO DICAPRIO

Leo's yet to be honoured, but the Victoria's Secret Angels have their own collective star and he's dated most of them, so...

BEYONCE

Destiny's Child have a star, but Bey's yet to get her own. Well, when you're busy running the world, you don't have time for paperwork.

GEORGE CLOONEY

While he's had nearly every Hollywood honour bestowed upon him, George turned down the chance to have people walk all over him.

OPENING OUR HEARTS AND HOME

Meet Kaz and Jo

Couple Kaz and Jo are foster carers who currently have a beautiful baby boy in their care. They also care for other children in the short term.

Kaz is the biological mother of an 18 year old son and Jo the biological mother of a 21 year old daughter. They are a supportive and loving family unit and they say that being foster carers has brought their already close family even closer.

Jo said it was the right time for them to become foster carers. "I have been a carer all my life. Kaz and I agreed it was time with both of our kids all grown up to open our home up to children in need, to protect and love them for however long they stay with us."

All kinds of families, couples and individuals can become foster carers – whether you're married or de facto – including same sex couples – single, with or without children.

Jo said, "It's about opening your heart and being the constant for a child in their journey while they grow into wonderful members of society."

Kaz and Jo are realistic when it comes to opening their home as foster carers and open about both the joys and challenges it brings.

"With kids who are shy and not sure about you, to see them respond to you reading a book or playing games with them is incredibly rewarding and brings great joy to our little family," says Jo.

"The most challenging situations have been settling into a routine. Each child has different needs. Depending on the age of the child – it can be easier with babies, but for toddlers and little kids it can prove to be a work in progress. We are up for it though!" says Kaz.

HOT

Kate Hudson

Hello, sexy mamma! There are no muu-muus or baggy maternity dresses in sight for the pregnant actress, who flaunts her burgeoning bump in this floral frock by Preen. Gorge!

HOT

Isla Fisher

She's carrying a silver clutch and rocking matching metallic pumps, but Isla takes home the gold in her Tom Ford bustier dress. Sure it may be simple, but the LWD – that's little white dress, folks – fits the Aussie actress like a glove!

NOT

Kim Zolciak-Biermann

While we don't mind the Real Housewife of Atlanta's boho blouse, it looks like she was in such a rush to not be tardy that she left home with loo paper stuck to her heels. Awks!

HOT

Bella Hadid

Bella and Dior continue to be a match made in fashion heaven. The model is sheer perfection in this cheeky dress by the French fashion house. The red slingbacks and bag add a fun pop of colour while her lush curls are #hairgoals. Babe!

Hot or NOT WHO wore it better

Forget the fashion police, the NW-ettes are now sorting the style winners from the sinners!

Bella Hadid vs Jennifer Lawrence

If you've got it, flaunt it! Both Bella and J-Law are incredibly on-trend in this oversized blazer by Alexander Wang. However, J-Law's chunky boots aren't bringing us as much joy as Bella's sexy slingback heels. And we slightly prefer the model's matchy mini underneath too!

Leona Lewis vs Gwyneth Paltrow

Gwyn nabs this one by a hair – literally! The actress's boho-babe waves are better suited to her pale blue Rosie Assoulin jumpsuit compared to Leona's messy updo.

WORE IT ?

Jennifer Garner vs Kelly Ripa

Jen and Kelly are a pair of scarlett women in this Roland Mouret slip dress. Sure it may be simple, but clearly less is always more!

Nicky Hilton vs Kate Mara

It often comes down to the little details and Nicky's matching clutch adds the perfect finishing touch to her lacy green and white Valentino number.

Kim Kardashian vs Nina Agdal

It's not often Kimmy K keeps it kovered up on the red carpet, so we're a little surprised she missed the opportunity to flash the flesh in this slinky Versace gown. Meanwhile, the thigh's the limit for model Nina, who puts her best pin forward to take home the win.

How Carrie's FIGHTING back!

A little thing like a broken wrist ain't gonna stop this country babe from keeping her toned rig in chart-topping shape

Having spent months out of action while she recovered from a fall last November – which left her with a broken wrist and between 40 and 50 stitches in her face – Carrie Underwood looked strong and swimsuit-ready at a May 4 event for her Calia by Carrie activewear line. Her secret?

"She's got back in there as quick as she could," says Erin Oprea, who has trained Carrie for 10 years.

Nashville-based Erin – who also works with former One Tree Hill actress Jana Kramer – helped Carrie work around her wrist injury as she healed.

"We did little isolation exercises," she explains. "You can still work your shoulders by extending your arms in little rotations, and then as everything starts healing and you consult with your doctor, you can work your way up."

But even while taking it easy on Carrie's wrist, Erin says, "legs were still fair game!"

PUTTING IN WORK

The mother to three-year-old Isaiah declared her wrist "good to go" and thanked her doctor

Carrie is thrilled to be back in the gym after breaking her wrist in November

CELEBRITY TRAINER'S TOP TIP

FOOD BY THE RAINBOW

To ensure Carrie's refuelling her body with the nutrients it needs to restore energy and help with muscle recovery, Erin's philosophy is simple: Choose colourful foods. Her exception to this rule is, however, cauliflower. As well as being packed with nutrients and Vitamin C, the veggie is also rich in the mineral boron, which is believed to help build muscle.

and physical therapist in a January 19 Instagram post of an X-ray showing metal screws in her bone. Through it all, Erin says Carrie has remained "super-disciplined".

Her typical routine with her client included a combination of cardio ("Carrie does most of it on her own," says Erin) weight training and Tabata workouts – a form of high-intensity interval training, which includes "20-second bursts of exercise and 10 seconds of rest, for eight rounds" done for a total of four super tough minutes. "You can do it anywhere," adds Erin.

And while a variety of moves can be performed in Tabata intervals, she says a combination of squats and lunges as her "favourite exercises".

Another Carrie go-to is the pull-up. "It'll take forever to get to the point where you can do them," Erin admits, but mastering the fitness fundamental is a "fantastic" way to get a toned back.

EAT SMART

Of course, to achieve a body like Carrie's, just hitting the gym won't cut it. An hour before exercising, Erin recommends her clients down a shot of "beet, lemon and ginger" juice, which "opens blood vessels to let oxygen in, so you don't get winded".

Post-sweat, the trainer advises replenishing with "proteins and carbs" – and paying attention to the colours of your plate. As a rule of thumb, she says, "When it's light, it ain't right, with the exception of cauliflower."

Since eating healthy on the go can be a challenge, Erin also suggests prepping snacks in advance. It's a multipronged approach her "determined" clients are willing to commit to – especially Carrie, who she says "kicks ass, man". ■

FOOD FIGHT
Which is better?

MUESLI vs GRANOLA

THE WINNER: MUESLI

"Granola looks similar to muesli but the sugar content can be jaw-dropping," says UK-based nutritionist Rhiannon Lambert. Not all muesli is created equal, though. "Avoid products with massive chunks of dried fruit to reduce sugar and stick to brands made with a whole rolled-oat base, not wheat flakes."

WRAP vs BREAD

THE WINNER: BREAD (BUT IT HAS TO BE WHOLEMEAL)

Thanks to added oils, wraps can be much higher in fat than your average white slice, as well as containing more salt. "Bread has been wrongly demonised because too many of us have been eating white rather than wholemeal, which contains fibre," says Rhiannon.

TAP WATER vs COCONUT WATER

THE WINNER: TAP

For most of us, plain water is enough for hydration – the exception is athletes. "If you're sweating a lot and you need to replenish your electrolyte levels fast, coconut water would help," says Rhiannon. "But some coconut brands add sugar, and therefore calories, so there are no extra benefits."

TEA vs COFFEE

THE WINNER: BOTH

Good news – both beverages have bonuses! One recent study showed that coffee can decrease your risk of early death, while black tea is one of the biggest sources of flavonoids, which may help prevent cancer. Cheers to that!

YOUR Stars

The week ahead with Adele Lang

Nicole Kidman
June 20, 1967
The Big Little Lies star and her fellow Geminis are advised to focus on home life this week!

HAPPY BIRTHDAY

MON Paul McCartney, 76 TUES Macklemore, 35. Paula Abdul, 56. Hugh Dancy, 43 WED Nicole Kidman, 51. Lionel Richie, 69 THURS Chris Pratt, 39. Lana Del Rey, 33. Prince William, 36. Jussie Smollett, 35 FRI Anwar Hadid, 19. Porsha Williams, 36. Meryl Streep, 69 SAT Selma Blair, 46 SUN Solange Knowles, 32. Mindy Kaling, 39. Stassi Schroeder, 30.

Gemini MAY 22 – JUNE 21

The Sun's in your own sign and it's determined to make you shine both inside and out. This is great news if you're presently on the lookout for love. For once, you won't have to do the running. Potential suitors will be naturally drawn to your radiant presence.

Cancer JUNE 22 – JULY 23

Changing a (bad) habit of a lifetime is difficult but not impossible. According to this week's planetary patterns, you're definitely ready to make a radical change in a positive, productive way. Encouragement from other people is vital. Avoid anyone who tries to dissuade you!

Leo JULY 24 – AUG 23

The influence of Mars might be making you a bit too bossy with a partner or suitor. Pushing for your own way all the time isn't going to do you any favours in the love stakes, that's for sure. Save yourself near-future heartache by reining in any domineering tendencies.

Virgo AUG 24 – SEPT 23

Lunar activity suggests your abilities to talk up a storm won't go to waste this week. Indeed, any project you're keen to get greenlit by somebody else will benefit from your verbal skills right now. As long as you've got enough facts to back up your grand plans, of course!

Libra SEPT 24 – OCT 23

Your money planet Pluto is on the back foot at present. Unless you make an effort to cut back on unnecessary spending over the next seven days, you'll possibly struggle thereafter. One of your nearest and dearest might race to the rescue, but don't bank on it.

Scorpio OCT 24 – NOV 22

Scorpios considering a move are advised to stay put (for the time being, at least). Running away from problems at home or at work isn't the answer. Truth be told, you're more likely to find happiness by facing current difficulties head on. Resist taking the easiest route out!

Sagittarius NOV 23 – DEC 21

People some years your junior may look to you for advice in forthcoming days. While you mightn't think what you have to say is all that important, your ruler Jupiter reckons it most definitely is. Life experience isn't something you're short of. Use it to inform youngsters who need help.

Capricorn DEC 22 – JAN 20

Doing the right thing isn't always guaranteed to win you karmic points. Saturn says events that transpire over the next seven days could make you question why you bother being kind when all you get is ingratitude in return. Don't lose hope – your goodness will be rewarded.

Aquarius JAN 21 – FEB 19

Neptune's retrograde at the start of this week could create delays in either payments or purchases. Although you're usually a laid-back sort of sign, anything involving money does have an amazing capacity to wind you up. Try not to let it. Tears or tantrums won't help.

Pisces FEB 20 – MAR 20

Affairs of the heart can be improved greatly just by learning to enjoy the moment. Your love planet Mercury advises against dwelling on the past or projecting too far into the future. Recreating what you once had is doomed to failure. Relax a little and embrace the sheer power of now.

Aries MAR 21 – APRIL 20

Mercury wants you to get out more over the next seven days. Connecting with other people is good for your emotional wellbeing and should help chase any present blues away. Although you might be tempted to stick to your old stomping grounds, visit different haunts instead.

Taurus APRIL 21 – MAY 21

A financial dispute between you and a loved one could spoil what is otherwise destined to be a wonderful week. Rather than fight over money, why not calmly talk things through instead? A parent, partner or pal is more likely to be willing if you don't issue threats.

'This was a 23-year-old woman who survived... for 41 days at sea,' Shailene says of her character

'The beauty of this is, yes, it's a survival story. But really, it's a love story,' says Shailene, with co-star Sam

Shailene's LOST AT SEA

Shai and Sam rough the seas to bring their latest tearjerker to life

Back in 1983, Tami Oldham and her fiancé Richard Sharp were on a romantic adventure celebrating their recent engagement. They were sailing from Tahiti to San Diego when a terrifying category-five hurricane left the couple fighting for their lives for 41 days aboard a tiny sailboat.

Of course, every epic true story needs a Hollywood power couple to bring it to life on the big screen, and in this case Big Little Lies actress Shailene Woodley and Me Before You heart-throb Sam Claflin dove straight in. But neither actor had any clue what they had signed up for until they arrived on set to film the flick in open waters two hours off the coast of Suva, Fiji.

"I knew nothing about sailing beforehand," the actress admits. "I don't know that I'd ever choose to go out on a sailboat alone."

AMERICA'S NEXT TOP MODEL IS BACK!

And so is queen Tyra Banks! Yep, the model returns to her rightful throne after Rita Ora's brief stint in charge, and she is ready to shake things up. Season 24 features the most diverse range of contestants yet, with hopefuls aged 18 and over allowed to apply. Whose idea was it to implement a 27-year-old age limit into the competition anyway? Joined on the panel by model Ashley Graham, Paper mag's chief creative officer Drew Elliott and celeb stylist Law Roach, Tyra is ready to remix the "definition of beauty and empowered women". "We celebrate beauty in all of us, all shapes, all sizes and all colours," Tyra explains. "The fight continues to show you that you are beautiful – that's why I'm back." Mix all this with cameos from Jourdan Dunn and Eva Marcille, and you have a show, hun.

BETTER THINGS SEASON 2

This drama follows divorced actress Sam (Californication's Pamela Adlon), who's raising three kids solo. From sex, drugs and drinking, to the emotional damage that parents do to their kids, no topic is off limits in this frank series.

Returns 9.30pm Thursday on Showcase

40-foot waves like Tami did, being out at sea was pretty rough for the first few days. "When you're seasick and finally able to throw up, you kind of get your footing again," Shailene says. "I wasn't able to do that. It was just an all-day nausea and quite miserable."

"And the stench of vomit started creeping up on deck," adds Sam. "Pretty much everybody threw up at least once." Ew!

But like true pros, the pair channelled their discomfort into strengthening their performances.

"What the audience sees is a look of nervousness," Shailene laughs. "But it's really Sam and I trying not to puke when the cameras are rolling."

Despite the weight loss that comes from endless days of nausea, fears of shark attacks and long days at sea, the gang found the experience to be a valuable bonding session.

"When you're stuck on a boat with 15 people every single day, you're dealing with things like the toilets breaking and everyone just having to jump in the ocean to use the bathroom," Shailene reveals.

"There's a lot of discomfort and bodily smells. And a lot of humour. That's the glue that keeps everyone together."

Yeah, we bet it does!

RYAN PHILLIPPE'S A SHARP SHOOTER

The second season of his thrilling drama series Shooter had to be cut short when he broke his leg back in July 2016, but Ryan Phillippe is returning to action as Bob Lee Swagger!

The show – which is based on Stephen Hunter's novels and the 2007 film of the same name – follows veteran sniper Bob, who's been coaxed out of exile to prevent an assassination attempt on the president.

But as the series moves into its third season, we will finally learn the mysterious details surrounding the death of Bob's father Earl. And the discovery leads Bob toward a surprising conspiracy that hits close to home. Prepare for the feels.

Meanwhile, Just Married star Raymond J. Barry joins the series as August Russo – a former member of Earl's unit, who now uses his wartime skills to train new operatives at a secret facility – while Get Smart star Felisha Terrell plays Carlita, a military operative who was trained as one of Bob's enemies.

The death of her commander, however, sets her termination in motion, meaning she may soon find a friend in Bob despite their differences. Dun dun...

Anna, Jack and Chris are making their new family unit work

"I DON'T KNOW IF HE THINKS IT'S COOL, BUT MY SON JACK HAS SEEN ALL THE FILMS I'M IN"

Pratt RCE SUCKS... NOSAURS DON'T!'

With Jurassic World: Fallen Kingdom set to top the box office, Chris Pratt is fast becoming the most bankable Chris in Hollywood.

While Hemsworth, Evans and Pine all have their names attached to super-successful flicks, it's Pratt who's dominating the big screen in back-to-back blockbusters like Guardians Of The Galaxy, Lego Movie and Avengers: Infinity War.

Not bad for someone who found fame as "the chubby guy" on US sitcom Parks And Recreation.

But in the midst of his success, Chris still has to deal with the heartbreak of divorce following his split from wife Anna Faris in August 2017. And he admits the breakdown of their relationship has been incredibly tough.

"Divorce sucks," says Chris. "It's not ideal, but yeah, I think both of us are actually doing better..."

A split isn't going to get him down, though. He's throwing his energy into the release of the much-hyped Jurassic World sequel.

BACK WITH A ROAR

Three years ago, Chris's character Owen had managed to survive a mini dinosaur apocalypse on Isla Nublar. But things are about to get real in the follow-up, as Owen reunites with Bryce Dallas Howard's Claire on a mission to save the remaining dinosaurs from an active volcano on the island.

It's during this mission they stumble upon a conspiracy that could see dinosaurs rule the Earth once again and, just like that, their original plan goes out of the window.

Instead, they shift their focus to figuring out how to save his "pet" velociraptor Blue while preventing the big, bad reptiles from finding their way into the real world. Eek!

"People have high expectations for sequels," says Chris, 38. "I think with this one those expectations will be met, if not surpassed. It opens up a whole new chapter."

And Chris insists the story won't let down fans. "I was thrilled when I got the script," he explains. "The first one was a disaster film. Now we're shifting the tone over to suspense.

"This movie really does open up a whole new concept for the Jurassic movies moving forward."

Yep, everything is bigger than before with terrifying dinosaurs, crazier stunts and a ton of suspense – none of which, says Bryce, could have been fully executed without the support of Chris.

"Chris is someone who is constantly working to be the best version of himself for others," she gushes. "He has gravitas – he's extraordinarily centred and he's an extremely thoughtful actor."

In fact, Bryce reckons she knows exactly why his star has risen so high. "He has all the things that we want in a great, classic leading man," she says. "He's charismatic, he's funny and he's attractive." Indeed!

FAMILY GUY

When Chris isn't saving the world on screen, he's focused on raising his son Jack, five, who he shares with Anna, and loves bringing on set.

"I don't know if he thinks it is cool, but he has seen all the movies that I'm in," he says.

While some worry Jack's too young to deal with terrifying dinosaurs, Chris reckons his son isn't fazed – in fact, he's ready for Jack to toughen up!

"I was just watching Jaws the other day with my son and he's like, 'Where's the shark?'" Chris explains of Jack's disappointment in the movie. "[I thought in my head, 'You're] disowned! Get the fk outta here!'"

But Chris was determined to prove the movie is scary... "During the third act battle, I was like, 'I'll show you the shark, get in here!' He was like, 'Aaaaahh!' and I was like [sternly], 'You'll sit and watch!'" Chris laughs.

Despite his tough-love approach to parenting, Bryce believes Chris is a good role models for kids, including her son Theodore, 11, and daughter Beatrice, six. "He's just a beautiful human being inside and out, and incredibly honourable," she says. "For my daughter, for my son, I'm so glad that they have someone like that to look up to in movies."

BIG THINGS TO COME

Chris isn't taking any of his success for granted. It's just work, work, work, as the script for Guardians Of The Galaxy Vol. 3 is done and dusted. Plus time will tell if his character Star-Lord plays a part in the next Avengers film too.

Meanwhile, there's also going to be a third Jurassic World film, so it's safe to say things won't be slowing down for Chris anytime soon. And with his 39th birthday also coinciding with the film's release, we have a feeling he's gonna have a lot to celebrate.

Jurassic World: Fallen Kingdom* is in cinemas Thursday

Owen and Claire's mission takes a mysterious turn

Dinosaurs are friends to Chris. Well, mostly!

ALL STARS S4

THE BIG RU-VEAL

Warning hunties – there are major All Stars Season Four spoilers ahead

Season 10 of RuPaul's Drag Race hasn't even sashayed away yet, but the fourth season of the All Stars franchise has already experienced a major leak.

Yep, insiders on set of the popular drag competition have revealed some of the queens who'll be returning to Ru's runway to vie for a place alongside Chad Michaels, Alaska and Trixie Mattel in the Drag Race Hall of Fame! And Team NW is literally shook!

You ready?

Season Eight's leggy finalist Naomi Smalls is preparing to strut back into the workroom alongside fellow finalist, make-up artist-turned-drag queen Kim Chi. Shea Coulee and Trinity Taylor from Season Nine are giving the comp a second crack after missing out on the crown to Sasha Velour. Miz Cracker and The Vixen are sashaying straight off the Season 10 runway and onto All Stars, and they'll be joined by Season Seven star Pearl, who had a change of heart after being convinced it was a good idea at DragCon.

In probably the most exciting news to date, fan favourite and Season Nine's Miss Congeniality Valentina has given the series the green light after being infamously booted for not knowing the lyrics during the Lip Sync For Your Life challenge. Yaaass!

And Lattrice Royale and Manila Luzon have been given their third opportunity after being eliminated as a duo in All Stars Season One. Whaaat?!

"RuPaul will state he's letting one team that went home too early have another chance individually," says the source.

We know what you're thinking: Why haven't you mentioned Miss Vanjie yet?

She'll be back too – in Season 11!

Vaaaanjie!

RuPaul's weeks out from the official announcement, but the cast has already leaked!

REALITY BITES

JAX PROPOSES!

Vanderpump Rules star Brittany Cartwright's been showing off her new three-carat sparkler after her co-star ladies man Jax Taylor put a ring on it recently. And the bride-to-be's revealed Pump fans will get a glimpse at how the proposal went down on Season Seven. See, miracles do happen!

BRANDI'S EPIC THREESOME

Brandi Glanville's no one-man woman! In fact, the star's bragging she's currently got three men on the go in three different postcodes. "There is one in Venice, there is one in Beverly Hills and there is one in Pasadena," says the former Real Housewife, 45, who admits she's only seeing "dumb boys". "All three, I'm using," she brags.

Deena ditches the Shore!

The Shore cast are dropping like super-tanned flies

Meatball down! Deena Cortese was MIA when Season Two of Jersey Shore Family Vacation began filming in Las Vegas last week, prompting rumours that the reality star's expecting her first child with husband Chris Buckner. Before you get too excited, Deena's already shot down stork talk, revealing she's taking time off to deal with "personal stuff". What does that even mean, Dee?! Whispers among the inner circle are that Dee is not planning on returning to the series at all, and with co-stars Ronnie Ortiz-Magro and Mike "The Situation" Sorrentino also in doubt, could the curtain be closing on our fave guidos and guidettes again already? It looks likely! Yep, Ronnie was reportedly caught up in a domestic drama at Planet Hollywood in Las Vegas on June 7 when his babymamma Jen Harley called the cops. "I did not hit him, I did not punch him," claims Jen, who police later determined to be the "aggressor". Meanwhile, Mike has his own legal, ahem, situation to sort out. He's managed to have his fraud case sentencing adjourned until August 15, because it clashed with Shore filming.

TARA & SAM'S BACHIE BREAK-UP?

Just a month after confirming their engagement, it seems there's trouble in, er, paradise for Bachelor in Paradise lovebirds Tara Pavlovic, 28, and Sam Cochrane, 34. Nooo!

The stars sparked rumours of a split last week after fans noticed they'd unfollowed each other on Instagram! "Do some solid Insta stalking and you realise love is dead," wrote one fan. "I think they've broken up," wrote another with a crying emoji.

Tarz and Sammy have denied the split, insisting they're happy together... just not online apparently!

Tara and Sam's lack of Insta-love is devastating fans

Rach was confident she'd find love 'when I least expect it'

'They were full-on passionately making out,' says a fan

RACH'S NEW MAN!

After failing miserably in Paradise, Rachael Gouvignon has finally nabbed herself a guy. The reality star, 31, was snapped (above) at a party in Sydney on June 8, slipping away to a dark corner to get her pash on with a hot mystery man.

RHOS RETURNS

It's been more than a year since The Real Housewives Of Sydney has been on air, and the saucy series is set to return... but not until 2019. The cast is set to get a serious shake-up too after reports Season One was too aggressive. "Producers have another solid new cast member who they hope will shake things up and change the dynamics," reveals a source, who hints the new Housewife could be former fashion designer Rebecca Davis! Stay tuned!

Gwen runs off to the circus

WHERE LA, California

WHAT Gwen Stefani loves to put on a show, but she gets caught up in a different type of performance at the Moschino Spring/Summer 2019 Menswear and Women's 2019 Resort Collection event. After clowning around at the circus-themed show she makes a sweet escape, gushing on Instagram, "Thank u Moschino for a fun LA fashion show!"

When it's nap time but you have a performance

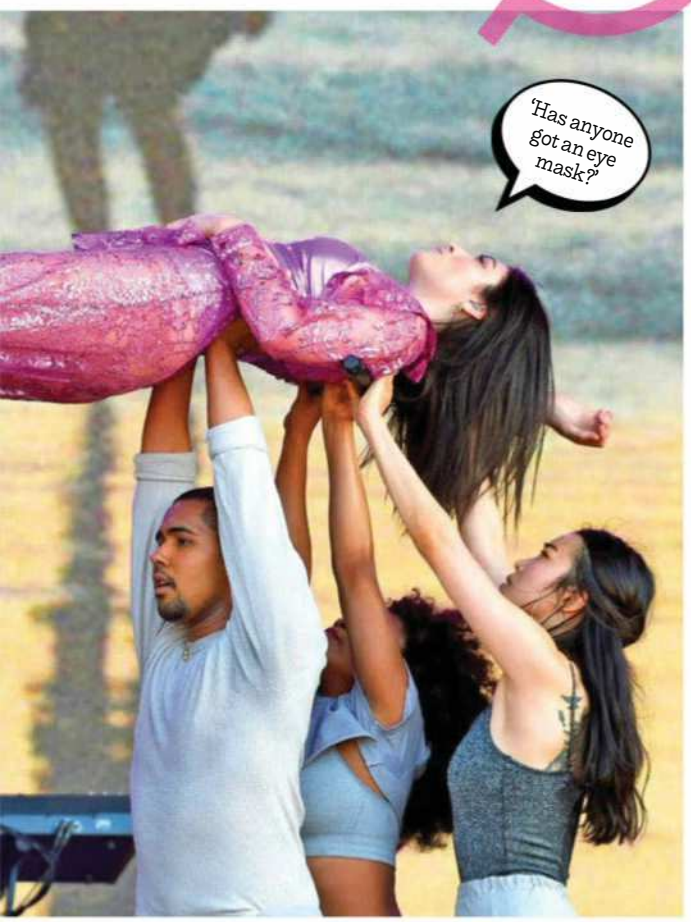
WHERE Manchester, England

WHAT Performing on stage can leave singers feeling pretty drained, and no-one knows it more than Lorde who seemingly catches some Zs mid-performance at Parklife festival.

William, Prince of ~~Wales~~ wheels

WHERE Isle of Man, Great Britain

WHAT Introducing His Royal Hoon-ness! Prince William is in his element as he hops on a hand-built Norton SG7 at the annual Isle of Man TT motorcycle event. The bike reaches a top speed of 334km per hour, but the royal has to use all his, ahem, wills power to imagine how that feels. Seems his wifey Kate Middleton isn't a big fan of his love for bikes though. "When I said I was going to the Isle of Man for an official visit she said, 'Really?!'" he explains. Tough crowd...



Ryan totally nails his moonwalk

WHERE LA, California

WHAT Hey girl, Ryan Gosling is heading off to space! Well, kinda... Fans are about to see the actor take off as Neil Armstrong – the first man to walk on the moon – in his new flick First Man. So Ryan decides to treat his pal Jimmy Kimmel to an out-of-this-world space-themed interview on Jimmy Kimmel Live. Houston, we have a hottie!

TMI Jada QUEEN O OVERSH

Will Smith's wifey isn't afraid to talk about sex, baby – even if it's super cringey!

"We started kissing passionately, and the next thing I knew, well, let's just say we missed the red carpet and I ended up with almost no make-up on."
On having hot limo sex with hubby Will on the way to the Oscars one year.

"Lots of sex!"
On her number one beauty secret.

"There's just a certain swag... He was walking different."
On being able to tell when her son Jaden had lost his virginity.

The Rollercoaster Of Love

SPENCER & VOGUE
Spencer Matthews and Vogue Williams have tied the knot in front of their nearest and dearest in Scotland. The couple – who are expecting their first child together, a boy who they're apparently going to call Stanley – will host a second wedding party for their wider circle of friends and family later in the year. Congrats, guys!

AVRIL & PHILLIP
Avril Lavigne's swapped her Sk8er Boi for a billionaire heir. Talk about an upgrade! The singer's been dating Phillip Sarofim – whose dad is worth an estimated $1.47 billion – on the down-low for a few months, and pals say things are now getting pretty serious between them.

ELLIE & CASPAR
Ellie Goulding and her boyfriend Caspar Jopling have moved into a New York pad together after a year of dating. "This is just the next step in their relationship," a source tells The Sun. Aww!

LOVE KEY
IN LOVE NEEDS WORK IT'S OFF

The Rock BEST HUBBY EVER!

He's Hollywood's resident muscleman, but Dwayne "The Rock" Johnson has proven he's also the world's cutest husband after spoon-feeding his wife Lauren while she was nursing their newborn daughter Tiana. "Mama has her hands full so I'm feedin' mama her dinner," he wrote alongside this snap before giving a shout out to all the hard-working mothers in the world. Swoon!

F THE ARE!

"I actually think I went through kind of an addiction too with it. And then one day, I was like, 'Enough. You're having five orgasms a day!'"
On being "really into" giving herself multiple orgasms at age 21.

"I was like, 'Lord have mercy, what did you see? Thank God I have some therapy fund put aside for you.'"
On learning her daughter Willow once walked in on her and Will getting jiggy with it.

Rude! GABBANA'S A SHADY INTERNET TROLL!

Kate Moss has seemingly fallen out of fashion with Dolce & Gabbana's co-founder Stefano Gabbana.

The supermodel has worked for the luxe label many times during her illustrious career. But in an Instagram post (below) asking for thoughts on a Saint Laurent playsuit Mossy wore last week (right), Stefano savagely commented, "No."

Meow! And Mossy isn't the only celeb who has felt his nasty wrath...

The Queen sure loves her gadgets – she's got an iPad and an iPhone!

Queen Lizzie's saaah high-tech!

It's no secret that Queen Elizabeth II loves her corgis – but her horses may take the crown for her most treasured animals!

Yep, the monarch, 92, has linked the CCTV cameras in her stables at Sandringham to her iPad, so she can check in with her steeds whenever she's away – but especially during foaling season.

"The moment a foal is born, the Queen likes to keep in touch with its progress, even while she's away on royal duties," spills royal stable manager David Somers. Too cute!

A TALE OF Twin Peach

Ky and Kim donned unreleased pieces from Yeezy's recent collab with 2XU

Oh no!

YE IS DRESSING KIM AGAIN...

Krazy shades, bike shorts and bizarre bodysuits? Looks like Kanye West is back styling Kimmy! Yep, the rapper is preparing to release his new Yeezy Season Eight line and he's clearly using his wifey as a test model again. Soz Keeks – but not even you can pull off these OTT outfits!

es!

Bootylicious sisters Kim Kardashian and Kylie Jenner had the NW-ettes doing a double take as they rocked twinning outfits while heading to a photo shoot in Calabasas on June 11.

Yep, while we can usually tell them apart from the front, it was a different story from, er, behind.

Then again, it's no secret Ky has always wanted to be like her big sis. "I do want to be Kim... Kim inspires me – she's one of my biggest inspirations," Ky admitted in 2016. Mission ass-complished!

We're not sure even Kim's influence can make these looks a hit!

Silver leggings under bike shorts – er, no thanks!

Is it an Avatar? No, it's just Kimmy!

JOHNNY 'I'm a Barbie Boy!'

Johnny says he has 'a lot of Barbies' in storage

Johnny Depp doesn't play around when it comes to superstition... Or maybe he does as it's been claimed the actor needs to have 10 Barbies with him whenever he's travelling.

"He alternates dolls, but the magic number always stays the same – to somehow ward off bad mojo and promote safe travels," a source tells the National Enquirer. Do you, Johnny!

LiLo's BIG FAT GREEK WEDDING

Linds is hoping to wed in Greece later this year

Turns out Lindsay Lohan's got another motive for Li-ing Lo in Greece – she's on the hunt for a hubby! And according to pals the future Mr Lohan needs to have a big... bank account. "Lindsay wants a successful, hunky Mediterranean guy who will love and cherish her and treat her nice," spills NW's source of the picky star. "This is her most high-maintenance manhunt ever."

They said WHAT?!

"When I was 14, my face looked like a potato and a chipmunk had a baby and it was me." She's one of Hollywood's most beautiful people, but Ocean's 8 star Anne Hathaway apparently didn't always look so picture perfect.

"I promise I won't become a dk head – that's what I have to say to my parents." He may have conquered Hollywood with his hotness, but Chris Hemsworth still has to assure his folks that he'll never get too big for his boots.

"You know how hard it is to shave my vagina? Literally have to put one leg up in the sink while I look in the mirror facefront." Pregnant rapper Cardi B has some new money moves...

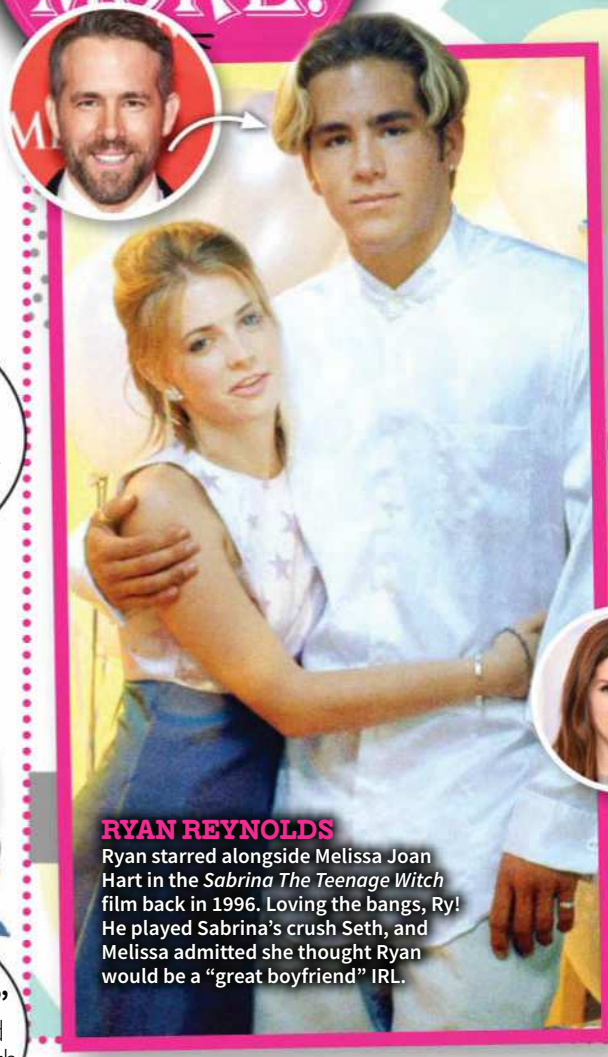
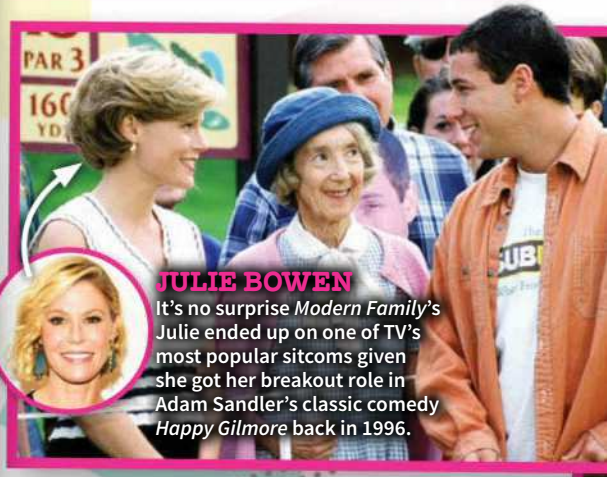
Remember wh

Started at the bottom, now they're at the top! Yep, these A-listers are barely recognisable in some of their earliest roles...



RYAN REYNOLDS
Ryan starred alongside Melissa Joan Hart in the Sabrina The Teenage Witch film back in 1996. Loving the bangs, Ry! He played Sabrina's crush Seth, and Melissa admitted she thought Ryan would be a "great boyfriend" IRL.



JULIE BOWEN
It's no surprise Modern Family's Julie ended up on one of TV's most popular sitcoms given she got her breakout role in Adam Sandler's classic comedy Happy Gilmore back in 1996.

ANNA KENDRICK
Long before she was singing with the Barden Bellas, the Pitch Perfect star was just a friend to Bella (Kristen Stewart) in the Twilight series. And the experience was pretty surreal for Anna, who says, "It was just the weirdest set I've ever been on."

MARIAH 'I BATHE IN MILK, DAHLINGS!'

Her milk bath brings all the boys to the yard...

Mariah Carey insists she ain't no diva – but we're finding that very hard to believe after she revealed she soaks herself in tubs of milk!

Yep, Mimi's a big fan of the beauty hack, which helps rejuvenate skin by dissolving the proteins which hold together dead skin cells.

"I bathe in milk," the singer reveals. "Sometimes I use milk as a beauty treatment. I don't want to give away all my secrets. Cold milk."

SARAH HYLAND

She became a household name on Modern Family, but it was once a hard-knock life for Sarah, who played orphan Molly in Disney's 1999 remake of the musical Annie.

CHRIS PRATT

Before bulking up and achieving certified Hollywood hottie status, Chris guest-starred in nine episodes of Season Four of The OC. Yep, he played Brown University activist Che, who befriended Summer (Rachel Bilson) and at one point thought Seth (Adam Brody) was his soulmate.

CELEBS GET STARSTRUCK TOO!

These famous faces just couldn't keep it together when meeting their idols

SPENCER & BEN

Spencer Pratt definitely didn't expect to bump into Ben Affleck while grabbing a breakfast burrito on May 28 and he couldn't resist having a fanboy moment. "Oh, my god. I actually have chills in real life," he gushed on social of meeting the actor. "First time I've ever been real starstruck."

KATY & BECCA

Katy Perry proved she's just like the rest of us as she ambushed US Bachelorette Becca Kufrin when the reality star made an appearance on American Idol.

CHANNING & SIMONE

He's usually the one getting fans all in a tizzy when they meet him, but Channing Tatum totally lost his cool when he got to hang out with Olympic gymnast Simone Biles on The Ellen DeGeneres Show.

J-LAW & LISA

She's a self-confessed Real Housewives superfan, so Jennifer Lawrence made sure she got a selfie with Lisa Rinna when the pair ran into each other at a restaurant in New York City.

The FLASHBACK PAGE

CELEBRATING 25 YEARS OF NW

THIS WEEK IN... 2000

Victoria and David Beckham's rollercoaster relationship has always been headline news, but 18 years ago Posh was doing her best to convince the world that she and Becks were a "normal" couple just like the rest of us. Only waaaay richer, of course! In an exclusive two-part interview, NW gave readers an all-access look inside the Beckhams' world, where VB opened up about body image issues and how she juggled the pressures of launching her solo singing career post-Spice Girls with being a devoted wife and mother to her and David's then one-year-old son Brooklyn.

While Matt Damon put a ring on his then-girlfriend Winona Ryder, his good pal Leonardo DiCaprio was single and ready to mingle. Not much has changed...

2003

It may seem like they have it all, but NW revealed the secret battles with depression and substance abuse many stars were keeping quiet about. Elsewhere, Kelly Osbourne shared her impressive weight loss – and we gave away free badges featuring Big Brother S3 winner Reggie Bird!

2006

Britney Spears wanted to end her marriage to Kevin Federline, but felt obligated to stay as she was expecting their second son. Talk about dramz! Meanwhile, Jennifer Aniston thought Vince Vaughn was "The One" and Jessica Simpson struggled with seeing ex-hubby Nick Lachey move on with his now-wife Vanessa Minnillo.
