Soz, can't talk... I'm watching Love Island!

Yep, it's official – I'm obsessed with Love Island. And it's taken over my whole life and schedule – and, luckily, I've got plenty of fellow fans to bounce off. If I'm not on the couch watching, I'm at work talking about it (thanks Rach and Liv!), replying to group chats about it (Dommy, I owe you a message!), or parading around the office with my official Love Island water bottle (thanks Karina!).

If you're not already watching, it's not too late to jump on board the Love boat. It's got all the Big Brother vibes, but with better voice-overs. Plus, they're all hot and spend 99 per cent of the show in swimmers.

Speaking of Big Brother, we were buzzed when Skye Wheatley – our fave from the last Aussie series – called us up to say she was pregnant with her first bub.

Read about her surprise news on page 28.

Blue's not so crazy about Bey-Z's love!

Beyoncé and Jay-Z may think their love is a sweet dream, but for their daughter Blue Ivy it's a beautiful nightmare! Yep, the eldest Carter child was mortified at seeing her superstar parents – who are believed to be expecting their fourth child (see page six) – packing on the PDA during their On The Run II show in London on June 15. And we don't blame Blue for her reaction, as Bey-Z's on-stage shenanigans included video footage of them in bed together and a shot of Bey shaking her bedazzled booty. Someone get these two a room!

No wonder Jay, 48, and Bey are knocked up – they can't keep their hands off each other!

Baby bump?

Beyoncé & Jay-Z

BUB NUMBER FOUR'S ON THE WAY

Bey bumps out on stage

CRAZY IN LOUVRE

Bey-Z dropped a surprise nine-track album on June 16, which includes the track Apest. Proving just how powerful they are, the couple shut down The Louvre museum in Paris to film the video!

Nados @deliciousness
If you notice on Beyonces dress a heart is located on the mid section. im convinced that there is a little angel growing inside. Heart represents Heart beat. #Beyonce #OnTheRunII #beychella #coachella #baby4 #jayz #blue #sir #rumi im convinced there is a baby number 4 on the way. Beyonce don't go as hard as she did for Coachella plus. Her wardrobe style has been a little different. she always have jacket over her leotards. weird. #beyonce #OnTheRunTour2

RUMOURS ON THE RUN

Fans have been blowing up the internet with pregnancy talk after seeing Bey's performances.

Chloé @chloeminade
But beyonce is DEFO pregnant

YerX @LemonHead
am i the only one who thinks Bey is pregnant again?  #OTRII #beyonce

Another child is destined to join the Carter clan!

They've just surprised the Beyhive with the release of their joint album Everything Is Love, but Beyoncé and Jay-Z have even more good news to share – they're having another baby! Yep, the king and queen of music – who are already parents to Blue Ivy, six, and one-year-old twins Rumi and Sir – have had the eyes of the world on them since they kicked off their On The Run II world tour on June 6. And fans reckon Bey, 36, has been flaunting a growing baby bump on stage too!

"It's so obvious that Beyoncé is pregnant again," one audience member from the couple's June 16 concert in London tells NW exclusively. "Firstly, Bey's performance was nowhere near as high-energy as she normally delivers – especially compared to her Coachella set in April. Plus there were so many 'outfit changes' during the gig, and they took a lot longer than usual.

It looks like it's taking its toll on her stamina already."

Meanwhile, one particular detail in Queen Bey's tour wardrobe has fans even more adamant she's got a bun in the oven. The singer fuelled the baby buzz by rocking a gold minidress with a red heart covering her bump. Well that's one way to put your love on top.

"If you notice on Beyoncé's dress a heart is located on the mid-section. I'm convinced that there is a little angel growing inside. Heart represents Heart beat," one fan speculated on Twitter.

"Everyone thought that the twins Rumi and Sir would complete the family," adds a source. "But Bey thinks that four kids is the perfect number."

Paris is reportedly inviting more than 200 guests to her November wedding, but LiLo won't be one of them

Paris vs Lindsay

'YOU'RE BANNED FROM MY WEDDING!'

They appeared to have called a truce, but Paris Hilton has reignited her 12-year feud with Lindsay Lohan after she announced the actress won't be attending her nuptials to fiancé Chris Zylka. Burn!

"If you don't have anything nice to say, don't say anything at all," the bride-to-be quipped when asked last week if she'd be extending an invite to her old party pal.

And don't expect Paris, 37, to show up for Lindsay's big day either. Once she finds herself a hubby, that is!

"No, I'm very busy," she tells TMZ. "I choose to not surround myself [with] certain people... Life is too short."

Lindsay, 31, and Paris were once thick as thieves, but famously fell out in 2006 after Paris was filmed laughing hysterically as her then-boyfriend Brandon Davis called Linds a "firecrotch". Ah, memories!

January's

MAD ABOUT JON!

Former Mad Men co-stars Jon Hamm and January Jones are apparently hooking up on the down-low. OMG!

The stars, who both live in LA's Los Feliz neighbourhood, have reportedly been busted sneaking in and out of each other's homes at all hours.

"They were always flirtatious [during filming]," a source reveals. And now that Jon, 47, is finally single – the actor split from his long-term partner, Younger star Jennifer Westfeldt, in 2015 after 18 years together – it opened the door for things to turn romantic with single mum January, 40.

"They're coy about it, but their chemistry is undeniable," adds the source.

Hayden's secret pain

SEPARATED FROM HER DAUGHTER

Hayden Panettiere has bravely battled postpartum depression since the 2014 birth of her daughter Kaya. But despite multiple stints in rehab, the still-struggling mum hasn't been able to find her footing – and pals now fear she might be boozing away her baby blues.

"It's been three years... there's concern that this is way more than just postpartum, and that she's actually succumbed to her old temptation – alcohol," a source tells US Star magazine. "She has issues with depression and uses it to cope... another visit to rehab could only do her good."

Also getting the Nashville star, 28, down is the fact her babydaddy and fiancé Wladimir Klitschko, 42, has taken Kaya back to his native Ukraine. "His mum is helping to parent her now, which must be upsetting for Hayden," continues the source. "He had to do what's best for his daughter, but he still loves Hayden. He just wants her to get well." Hear, hear.

The actress is feeling low after her babydaddy Wladimir took their daughter with him to the Ukraine

Scientology targets Bindi

'SHE'S THE PERFECT POSTER GIRL'

The controversial Church of Scientology have been looking Down Under for their newest celeb recruit – and sources say they want to welcome Bindi Irwin into the fold. Eek!

According to former Scientology Celebrity Center operative Steven Mango, the popular wildlife warrior, 19, would be seen as a great way to help the church recruit more members in Australia.

"I can tell you with certainty that [they] want Bindi as their next celebrity poster child and recruiter," he tells the National Enquirer.

Thankfully a source close to the Irwin family claims Bindi's mother, Terri, 53, would "never" let Bindi or her brother Robert, 14, join. Phew!

ZOE'S GENDER FLUID HOUSEHOLD

Avatar actress Zoe Saldana has revealed she's raising her three boys – twins Cy and Bowie, three, and Zen, one – in a “gender neutral environment”. “My husband [Marco Perego] participates in a lot of tasks that were normally given to women and vice versa. I get to do a lot of male things, which is, I don't know, put the TV together, fix things that break.”

Zoe, 40, shares. “It's important to raise boys in that environment, and girls as well.”

MEL B FINDS LOVE AGAIN

Scary Spice Mel B finally has a reason to smile – she's got a new man in her life! “The way he makes me laugh and smile gives me butterflies beyond belief;” the mother-of-three wrote on Instagram last week while keeping quiet on her new flame's identity. “Everything about him makes me more than happy and grateful!” Meanwhile, the new romance follows Mel, 43, being granted a restraining order against her ex-husband Stephen Belafonte, who also previously filed one against Mel.

LIZA: 'I DON'T APPROVE OF RENEE PLAYING MY MUM'

Liza Minnelli has slammed reports she's bonded with Renee Zellweger, 49, who is playing Liza's mum, the late Judy Garland, in the upcoming biopic Judy. “I have never met nor spoken to Renee Zellweger;” Liza, 72, wrote on Facebook. “I do not approve nor sanction the upcoming film about Judy Garland in any way. Any reports to the contrary are 100 per cent fiction.” Ouch!

There's certainly no love lost between the former spouses

Chad and Soph's OTH characters didn't last either

Chad Michael vs Sophia

EXES' WAR OF WORDS!

They filed for divorce back in 2005 after just five months of marriage, but One Tree Hill's Sophia Bush and Chad Michael Murray are still at each other's throats. Yep, during an interview with Andy Cohen earlier this month, Sophia, 35, revealed she felt pressured to wed Chad – who played her character Brooke's on-off boyfriend Lucas – in order to make life easier for the OTH cast and crew. “It was not a thing I actually really wanted to do,” she explains. “How do you let everyone down... when you have bosses telling you that you are the only person who gets a person to work on time, and 200 people either get to see their kids at night or they don't because our days start on time.” Chad, 36, immediately hit back on Twitter, hinting that his ex was telling poriky pies. “Gosh I love cartoons. Entertaining, educational & make great GIFs,” he wrote alongside a GIF of Disney's most famous liar Pinocchio. Meanwhile, his rep claimed that the story was “ludicrous” and that Chad “would never marry for any reason but love”. Hours later, Chad's current wife Sarah Roemer, 33, got involved by throwing some shade on Insta. “Wait a second... my producers also made me marry Chad Michael Murray! #doitforthecrew,” she wrote. Savage!

Charlize & Alexander

'THEY NEVER STOPPED LOVING EACH OTHER!'

Six years after they enjoyed a passionate fling, Charlize Theron and Alexander Skarsgard have hit the reboot button on their romance after reconnecting on the set of their new comedy Flarsky. And this time the duo are so confident that things are going to work out that Charlize, 42, has already introduced the Big Little Lies hunk, 41, to her kids Jackson, six, and August, three. “They're keeping it as private as they can, but it's hard to hide... The first time they laid eyes on each other all those years ago, there was an attraction,” says a source. “Charlize swears and has a wicked sense of humour which he loves. Alexander is a serious guy, a deep thinker, and she loves that.”

Move over LC

AUDRINA'S STARRING IN A HILLS REBOOT!

The original star of the show Lauren won't be returning

Yaaass! The rest is no longer going to remain unwritten

Whether it was reality TV, scripted drama or something in between, The Hills kept us obsessed during its six seasons. Now, eight years after the show ended in 2010, it's coming back. Oh. Em. Gee! A reboot effort earlier this year fizzled, but an insider confirms that MTV is moving forward with it again. "With all the success networks have had with reboots, they're desperate to bring The Hills back," reveals the mole. "They've reached out to all the show's stars and will be announcing the new season soon!" When it debuted in 2006, the Laguna Beach spin-off followed the lives and romantic dramas of Lauren Conrad, Heidi Montag, Audrina Patridge and Whitney Port. After LC quit the show, her Laguna rival Kristin Cavallari replaced her as the main star. But word is it's Audrina who'll be taking on that role this time round. Get it, girl! "I don't know if Kristin can do it because she's doing her show Very Cavallari," Audrina, 33, told Life & Style magazine at a June 3 event in Malibu. "I don't think Lauren would [do it either]." But Audrina is 100 per cent open to stepping back in front of the cameras. Although she insists her daughter Kirra, two, won't be a part of it. "There was so much drama last time and it started affecting our real lives," Audrina notes. "I don't want to bring my daughter into that." Audrina - who also starred in her own VH1 reality series Audrina in 2011 - is confident that Heidi, 31, would also come back, as would her bad boy ex Justin Brescia aka Justin Bobby. As for the other boys? "Brody Jenner, Spencer Pratt and Frankie Delgado are still working out their deals," dishes the source. "But MTV is anxious to make the announcement soon." Bring it on!

CASE OF THE EX
No doubt Audrina won't want to include her ongoing battle with ex Corey Bohan in the Hills reboot either. In new court docs obtained last week, the Aussie BMX rider denied Audrina's claims that he has been harassing her. In fact, Corey - who split from Audrina in September - says he only communicates with her via the website Talking Parents, a service that keeps records of conversations between parents.

Mimi's beaten her own battle with the bulge

James and his new love Kylie Lim stroll in St Tropez on June 19

Mariah's fears for James

'PLEASE GET HELP!'

The star's stressing over her ex's extra kilos

The father-of-three, 50, eventually turned to gastric band surgery in November 2011 and managed to drop 35kg.

"Now my stomach sends messages to my brain saying the whole time: 'I'm full.'"

How good's that?" he said of his successful surgery.

But sadly it seems the Aussie mogul's food demons have come back to haunt him – and it's got empathetic Mariah, 48, calling a ceasefire.

"There's nothing romantic there anymore, but this has made Mariah realise that life is short and there's no need for there to be any bad blood between them. They were barely civil to each other before, but she doesn't see why they can't put the past behind them and try to be friends," spills the source.

"Speaking out about her battle with bipolar disorder was a big deal for Mariah and she's so glad that she took that step. She's become a lot more open about therapy and treatment, and it makes sense that she would reach out to James after going through a similar thing – despite everything that went down between them."

"The word is that she's reached out to him to clear the air and let him know that she'll always be there for him if he needs it. Mariah knows he's going through a rough patch and hopes that if he needs to continue treatment, he won't hesitate to do that."

Like Mariah – who recently slimmed down via a suspected gastric band – James has long struggled with his yo-yoing weight.

'SHE DOESN'T WANT ANYTHING BAD TO HAPPEN'

The Aussie billionaire has had a bit of a rough ride of late

JAMES WELCOMES BUB NUMBER 5!

James Van Der Beek and his wife Kimberly are now seriously outnumbered after welcoming their fifth child Gwendolyn via a home waterbirth on June 15. "I've been in bliss these last few days," the "thrilled" former Dawson's Creek star, 41, gushed on Instagram. Little Gwendolyn joins the couple's other children Olivia, seven, Joshua, six, Annabel, four, and Emilia, two. Congrats guys!

IS JOCELYN A CAT BURGLAR?

A New York jewellery store claims Jocelyn "Catwoman" Wildenstein skipped out on a $338,000 bill for high-end bling. Regal Jewelry and Gift Shop claim the socialite, who's filed for bankruptcy, put down a deposit of $83,900 on a five-piece emerald and diamond set in 2017, but the cheque and other payments bounced. Now Jocelyn, 72, claims she doesn't know where the pricey pieces are.

NICOLE & LENNY'S (ALMOST) BIG LITTLE REUNION

They were once secretly engaged, and now Lenny Kravitz, 54, has hinted that he was almost cast as Nicole Kidman's abusive hubby in Big Little Lies! "The word that came back to me was that, if I was the only black man on the show, they didn't want me doing what it was that I would be doing. So that ended up not happening," reveals the singer, who's daughter Zoe, 29, ended up being cast in the hit series.

Mandy's baby news

'I'M ADOPTING!'

Mandy Moore has revealed she's keen for life to imitate art, with the actress admitting that her role as adoptive mum Rebecca on This Is Us has inspired her to adopt in real life!

"Adoption is something I've always thought I wanted. It's definitely become more prominent in my mind because I'm part of the show and find myself at a similar crossroads in my life," says the star, who is set to tie the knot with muso Taylor Goldsmith, 32. "I'm going to be married soon and Taylor and I both want our own children and to adopt. I hope that's on the cards."

Speaking of the wedding, Mandy, 34, recently spilled that it could "happen at a moment's notice".

"Maybe I won't even tell people and they'll just show up at the house and it will just unfold," says the low-key star, who adds that it won't be "some lavish affair".

Mandy and her fiancé Taylor have babies on the brain

The star says she's 'ready' to be a mum

Andy & John

MORE THAN MATES?

John Mayer and Andy Cohen's ultra-cosy bromance has fans suspecting there's something more going on between them.

"Do you think people wonder if we're in a secret relationship?" a flirty John asked Andy when he appeared on Watch What Happens Live last month to help the Real Housewives head honcho ring in his milestone 50th birthday.

"All my team does. Best birthday ever," Andy replied, before giving the singer a pash on the lips!

And it wasn't a kiss the one-time ladies' man was about to turn down! John, 40, half-joked that scandal-plagued romances with stars like Taylor Swift, Katy Perry and Jennifer Aniston have made him a no-go zone for any other Hollywood hotties, so he appreciates his tight bond with Andy even more.

Still, Andy insists that, for now, he and John haven't made the jump from besties to bed buddies, saying last week, "We have a very sweet friendship, and we are together all the time. We also have a great love for each other." If you say so, fellas!

The pair have sparked whispers their bromance has turned into an actual romance

THEN

Kim was fresh-faced and (relatively) natural back in 2011...

NOW

... but now she can barely open her eyes when she smiles thanks to excessive cheek filler and Botox

Eek! It's time to step away from the needle, Keeks!

It's no secret that Kim Kardashian's very famous face has changed since she first hit the spotlight more than a decade ago.

But the reality star's now being urged to stop tweaking what Mother Nature gave her, amid fears she's completely – and permanently – destroying her naturally stunning looks.

"She's gone too far. Seriously – she literally cannot move her face anymore. She's been paralysed by all the filler and Botox she's had injected in there over the years," reveals NW's Kardashian insider. "Word is she's lost all feeling in her face too and that some of her fillers have started kind of leaking into other areas." Um, eek!

"Kim has always been obsessed with looking her best, but she doesn't know when to stop," adds the source.

Concern over Kim's full and frozen face hit fever pitch after her recent appearance on US Today. Kim, 37, sat down with the TV show's host Hoda Kotb and former prisoner Alice Marie Johnson after successfully lobbying President Trump to grant clemency to Alice – who was serving a life sentence for drug trafficking charges.

However, despite Kim's kind actions, fans were distracted by the manipulated mug they saw before them – in particular Keeks's "droopy eyelids" and "chipmunk cheeks".

And it turns out weakened facial muscles is one of the biggest side effects of too much Botox or filler, as they work to block neural impulses to the muscles in the injected area.

"If [Botox is] used regularly over a prolonged period of time, without interruption, eventually the muscle will atrophy from lack of use," explains US-based dermatological surgeon Dr Patricia Wexler.

Along with skin-cell death, prolonged Botox use can also lead to a person's skin becoming visibly thinner – especially in those who start injecting in their early twenties, as Kim did.

Top Boston-based plastic surgeon Dr Dave David agrees that Kim's constant need to erase every wrinkle from her money-maker has gotten out of hand.

"It looks like she had filler in her cheeks and also around her chin," he tells NW. "She [has] had quite a bit put in there."

And finally it seems the concerns are starting to reach Kim. According to a source, she was "horrified" by her appearance after watching the Today interview and didn't realise that she's now looking "so overdone" after her latest round of treatments.

And while she's telling pals that she's going to stop with the fillers, they reckon the temptation to plump will prove too difficult for her to resist.

"C'mon, this is Kim we're talking about," snipes the insider. "Whenever she says she's going to go for more of a natural look, everyone just rolls their eyes. She'll never not be able to go without filler." ■

'Kim keeps fixing and fixing, but there's nothing to fix. She clearly can't see what she looks like,' The Good Place actress Jameela Jamil blasted last week. 'None of [the Kardashian-Jenners] can see what they look like. I just feel sad for them'

KIM'S SURGERY NIGHTMARE

Her face is paralysed!

5 TIMES KIM TRIED TO express herself (AND FAILED!)

Kimmy's got all the feels – not that you can tell by her frozen face!

Miley can't stop, won't stop dragging her feet when it comes to planning her nuptials - and her fiancé Liam's had enough!

The couple looked 'tense' in LA on June 17. 'The shine is wearing off,' adds a source

PICS!

Miley & Liam

It's over!

THE RING IS OFF!

alleges the insider. "It seems like she just needs some time to herself to have a bit of a think about what she really wants."

On June 17, the pair were seen leaving a US Father's Day lunch at Nobu in Malibu with Miley's folks Billy Ray and Tish. But fellow diners confirm that they hardly seemed in the mood for celebrating, with one onlooker dishing, "Things were really tense between Miley and Liam... Like they wanted to be anywhere but with each other."

Miley, 25, has always admitted that she's in no rush to put on a white dress and walk down the aisle to the Aussie hunk. "I don't envision marriage," she said last September. "I hope I get to live a little bit more. I have too much living to do [before I get married]."

The singer also says that she got seriously stressed out planning her and Liam's first nuptials. (The pair originally got engaged in June 2012 before calling it quits the following September. They then got back together in January 2016.)

Liam, however, is beyond ready to settle down and start a family. "I'm sure I'll go down that road and it will feel right," the actor, 28, says of having kids.

He's even taken to wearing a band on his ring finger in recent months and shared a snap of his own parents' wedding day. Hint, hint much?!

But Miley's just not reading the signs.

"I mean, we all think it's completely ridiculous at this point that they're yet to make things official," snipes our source. "It's been two years since they got re-engaged but they haven't made any start on planning the wedding at all. You really do have to feel for the poor bloke. I mean, Liam's proposed twice now – and still no walk down the aisle. Why would Miley say yes to his proposals if she knows full well that she doesn't really want to get married? It just seems a bit cruel to me."

Now, pals think it's time Liam gave Miley one final ultimatum – set a wedding date for some time this year or they're done for good.

"Of course everyone hopes they're able to sort through their issues," claims the source. "However, if they can't get on the same page regarding the wedding, they may just have to finally accept that they want different things out of life." ■

That's it – true love is officially dead!

Miley Cyrus and Liam Hemsworth's romance has always been something of a rollercoaster. But NW's learnt of devastating claims that the couple have once again pressed paused on their engagement. Noooooo!

What's more, Miley – who's no longer wearing her engagement ring – has reportedly moved out of the Malibu home she and Liam share as they work out whether or not they still have a future together.

"She's been spending more time at her parent's house. She still loves Liam... she's just not sure if she can marry him,"

'SHE'S NOT SURE IF SHE CAN MARRY HIM ANY MORE'

ELSA REUNITES WITH HER EX!

Liam isn't the only Hemsy dealing with some relationship dramz right now. Yep, his older brother Chris is said to be feeling a tad jelly over his wife Elsa Pataky auditioning for a role opposite her ex Adrien Brody!

"Chris was so excited for Elsa until she told him who producers wanted to cast," a source close to the couple tells US Star magazine. Eek! Before she married the Aussie beefcake, 34, in 2010, Elsa, 41, dated Adrien, 45, for three years. The Oscar winner even bought her a 19th-century castle in Upstate New York for her birthday in 2007. There were also rumours that Adrien and Elsa had secretly gotten engaged before eventually calling it quits in 2009.

"Chris knows it was a long time ago, but that doesn't mean he can't get a little jealous from time to time," says the source.

Yep, sounds like the romance is still a bit of a Thor point...

Pregnancy bombshell

The shocking secret producers don't want you to know!

The vicious punch-up between Grant Crapp and Eden Dally isn't the only shocking incident

Love Island producers have been keeping off TV screens. As host Sophie Monk and the eliminated contestants continue to reveal more and more about the scandalous moments that haven't been shown on air, NW hears one couple has endured a pregnancy scare in the villa after a particularly wild night in the hideaway suite!

A gossip from the set in Mallorca, Spain, told NW that one of the girls asked producers to sneak a pregnancy test into their weekly Friday shopping run. Eek!

"The contestants get to ask for special items every week, which the producers bring into the villa for them," our mole explains. "But eyebrows were definitely raised when they saw a pregnancy test on the list! Naturally, there was a bit of panic behind the scenes."

While the contestants in question haven't been named, it could easily be Tayla Damir, 21, and her lover Grant, 22. Especially as the lovebirds have made no secret of the fact they've been getting hot and heavy, and have been making the most of any alone time.

In fact, Grant says his dream is to have a mini-me by the time he's 30 – and he even told NW that he wouldn't mind leaving the villa with a baby on the way!

"Wouldn't that be funny, ay? We'll have to see, you never know!" he spills when we ask if he'd be keen to conceive in the tropical paradise.

But the comments could come as a bit of a shock for Tayla, who admits she isn't ready for children yet.

"I am definitely not opposed to kids at all. I would just want them once I'm completely happy and content within my life," she tells NW. "It's not something I'd rush into... I don't want to look back and regret having kids too young."

While the identity of the couple in question has yet to be confirmed, fans would be delighted to hear it might be the villa's resident power couple, prison guard Eden, 25, and trainee nurse Erin Barnett, 23.

Erin makes it clear that kids are something she definitely sees in her future, despite not being able to give birth naturally due to her "small vagina". Her words, not ours! "I'd love to have kids but I only want girls. I want to train my girls how to f*ck boys over," she reveals to NW.

Er, OK then... ■

LOVE-ROMP ISLAND
While Cassidy McGill claims the cast aren't "handed out condoms", fans noticed that, after a wild night, Tayla and Grant's room was littered with crumpled-up tissues and condom wrappers.

Erin and Ed are already talking marriage – but could a bub be in the future too?

JESS

THE OTHER SECRETS PRODUCERS ARE HIDING!

While pregnancy rumours rattle Love Island Down Under, the UK series faces its own scandals, thanks to sneaky producers!

THEY GIVE YOU MORE ALCOHOL ON DATES TO LOOSEN YOU UP!

UK Season Three babe Jess Shears, who's now engaged to her Islander bae Dom Lever, says, "[Producers] didn't want us to get out-of-control drunk so we'd only be allowed three small glasses of wine a night. They wanted us to keep our inhibitions. One-on-one dates would always have more booze though – especially a first date. They wanted to loosen you up a bit and be more flirtatious."

'Make it a double, babes!'

'Come here often?'

'Nah, not allowed'

YOU NEED PERMISSION TO LEAVE THE VILLA

"You barely leave the villa for the whole time you're in there," says UK Season Two star Scott Thomas. "It's not like you can just go for a run or for a walk to clear your head – you're stuck in there until you go on a date or you all head out for the day. Every two weeks we had a beach day where producers would take the girls and the boys separately to the beach to relax away from the cameras and switch off. Other than that you're under villa arrest."

'Anyone want anything off Uber Eats?'

YOU GET A HEADS UP BEFORE YOU GET A TEXT

"On the show it looks like we get texts out of the blue," reveals Jess. "But we had to be reminded to check our phones as we never really had them on us. So when we got a text we wouldn't know about it straight away. The producers would tell us to get our phones and then say 'I've got a text' for the cameras."

EVERYONE HAS MELTDOWNS – YOU JUST DON'T SEE THEM ALL

"Psychologically, the show is really tough," says Jess. "We had a psychologist who we could speak to whenever we needed to. There were a lot of meltdowns in the villa over missing family and friends, lack of contact with the outside world and general cabin fever, so the psychologist was there whenever anyone needed them." And NW can confirm the shrinks stormed the villa following Grant and Eden's fight.

'I said tonight we were wearing blue!'

Tayla has some competition on her hands, 'cause Cass reckons it's not over with Grant! Awks...

return to the villa! Whaaat?! Here, Cass vents to NW about her love triangle with Grant and Tay – and how she screwed up with “husband material” Josh Moss.

How are you feeling about being dumped from the island?

It's a surreal feeling... I'm so sad to be gone and also that I didn't get what I went in for – to find love.

Tayla clearly wasn't sad about your elimination... I didn't hear her say “Bye Felicia”, but it says more about her than it says about me. At that point, it was, like, “Tayla and Grant, who?”

Grant had a lot of opinions on you, huh? I couldn't understand why he was so preoccupied with my love-life! So when it came to recoupling, I wanted to stick it to him and show him and Tayla that they have their own problems they need to work on. To show

The first opportunity Australia got to vote Love Island babe Cassidy McGill out of the villa, they took it. After all the drama, tears and tantrums – most of which revolved around her island partner of one week Grant Crapp – barmaid and actress Cass, 23, was finally given the boot last week.

And while a handful of the castaways were glad to see the last of Cass – we're looking at you Tayla Damir and Millie Fuller – Cass says there's one person who'll miss her most: her “ex-boyfriend” Grant.

“A few people think he's still interested in me,” Cass tells NW after leaving the villa, adding that she believes Tay and Grant won't last. “It was very frustrating, and I did have to pull him aside and say, ‘Why are you so preoccupied with my life in the villa?’”

Well, perhaps luckily for him, there are rumours that Cass's time on Love Island isn't over – and she will make a shocking that they're not as confident in their relationship as they think. They were both getting so sidetracked with other relationships because they thought they were the strongest.

Are you gutted things didn't work out with you and Grant?

I did not pick Grant because I still wanted him. A small part of me knew... Look, I know Grant picked Tayla over me for a reason. He could have very well had me, but he didn't. A few people did think he was still interested in me, because because he was interested in Tayla. I've run out of chances to give Grant.

You briefly "had feelings" for Josh. Do you wish you'd stayed with him?

Josh and I had a good bond and I was attracted to him, so I did explore those feelings and I tried to take them further. But Dom came in at the worst time when I was most vulnerable, when I was questioning my feelings for Josh. I feel like I gave up husband material for a one-night stand. Every girl has made that mistake...

Is there competition between the couples? I don't think so, because Erin and Eden don't see anyone as competition. They are there for each other and rise above that. Tayla and Grant are immature and see people as competition – they bring the worst out in each other. Eden would do anything for Erin, and that's all they care about. They've already won, they found love. They are ready to leave now.

Khloe's unh homeco

Kim and Kourt apparently can't stand Tristan and won't even utter his name!

While Kylie and Stormi sent Khlo and True 'welcome home' balloons, Tristan's name was notably absent

TOUGH LOVE

"As long as Khloe stays with Tristan, [her sisters] are going to have as little to do with her as possible. It's really sad," alleges the insider. "This should be the happiest time of Khloe's life, but instead it's shaping up to be one of the loneliest."

These sweet cookies of True's face were a gift from Khloe's girlfriends KoKo's back in LA – but her fam is pissed she's bought Tristan with her!

She relocated to Ohio last year after falling in love with Cleveland Cavaliers basketballer Tristan Thompson, but Khloe Kardashian has finally returned home to LA.

"She's so excited," a source revealed last week ahead of the star's big move.

"She can't wait to show off [daughter] True to her friends who haven't met her before. And she can't wait to spend time with [her mum] Kris and her sisters."

But NW has heard that Khloe got a rude reality check when she landed back in LA, as the only sister with any intention of having play dates with her and True is Kylie Jenner.

Yep, Khlo's other sisters – Kourtney, Kim and Kendall – want nothing to do with the new mum as long as she's still with her cheating babydaddy. And they're making it known.

Last week, Khloe shared photos and videos of homecoming gifts sent to her and True from her friends – including cookies in the shape of True's face! – but Ky was the only one from the clan to send anything. And even then she left Tristan off the card, addressing it to only Khloe and True.

"That is a very clear sign that they no longer consider him to be a part of their family," says NW's insider. "Kylie still wants to make an effort. She might not completely agree with Khloe's choices, but she wants True and [her own daughter] Stormi to start playing together. They really bonded over being pregnant at the same time."

At first Kourtney, 39, was sympathetic to Khloe's situation, which saw the star's world crumble around her just days before she gave birth to True on April 12 when it was revealed Tristan had cheated with numerous women throughout her pregnancy.

"Given what she went through with Scott [Disick] and his roving eye, Kourt knows it's not easy to leave the father of your child," a source tells US Star magazine.

But now she's cut Khlo off, having decided that a "tough love" approach is the best way to go about things.

Meanwhile, NW's spy says Kim, 37, thinks Khloe is being a doormat and letting Tristan get away with whatever he wants. "She's made it clear that she thinks Khloe's a fool for staying with him and she wouldn't be surprised if he cheated again."

As for Kenny, Star alleges that she, more than anyone else in the family, thinks cheaters are "the lowest of the low", and recently stopped calling Khloe to ask about True. In fact, she's "stunned" that Khloe hasn't left Tristan and refuses to speak to the basketballer!

But it seems as though Kourt, Kim and Kenny, 22, are being a tad harsh to poor Khlo. She and Tristan are hardly in a love bubble right now and she could probably do with their support.

Indeed, Life & Style magazine reports that the pair are living separately in LA, as they can't be under the same roof any longer.

"They've been fighting

Tristan MOVES

Now that Khloe has left for LA, Tristan is letting his mistress Lani Blair stay at his Cleveland home (right). Whaaaat?!

"Lani's so unbelievably happy that Khloe's out of Cleveland because she now has Tristan's house all to herself," a source reveals to In Touch.

"Lani loves it there. She feels like it's her home and knows that she'll be there

Khloe's apparently going to address Tristan's cheating in the new season of KUWTK non-stop," the source explains. "They can't get through one conversation without it turning into a huge argument. She can't stop being angry at Tristan. Not living together is a clear sign that things aren't going well. Khloe still feels betrayed by him."

So much so that she's taken to spying on him! According to NW's exclusive source, before they left for LA, Khloe was having Tristan, 27, trailed by off-duty local cops.

While it's costing Khloe – who turns 34 this week – thousands of dollars a day, the paranoid star has told friends it's worth it.

"She's been completely humiliated by his reckless actions, and she doesn't trust him even slightly anymore," says the source. "She's had people following Tristan around to make sure that he's going where he says he is. She won't be made a fool of again!" ■ for a long time because Khloe won't be coming back soon. That's what Tristan told her."

But Khloe will be absolutely furious when she finds out.

"The last thing she would ever want is for Tristan to be shacking up with Lani whenever he's back in Cleveland for a game or training," reveals a close pal. "The thought of Lani sleeping in their bed would make her lose it. Khloe needs to trust Tristan if this is ever going to work, and it seems like he's not doing a great job at proving that right now."

Who can save Heather?

The actress is back in treatment – but far from out of trouble

Actress Heather Locklear hospitalised for psychiatric evaluation amid health battles

HEATHER LOCKLEAR HOSPITALISED FOR PSYCH EVALUATION After Threatening to Shoot Herself

Heather was also arrested in 2008 for DUI

When Heather Locklear's mum Diane made a desperate call to emergency services last week claiming her famous daughter was trying to harm herself, the beloved star's friends and family sadly weren't as shocked as her devoted fans were by the heartbreaking news.

"Everyone's really worried about her, but they suspected this was coming," reveals a close family friend. "Heather's been on a downward spiral and something had to give."

According to pals, Heather – who has "underlying mental health issues" – had been isolating herself prior to June 15, when she reportedly flew into a "rage" and accused her fiancé Chris Heisser of cheating.

The Melrose Place favourite was screaming and "made a huge scene" in the parking lot of an LA restaurant during the fight.

The couple made it home, but Heather's erratic behaviour continued. After Heather's daughter Ava Sambora witnessed her "go nuts", Chris got the 20-year-old to leave the house as he was concerned for her safety.

"He thought Ava shouldn't be there to see her mum like that, and didn't want her to be in harm's way," a source tells.

Chris, 56, was right to be cautious. Two days later, emergency crews rushed to Heather's LA home, after Diane called 911 reporting her daughter was looking for a gun and threatening to shoot herself.

Heather, 56, also tried to choke her mother and lashed out at her father Bill during the ugly incident. Eventually the star was admitted to Los Robles Hospital on a 5150 hold for psychiatric evaluation, with a source telling People magazine that Heather's loved ones had been "desperately trying to help" her in recent weeks. After three days Heather was released. Now, insiders are hopeful she'll finally be able to address her demons.

"She really needs a proper evaluation, different medication, and clearly more help than she has been getting to truly determine what her mental health issues are," a source told the publication.

Meanwhile, Heather's pal Howard Stern is pointing the finger at her ex-husbands

Tommy Lee, 55, and Richie Sambora, 58, for her mental issues. "You know what drove this woman crazy?" he asked. "She was married to Tommy Lee and Richie Sambora... they made her fking insane."

Whether her exes are to blame or not, Heather's been on the brink for years. In February, she was arrested after nearly biting Chris's nose off and for assaulting three police officers, before heading to rehab for the sixth time in March for substance abuse issues.

Back in 2008, Heather's doctor called 911 claiming she was trying to harm herself, which prompted the star to check into a treatment centre for anxiety and depression. She was hospitalised again in 2012 after her sister rang 911 and reported that Heather was mixing prescription pills and alcohol. Then, in January 2017, she checked back into rehab again, admitting, "I am working on tying up some loose ends regarding certain issues."

Adds the source, "It's all very sad. As a professional [actress], everyone wanted to work with her and she was always a joy on set. This person isn't her. Everyone just wants Heather back." We want her back too – get better soon, hun. ■

Heather's relapse and hospitalisation has 'crushed' her daughter Ava

Brit's worked hard to get back on top following her 2007 breakdown, but there are fears it could all come crashing down...

IS BRIT

ON THE BRINK OF ANOTHER MELTDOWN?

Britney Spears seems to have it all, what with her banging bod and hunky PT boyfriend Sam Asghari. But behind the scenes pals fear she's falling apart again as her custody battle with ex Kevin Federline gets ugly.

The singer - who suffered a serious mental breakdown in 2007 - is due in court on August 1, where she'll face questions on her income and spending habits as K-Fed, 40, tries to get his child support payments bumped from $27,000 a month to $80,000 a month.

"Britney's very fragile and emotional right now," a source says of the star, 36, who shares sons Sean, 12, and Jayden, 11, with K-Fed. "Kevin could try to take the kids if she doesn't cough up more money, and she seems to be crumbling at the thought of it."

The source adds that K-Fed's demands have also thrown a wrench in Britney's plans to ask for full custody of the boys from July, when she heads out on a two-month world tour.

"It's taking a heavy toll," the source tells. "That's what started this whole ordeal - Kevin probably didn't want to give up the kids or cash for the [US] summer. She was so excited about the tour and now she's so stressed out. Those boys mean the world to Britney, and her friends are doing everything they can to help her stay strong."

Hang in there, B!

TOMMY'S TROUBLES

Heather's ex Tommy Lee and his son Brandon got into a nasty social media spat on June 18, after the rocker sent out a not-so-nice shout out to Brandon and his brother Dylan, 20, on US Father's Day. "I love my boys but they can be assholes too," the rocker wrote on Insta. Brandon, 22, didn't take kindly to the diss, describing his father as a "let-down" and posting a video of his dad lying on the ground after he'd knocked him out cold during a fight in March. "Remember what happened last time you said this st?" Brandon wrote.

If she can't have the same old love, then Bieber and Hailey can't either!

Jealous ex-girlfriend alert! While the NW-ettes are beyond excited that Justin Bieber's rebooted his romance with Hailey Baldwin, one person who isn't jumping for joy over Jailey 2.0 is Selena Gomez.

In fact, with her own break-up from Bieber earlier this year still fresh in her mind, we're told the Wolves singer is doing everything in her power to ensure the lovebirds don't last the distance! Eek!

"Despite everything that's happened [between Selena and Justin] there's a lot of love still there," a source reveals. "It's painful for her to see that he's with Hailey again."

So much so that Sel's apparently been texting Justin non-stop in order to get Hailey suspicious that something's going on between them again – and then dump his sorry behind! Oh Sel.

"It's that classic case of, 'If she can't have him, then no-one can.' It's nothing personal against Hailey – Sel actually thinks she's a sweet enough girl," NW's insider reveals. "This is all about getting revenge on Justin. If Selena can't be happy, then she definitely doesn't want him to be – especially so soon after their split. It just hurts."

It also stings that Justin always goes running back to Hailey after dumping Sel.

The pair have been friends for years and previously dated from 2015 to 2016. But Justin's on-again off-again relationship with Selena has got in the way of the Hailey romance in the past.

"Selena never really expected Justin to move on in a serious way," adds NW's insider. "She probably always thought they'd end up together."

However, Selena's plans don't seem to be derailing Biebs and Hails just yet.

After packing on the PDA in Malibu earlier this month, the couple enjoyed a cute lunch date together at Ceconci's in Brooklyn on June 17. That same day, they were also spied having an "intense make-out session" as they strolled across a footbridge in a New York City park.

"It was like a scene straight from The Notebook," dishes an onlooker. "They took forever to come up for air."

Still, some sources say Sel may have succeeded in planting a seed of doubt in Hailey's mind...

"Hailey is excited that she and Justin are back together again, but worries he will disappear on her again and won't commit, like he has so many times in the past," another source reveals. "She thinks Justin is smart, funny, incredibly talented, and the sexiest guy on the planet. She is really happy he is making time for her, and hopes this time they can have something lasting."

Our fingers are crossed for you, babe... ■

KATY'S SECRET PAIN

'WHY I CAN'T MARRY ORLY'

She may have kissed a girl and liked it – but getting to do soooo much more with English boys is Katy Perry's real favourite past-time.

The singer's currently dating Brit actor Orlando Bloom, and revealed last week that she just can't resist that Blighty accent.

"I am obsessed with this country. I fall in love with the English very easily," she said during her show at London's O2 stadium on June 15. "I like to watch Coronation Street and EastEnders... I can't wait to have a pseudo fake accent like Madonna one day."

But while Katy, 33, may be head over heels for Orly and his country, NW has learnt that she has no immediate plans to become his wife.

"She's still pretty burnt from her marriage to Russell [Brand, which ended in 2012 after just two years] and doesn't want to get her heart broken like that again," reveals a pal. "Of course that's not to say that it won't happen in the future, but right now she'd much rather have a baby with Orlando than a wedding."

And Orlando, 41, is on the same page. Like Katy, he too is still recovering following his divorce from Miranda Kerr and apparently doesn't want another wedding to "complicate things".

Strategic tummy drape? Check! Meghan covered up in a baggy Oscar de la Renta maxi to attend Haz's cousin Celia's wedding

First comes love, then comes marriage and then comes Prince Harry and Meghan Markle pushing the baby carriage! The Duchess of Sussex kept what looked like a burgeoning baby bump under wraps when she wore a super-floaty – and strategically draped – maxi gown to Harry's cousin Celia McCorquodale's nuptials in the UK on June 16. OMG!

And insiders say Harry is thrilled that his new wifey is expecting already, as he was keen for the former Suits star to get pregnant, like yesterday. "Harry has made no secret about wanting children," royal expert Katie Nicholl reveals. "He wanted to try straight after their wedding. In fact, Prince Harry got pretty broody when William and Kate started their family."

Just a month away from her 37th birthday, and with her biological clock tick, tick, ticking, Meg was more than on board with Haz's sooner-rather-than-later baby plans. Last week her dad Thomas Markle – in his first interview since his no-show at his daughter's May

"Meghan's wanted children for a long time and when she met Harry she spoke about how much she loved him... so there has to be a child [in the] making," Thomas told UK breakfast show Good Morning Britain.

Meghan's former acting agent Gina Nelthorpe-Cowne adds, "Meghan said to me, 'I would absolutely love to have children and I can't wait to be a mother.'"

While the loved-up newlyweds are staying mum on the exciting news for now, they have already started nesting. Last week it was revealed that Meghan and Harry, 33, are in the process of buying a luxe six-bedroom, stone-built manor house. Talk about room for a nursery!

Dubbed Beggars Lodge, the luxe property is anything but peasant, and features a high-tech media room, a family room, huge walk-in robes and on-site lodgings for security staff – and a nanny!

The Gloucestershire mansion is also close to Soho Farmhouse, where Meghan had her hen's 'do, and should Haz and Meg ever run out of sugar or need a babysitter, they can pop over to their nearby neighbours the Beckhams, whose own palatial pad is nearby.

But the couple are keeping the purchase on the down-low for now. "The property has been earmarked for a specific couple and the project is shrouded in secrecy," a local says. "Naturally the assumption in the village is that Meghan and Harry will move in."

With a royal bub in tow? So it seems! "Meghan will get pregnant in her first year of marriage," a family insider said recently. "She'll be trying for a baby straight after the wedding – and she's going to be a brilliant mum." And Haz will be a brilliant dad too! ■

The former reality queen – who is 14 weeks pregnant to her tradie boyfriend of eight months Lochie Waugh – can't contain her smile as her babydaddy affectionately cradles her teensy bump during NW's exclusive shoot at her home on the Gold Coast.

"We had a bit of a scare last week, but everything's all good now thankfully," Skye, 24, tells us. "We went to get our ultrasound and the lady couldn't find the nasal bone of the baby... and that can be the first sign of Down syndrome. But it was there when we went back for our 13-week scan, so everything is good and the baby is healthy."

NW sits down with the gorge mamma-to-be to chat about heading down the aisle with Lochie, her list of names for the bub and whether she'll keep up her famous fillers during pregnancy.

Congrats Skye! Was this planned or a pleasant surprise?

Well, we said to each other that we weren't going to try for a baby properly – just do it casually and take things slow. We weren't "trying-trying", so I can't believe I fell pregnant first go. We were just meant to be seeing how it went. It's insane!

You said you could "feel" you were pregnant – in what way? I had a few glasses of red wine on the plane the night before, and when I woke up I felt hungover times 10! I never feel like that after a bit of wine, so I knew something was up. Obviously my body was like, "You need to stop drinking please 'cause we are trying to grow a little human." I was late for my period as well...

How long was it before you took a test? We went straight to the shops when we landed and got a home test. We did it together and those things come up so slowly before it's clear lines. I couldn't tell if it was positive or not at first, but then it's like, "I'm pregnant! Oh my God – I'm pregnant!" You kinda feel a rollercoaster of emotions all at once. You're scared, you're happy, you're excited, you're worried and nervous. It's pretty crazy.

So crazy! Yeah, it's happened very fast. Our whole relationship has moved pretty fast really because we've only been together for eight months. But I feel like I've been with Lochie for so long – it's so weird. It just feels so right and we know that we're gonna be together forever, so we're not worried.

Are you going to find out if it's a boy or girl? I don't know yet. We need to have a sit-down and decide. But I would like to have a gender reveal party, so we might find out. I just want a healthy baby – especially after our little scare. But Lochie wants a boy – every guy wants a little son, don't they? I think if it's a boy, then I would like to have a girl next. Or a girl, then a boy, if it's the other way round...

So you're planning for more kiddies?

Yeah! I'm thinking three at this stage, but let's see after I have the baby. [Laughs] I might change my mind – you never know. But I think three would be good.

Have you thought about names?

Yes, we have a list of boy names and a list of girl names. But they are not traditional – I can't stand traditional names. A lot of people probably don't like the names we've picked, but I really like them because they are so unique and I've never met anybody with these names, so I love them. I don't know why but I've never been into the traditional, old-school names. I love something crazy and unique.

Will you give us a hint? [Laughs] Nope – it's a surprise!

How's the pregnancy treating you? I'm calling myself the pregnancy unicorn. Everything has been running pretty smooth for now – I've had no morning sickness and all I've really felt is a little bit tired at times. For now, I feel pretty amazing. But at the same time I don't want to speak too soon.

I don't know what we're having yet, but Lochie wants a boy... Every guy wants a son!

You really are a pregnancy unicorn! [Laughs] I can't believe I've not had any morning sickness. I do need to pee every five minutes, though, and I'm hungry all the time. If I don't eat when I'm hungry, then I feel really sick and by the time I do sit down and eat, it makes me feel worse. I've been eating so bad and craving Macca's and a lot of chocolate. I have been craving fruit as well, though, so hopefully I'll start craving healthier food as I get bigger...

Have you noticed any physical changes yet? My boobs and my nipples are bigger – I feel like they're darkening as well. I've got a little bump that I've been trying to hide too. It's exciting to show that off to everyone now! The nurse told me that I would get the thing that makes you get swollen ankles and hands... And I've noticed my face is a lot rounder, but that happens when I put on weight.

Have you had much advice from your family? My mum is gonna be a lot of help when the baby is here, so I'm so grateful for her. She helps me with everything. She's already told me how important it is to get the baby into a routine as soon as possible.

What about actually giving birth? No, we've been watching videos of people giving birth on YouTube and it's pretty horrific! I'm not thinking about that part too much. I know that I'm not going to be one of those heroes who have no drugs. I will be like, "Give me any drugs you want! I do not want to feel this pain." [Laughs] If it's really bad, then I would have an epidural, but I just want to stay calm and relaxed. I'm not going to do a home birth or anything like that...

So what's the deal with Lochie – there have been rumours that you two are engaged?

No, we're not engaged.

Any plans to be? You'll have to ask Lochie about that, but I don't think he's planning anything, though. I'm not too fussed, either way. We don't have to be married first – I don't really mind. We have only been together for eight months, so if it hits the two- or three-year mark, then I'll start to worry.

You're so easy-going about this whole thing! Well, maybe it will hit me more once I'm bigger. But we are already planning to travel with the baby, so I'm happy to have my wedding when the baby is older and they can be more involved.

Awww, cute! What are you most excited about?

I'm so excited to watch the baby grow, to see who he looks like and to have another little human in our lives. I feel kind of bored lately, and I think my life needs a little more purpose. I'm ready to stop being so selfish and to start putting someone else first and to have someone else rely on me. I know I'll find it so fascinating to see the baby develop a personality and also just getting to laugh with Lochie about something that our baby does. I can't wait.

Can we expect to see all this too on social media?

You are an Insty star, after all! I will be documenting absolutely everything. I've seen people make an account for their kids, but I'm not sure about that...

If I'm taking like a million pictures a day, then

I'm happy to have my wedding when the baby is older, so they can be more involved

BIG BROTHER SERIES 11

Where are they now?

LOOK, IT'S SKYE!

It was one of the most addictive series to date – and the cast of 2014 have come a long way!

maybe I'll make an account. A lot of your fans are really invested in your plastic surgery journey. What's the plan for while you're pregnant? Will you press pause? Yeah. I've stopped getting my lips done for ages, so it's OK... But I'm definitely not gonna have anything done.

Will you be super focused on bouncing back to your pre-baby body? I definitely want to get back into exercise as soon as possible. But in saying that, I actually need to get more active now... Being active throughout your pregnancy helps you bounce back. I'm going to sit down and create a routine to make sure I always find time to go and do a quick workout at some point in the day while Lochie looks after the baby. I'll definitely be doing exercise every single day!

Are you looking at any celebs for bounce-back inspo? I don't really follow the Kardashians... Khloe's secretive about what she does so it's hard to really know how they get results! It doesn't seem realistic to me how quick some of these celeb mums' tummies bounce back... You just wonder if people like Kylie [Jenner] and Khloe are really doing what they say they are doing. I know how to lose weight fast, and the way it happened so quickly makes me question if they do it the healthy way. As for me, I'm definitely going to be super open and share everything.

Since you're so open about sharing your life with your fans, do you think you'd ever go back to reality TV? Yes, I love reality TV. I would love to have my own show with Lochie and our baby. I do think we would have a cute little bub!

And would you invite your Big Brother fam in to make a cameo? I caught up with Jason [Roses] the other week and I told him I was pregnant, but I made him promise not to tell anyone! He's the only one I talk to still from Big Brother – though he's not going to be the godfather or anything like that. We were saying that it would be great to do a reunion or something. I'd like that. Maybe even a Big Brother All Stars... Though I won't be able to go in and do something like that until after my baby is much older. ■

Aisha Jade

Aisha has gone from a nightclub door girl to a fashion designer with her own label Boy By Her. Following her split from Travis, Aisha, who's also a budding actress, shares her time between LA and Sydney while she films two movies!

Travis Lunardi

You'll remember Travis for his romance with fellow housemate Aisha. Sadly for fans, the couple called it quits in July 2016 after 18 months of dating. Now the Italian stallion is busy travelling the world and sharing his jaw-dropping snaps with fans on Insty.

Cat Law and Lawson Reeves

The pair made headlines not just because of their eight-year age difference, but also because magician Lawson, 27, cheated on his girlfriend with Cat, 35, on the show. But they've been proving the haters wrong and are still loved-up and living together in Melbourne!

Jason Roses

Canberra real estate agent Jason is still good pals with Aisha and Skye, and regularly shares snaps of their catch-ups on Insty. He's also gone on to become a radio presenter on Canberra station Hit104.7.

Lisa Clark

Lisa, who you may know as former Bachelor Richie Strahan's cousin, has moved on to become a blogger and content producer. She's also found love with tattoo artist Maxe Brother.

Ryan Ginns

He took out the competition and $250,000, and four years on Ryan's still winning at life as the model manages his own design firm. Oh, and after an on-screen romance with Skye, Ry moved on with Puberty Blues actress Charlotte Best.

This week's BIG QUESTIONS

Zayn says he and Gi are keeping things casual – and we all know what that's code for!

1 ARE GIGI & ZAYN JUST FRIENDS WITH BENEFITS?

They rebooted their on-off romance just last month, but it seems Gigi Hadid and Zayn Malik could merely be bed buddies.

In a new interview with GQ magazine, the Pillowtalk singer gave off total friends-with-benefits vibes when he was asked to define his relationship status with Gigi, 23.

"We're adults. We don't need to put a label on it, make it something for people's expectations," he explained.

If you say so, Z...

Meanwhile, in his chat with GQ, Zayn, 25, also blasted the Met Gala, saying the "self-indulgent" event represents everything he hates about celebrity culture and that he was "taking the piss" when he attended with Gi back in 2016. The shade!

Chris had Katherine in stitches during their cosy picnic date on June 17

3 COULD MEGHAN BECOME THE FIRST ROYAL TO WIN AN EMMY?

Grace Kelly might have won an Oscar right before she became Princess of Monaco, but Meghan Markle could be the first member of the British royal family to nab an Emmy. The Duchess of Sussex and former Suits star is being put forward for the Outstanding Supporting Actress in a Drama Series gong, with a TV insider revealing, "She's one of the names in the early ballot... Her media presence has been enormous and drawn new eyes to her work."

Getting her character Rachel Zane on the ballot would be a huge coup for Emmy organisers, who are hoping that Meghan, 36, and her hubby Prince Harry, 33, will attend the September ceremony if she's nominated. Take that Academy Awards!

2 IS CHRIS REALLY DATING ARNIE'S DAUGHTER?

His ex-wife Anna Faris has moved on with new boyfriend Michael Barrett and now it looks like Chris Pratt has found lurve again too.

The hunky star was spied cosying up to Arnold Schwarzenegger's eldest daughter Katherine, 28, during a romantic picnic in Santa Barbara on June 17.

"It's early days and no-one would have guessed that these two would get together," an insider tells NW. "But they get along really well and have a good connection. Chris was totally focused on his career after splitting from Anna, and wasn't looking for a relationship right away. He only met Katherine recently, but it's come at exactly the right time."

Some skeptics, however, couldn't help but note that Chris, 39, and Katherine were conveniently pictured together for the first time the exact same week his new flick Jurassic World: Fallen Kingdom opened in cinemas.

Hmm - coincidence? Perhaps not...

REAL LIFE

Might be time for Photoshop refresher course, hun!

IS THIS TORI'S WORST PHOTOSHOP FAIL EVER?

Tori Spelling was trying to preach #bodylove and show off her transformation "after five babies" when she posted the above swimsuit snap on Instagram last week.

"I've been working at it and eating and playing to live my best life and I feel like it's showing," the star, 45, wrote alongside the pic.

However, Tori's inspirational post didn't get quite the reaction she'd hoped for. Instead, her followers were distracted by her obvious attempts at digitally altering her face and bod!

"What's with the lines under your arms. Doesn't look like your body or face," slammed one. "Umm, photoshopping the fk out of yourself is definitely looking for the approval of others. Why not show the real body."

4 HAS PRINCESS DIANA'S NIECE KITTY GONE OTT WITH THE FILLER?

Looks like someone's got their cosmetic surgeon on speed dial! Princess Diana's niece Lady Kitty Spencer - who's barely left the spotlight after stunning at last month's royal wedding - certainly looks more sculpted and fuller-lipped now than she did as a fresh-faced teen. And the internet has taken notice...

"Please no more fillers," wrote one commentator of the Dolce & Gabbana muse, 27, while another suggested that, "Diana never had fillers and people thought she was beautiful with her imperfections." Savage! Might be time to ease up, eh Kit?

Celebrity survivors tell

How we escaped CULT

From the outside looking in, they seem to be living the fairytale. But for these Hollywood stars, life hasn't always been so picture-perfect...

Several A-listers grew up in the Children of God cult

In recent months, the world has been captivated by the shocking claims that former Hollywood starlet Allison Mack (below) was second-in-command in the depraved sex cult NXIVM.

If convicted of the sex trafficking charges, the Smallville actress faces a minimum of 15 years behind bars, with prosecutors alleging that Allison recruited women into the organisation, then blackmailed them into becoming sex slaves for its leader Keith Raniere. More recently, it was revealed that Allison was the one who came up with the idea to "brand" the women, by burning Keith's initials into their skin.

But while the headlines surrounding Allison's arrest have been disturbing to say the least, she's not the only celebrity who's been linked to a dark organisation.

However, unlike her, these A-listers weren't always willing participants.

Indeed, many stars, both as innocent children and impressionable adults, have been ensnared by notorious cults whose members were accused, and in many cases convicted, of some of the worst crimes imaginable.

Here, NW takes you inside their shocking secret lives... ■

'You basically weren't allowed to do anything, or you were made to feel guilty about any unnatural desire,' Glenn explains

Glenn Close opens up on 15 years spent in 'destructive' cult

GLENN CLOSE

Before Glenn became a Hollywood and Broadway star, she spent 15 years as a member of a religious cult known as the Moral Re-Armament (MRA).

The actress's parents joined the ultra-conservative, secretive cult – which was founded during the late 1930s – when she was just seven years old.

"It's cult-living where you're told what to say and how to act. It's very sexually repressive, and yet you're supposed to be remaking the world, but you remake the world in someone else's eyes, so you give up your individuality. It was very destructive," says Glenn, 71, who broke free of the cult at age 22 – although she's never revealed exactly how.

CHILDREN OF GOD

Horrific reports of sexual violence, incest and brainwashing haunt the hippie Christian cult

ROSE MCGOWAN

Outspoken actress Rose McGowan, 44, who rose to fame on TV's Charmed, spent her childhood as a member of the Children of God in Florence, Italy – and her experience was horrifying.

Rose, whose rape allegations toppled movie kingpin Harvey Weinstein last year, recalls her upbringing “was really idyllic” at first. Then the cult’s sinister beliefs bubbled to the surface, as they allegedly encouraged children to become sexually active and women were there to serve the men sexually.

Fortunately, Rose’s father – who led one of the cult’s Italian chapters – had the family escape out of fear she would be molested. “My dad was strong enough to realise that this hippie love had gone south,” she says. Phew!

Who are the Children of God? Rose McGowan was shaped by spending her childhood with this religious sect

‘I remember running through a cornfield in thunder and lightning, holding my dad’s hand and running as fast as I could to keep up,’ Rose – seen here as a baby with her parents – recalls of her family’s escape from the cult

JOAQUIN PHOENIX OPENS UP ABOUT HIS CHILDHOOD IN RELIGIOUS CULT CHILDREN OF GOD

JOAQUIN PHOENIX

Joaquin was also raised in the controversial Children of God cult, which was spawned by the “free love” movement of the ’60s.

The Oscar-nominated actor, 43, revealed that while living in the group with his parents and late brother River, they were destitute and stuck in “disgusting” conditions.

The family fled the commune in 1977 when Joaquin was three years old, after it became obvious the cult was using sex to recruit new members. River – who died in 1993 of a drug overdose – revealed in 1991 that he was molested at the age of four by Children of God members but “blocked it out”.

Michelle was forced to live without food and water before she was rescued by her first husband Peter Horton

MICHELLE PFEIFFER

The Scarface beauty, 60, nearly starved to death as a “breatharian” – a member of a bizarre cult that believes humans can live without food or water and survive purely on sunlight or air. WTF?!

A “very controlling” pair of New Age “personal trainers” convinced a then 20-year-old Michelle to eat only fruit as a step toward living on air and demanded ever-increasing fees for therapy and spiritual guidance.

With her figure and her bank account growing thinner, Mish was eventually “saved” when she met her first hubby, Children Of The Corn actor Peter Horton, who was researching cults for a role. “[It made me realise] I was in one,” she says.

MICHELLE PFEIFFER SAYS SHE WAS PART OF A BREATHARIANISM CULT THAT BELIEVED IN LIVING WITHOUT FOOD OR WATER

POLICE LINE DO NOT CROSS

The Arquette siblings faced abuse as children growing up in the religious cult Skymont Subud

DAVID, PATRICIA & ROSANNA ARQUETTE

The Arquette siblings – including Richmond and Alexis – grew up in the Skymont Subud commune in Virginia. The cult doesn't define itself as a religion, but rather a way to communicate with God "in a different way".

Scream actor David, 46, has admitted he had a very "difficult" childhood while living in the commune from 1971 to 1979, which their parents Lewis and Brenda began as they believed a secluded way of life would benefit their family "[Our parents] started [the commune] with a bunch of their friends, and they wanted to kind of build this utopian society," adds Patricia, 50.

But their "utopia" had no bathrooms, electricity or running water, and eventually both Arquette parents became raging alcoholics who abused their children during their time there.

"[My mother] choked me to the point once where I started blacking out," Patricia says. Meanwhile, Rosanna, 58, claims, "My mother stabbed me in the arm with a knife. [It was] just terrible physical abuse." Yikes!

Alleged members of the Skymont Subud commune

WINONA RYDER

When she was just seven years old, the Stranger Things star – whose godfather was famed LSD advocate Timothy Leary – moved to the Rainbow Family commune in California with her parents and younger brother. For three years, Winona, 46, lived on a 300-acre property with seven other families where they tried to live off the land and be self-sufficient, with no electricity or running water. Members of the counter-culture hippie group gathered several times a year to pray, meditate and observe group silences for world peace. Creepy!

WINONA RYDER SPENT THREE YEARS IN THE SECT 'RAINBOW FAMILY', A HIPPIE COMMUNE

BACHIE BABES: 'WE GREW UP IN A CULT TOO'

KEIRA

Keira Maguire was raised in a polygamist cult, headed by her late father Alistair Laishkochav – a convicted paedophile who had nine wives and fathered 64 children.

The Bachelor in Paradise star, 32, says she spent five years in the harem, before her mother Michelle (below right) fled the group in 1993 with her six kids in tow. "I didn't know who my mum was until I was five. It sounds strange, but it just is what it is," Keira says of her upbringing. "I didn't even have birthdays. I think I had my first birthday when I was seven."

Keira's cult-leader dad (right) was convicted of 20 child sex offences and one charge of reckless injury in 2000

Megan Marx also had a truly unique upbringing, after being born into a strict God-fearing religious cult that performed exorcisms, had compulsory daily church services and banned alcohol, revealing clothing and even TV.

Megan, 29, made her TV debut on The Bachelor just four years after she "broke free" from the cult, saying, "It was difficult to leave the 'community', but I had thought about it for a while. Having my first drink, wearing a bikini was hard."

Megan married her former husband aged just 18

There's a job opening at the Kar-Jenner household, if you can handle it...

Could you actually keep up with the Kardashians? You'll start your day trying to remember at least six different coffee orders, followed by a visit to the vet to vaccinate somebody's new puppy. Then you've got to find the specific bubble bath that Kim's stylist's therapist's auntie recommended in Bora Bora, and then... Oh, whoops – you've forgotten to put petrol Erm, who allowed Kris to be photographed holding a toy monkey? That's strike one!

Kylie's assistant Victoria (left) gets to roll with the star and her bestie Jordyn Woods

Being Ky's assistant means documenting her every move on Insta. #fangoals

After five full-on years as Kim's PA, Steph and her reality star boss 'decided to part ways' last year at it takes to be aardashian PA?

in the car. Game over.

If you reckon you could handle all that and more, then you could be looking towards a future with Kris Jenner. In collaboration with Bumble, the mumager herself is hunting for a new personal assistant. Excuse us while we swipe right to Kris...

On the app's "bizz" mode, which is designed to help businesswomen connect, Kris, 62, describes herself as an "Entrepreneur, Producer, Brand Builder and Manager".

According to her ad, "If you're a strong candidate, expect to hear from Kris herself. The person who generates enough buzz will join Kris Jenner's personal team to work directly with her on daily scheduling and organisational tasks and, without a doubt, benefit from once-in-a-lifetime mentorship."

But what exactly does that once-in-a-lifetime role entail?

No slackers please

When it comes to qualifications, the Kardashian klan aren't picky – they're looking for hard workers. After all, it's not your usual nine-to-five job.

"[You have to have] scheduling down on a very high level," Kris explains. "It's non-stop. Every day is different. You never know what to expect and you have to be ready to pivot on a dime."

Ironically, for a family who made their fortune by living out their private lives in public, Kris values discretion above all else.

"It's about being discreet and being private and learning. If somebody has something that's happening at the moment, as it is a private thing, then somebody [would need] to have a lot of respect for that," she says.

In an episode of Keeping Up With The Kardashians this year, a panicked (and pregnant) Kylie Jenner phoned her mum to tell her a staff member had been secretly taking photos of her without her permission, and Kris suggested they have the assistant arrested. So snooping and snitching is a big no-no if you're thinking of applying.

Kylie's personal assistant Victoria Villarroel Gamero is perhaps a better example of a career path to follow.

"I started working at Kris's company Jenner Communications, and I would see Kylie there all the time, because it was her mum's office," she says. "I remember I saved my number in her phone as Victoria The Princess – I was very confident back then." And it paid off, because Victoria, 26, has worked for Kylie for the past five years.

BFF on standby

Fans will most likely recognise Victoria from Kylie's personal social media accounts, because when you're welcomed into the family, you're truly a part of it.

While Victoria started off in usual assistant style – making sure Kylie always had groceries and that her cars were ready when she needed them – she is now half PA, half BFF.

'IT'S NON-STOP, YOU NEVER KNOW WHAT TO EXPECT'

Vic, as Kylie calls her, attends all of the Kardashian birthday parties and often hangs out with Kylie and her best friend Jordyn Woods. When Victoria's boyfriend wanted to propose, he even enlisted Kylie to help pull off the lavish surprise.

Nowadays, Victoria's duties mean she has to be ready at all hours. "I've moved on to [Kylie's] personal life," she says. "I don't deal with her house as much – now it's more like, 'What do you need for your everyday life to be smooth?' I think to be a personal assistant you have to be 24/7. She'll call me at 2am and I'll answer. I don't really have set hours – just whenever duty calls."

Write that down, potential applicants – Snapchat duties can come at any time.

If there was anyone we'd want to get drunk and grill about being a Kardashian PA, it's Stephanie Shepherd. The 27-year-old began working as Kim's assistant in 2013 – when her boss was pregnant with North – and Steph was put straight to work.

"I was doing her whole schedule, doing her laundry, booking travel, putting the stroller together, and all of these things," says Steph. "But I wasn't nervous, I was excited, and I was staying longer than needed, because I was trying to prove myself – and then North came early!"

Talk about a baptism of fire!

Four years later, Stephanie had been promoted to COO of Kardashian West Brands and Kim's roster of assistants had grown to at least one personal assistant, a house assistant, two nannies, multiple make-up artists, a stylist and even a fake tan specialist.

Like every job, there are ups and downs. Speaking last year, Steph admitted she was never off her phone. "Kim and I text all day – from the second

Taking Kim's fan pics was also part of Steph's duties

It's been reported Kim had two male assistants on staff to rub sand on her booty at this 2014 photoshoot. Yep, really!

Kourt was attached at the hip with Kim's PA Steph we wake up until we go to bed," she said. And even when she got to travel with the fam, she couldn't forget her place.

"With all that glamour comes schlepping the bags and the suitcases, and taking the fall when the car doesn't show up or the flight is delayed or something goes wrong," Steph says.

Steph was on the job when Kim was robbed at gunpoint in Paris in 2016 and has said, "Wherever we are, my instinct is just to protect her. I would truly take a bullet for her."

Still think you're up for the job?

Blurred lines

Steph and Kim parted ways at the end of 2017, and while they're said to be back on speaking terms, it seems Kim wasn't happy with Steph blurring the lines of her personal and professional lives.

Steph had been spending an increasing amount of time with Kourtney – the pair call each other "wifey" – and had even confided in her that she felt "unfulfilled career-wise". Naturally, that's not something you want your boss to hear, and Kim was fuming that Steph had spoken about it behind her back. Contract terminated.

Discretion is the key, especially when it comes to salaries – no Kardashian assistant would ever deign to reveal theirs. But if you're in it for the KKW Beauty products and can survive on very little sleep, this might just be the job for you.

So, get your CV together, give us five ideas for new Kimojis, tell us what you would have done in the Kanye crisis... and don't call Kris, she'll call you. ■

It's a rough day at the office for Blake

Spotted: Blake Lively looking like a shadow of her stylish self as she films her new flick The Rhythm Section in Madrid. Production of the thriller – which sees Blake playing a former prostitute exacting revenge on those who killed her family – was halted back in January after the former Gossip Girl star injured her wrist during filming. Great to see you back in action, B – even if you're a tad underdressed!

Hot or NOT

HOT

Natalie Portman

Ever the professional when it comes to fashion, Nat is spot on in her polka dot Miu Miu gown. The sweetheart neckline and ruffled skirt help create a fun, flirty silhouette - while Nat's decision to go minimal with her jewels really allows the dress to shine!

HOT

Zendaya

The actress looks good enough to eat in this chocolatey August Getty party dress. And Z herself agrees, joking that she resembles a "fine ass unwrapped, caramel filled Hershey's Kiss". Yum!

NOT

Rita Ora

While we appreciate a star who's willing to make a bold style statement, Reets misses the mark in this bizarre Tom Ford number. Bright yellow might be so hot right now, but those raised shoulder pads and metallic sleeves are definitely not.

NOT

Phoebe Price

Soz Pheebz, but your pink poolside get-up is sarong it's painful! But we'll at least, er, tip our hat to the flame-haired actress for being sun smart...

HOT

Amal Clooney

By George - Mrs Clooney never fails to impress! The human rights lawyer and mother-of-two oozes old Hollywood glamour in this bespoke Alberta Ferretti gown, which is made of sumptuous Bordeaux velvet. Gorge!

HOT

Victoria Beckham

Q: Does Posh ever put a foot wrong when it comes to nailing street style? A: Nope! Whether she's rocking a camo-print tee and jeans or serving up ladylike glamour in pastel dresses - all from her own label, natch! - VB once again proves why she's the poshest fashionista in town!

TURN OVER NEW SKIN

Best suited for people over 30 looking to target ageing, sun damage and sagging, this laser treatment works by destroying old, damaged cells to replace them with fresh ones. Recovering is like being sunburnt – you'll experience soreness, redness and peeling before revealing new skin.

SHAVE IT OFF

Known as dermaplaning, this treatment can be done in-salon or at home. A scalpel-like tool scrapes off dead skin and peach fuzz, leaving your face silky smooth. Build-up of hair and skin can cause breakouts, dullness and clogged pores, so a monthly scrape can work wonders. We recommended visiting a professional before you try DIY.

STICK A PIN IN IT

In need of a collagen boost? Try needling. A vibrating pen with microscopic needles punctures the skin to trick it into thinking it's injured, promoting the healing process and stimulating collagen. You'll likely have redness and mild swelling post treatment and, depending on the intensity, your skin may crust. No pain, no gain, right?!

CYA LATER CELLULITE

This hour-long treatment uses a high-tech combo of cavitation and radio frequency to break down fat, tighten and tone the skin, and smooth out any dimples. So what's the pain factor you ask? Zero. It feels like a massage with no downtime. The downside? You'll need about eight treatments.

If you're struggling to get rid of wobbly bits – like those areas around your tummy, thighs or chin, this fat-fighting device will do the trick. Immunity boosters

Skip being sick with these cold-busting bites

The season of sniffles and sneezes is sadly upon us again. But food blogger Leah Itsines – sister of Aussie trainer extraordinaire Kayla – has a few handy tips for keeping those bad bugs at bay. “Eating well, and eating a balanced diet full of wholesome and colourful foods, will give you a better chance of fighting those common colds,” Leah, who’s new book The Nourishing Cook is packed with nutritious and simple recipes, tells NW.

As well as filling up on vitamin-rich goodies, Leah has two other big tips for staying healthy in the colder months. “Keep up your water intake and reach for the right thing! Instead of greasy takeaway on cold nights, try making a veggie soup,” she says.

BLUEBERRY MUFFINS

INGREDIENTS

- 100g (1 cup) almond meal
- 25g (¼ cup) coconut flour
- 2 eggs
- Pinch of ground cinnamon
- 90g (¼ cup) honey
- 3 very ripe bananas, mashed
- 125g fresh blueberries

METHOD

- Preheat oven to 180°C. Grease a 6-cup standard muffin tin.
- Combine almond meal, coconut flour, eggs, cinnamon, honey and banana in a bowl and mix thoroughly. Gently fold in the blueberries.
- Spoon the muffin mixture into the prepared tin and bake in the oven for 25 minutes, or until the muffins are lightly browned. To test if they are cooked through, stick a skewer in the middle of a muffin – if it comes out clean, they’re ready.

TOP TIP

“Blueberries are rich in vitamin C and pack a punch when it comes to boosting your immune system,” advises Leah.

TOP TIP

Salmon’s a perfect snack for “getting those good fats into your day”, says Leah. Add a squeeze of lemon for a vitamin C and flavour boost.

BAKED EGGS

INGREDIENTS

1 tbsp olive oil
½ onion, finely diced
1 garlic clove, crushed
400g can whole peeled tomatoes
100g can black beans, drained
½ tsp dried oregano
½ tsp chilli flakes (add more if you like it extra hot)
Pinch each of salt flakes and freshly ground black pepper
4 eggs
2 tbsp grated parmesan

METHOD

- Preheat oven to 180°C.
- Heat the olive oil in a saucepan over medium heat, add the onion and garlic and fry, stirring occasionally, for 5 minutes, or until the onion is softened. Stir in the tomatoes, black beans, oregano, chilli flakes, salt and pepper and simmer for 5 minutes.
- Spoon 1 tbsp of the tomato mixture into the base of two 2-cup capacity ovenproof bowls. Crack 2 eggs into each bowl, then cover with the rest of the tomato mixture. Sprinkle the parmesan over the top and bake in the oven for 10 minutes (for runny eggs) or 15 minutes (for medium-well-done eggs).

TOP TIP

“These baked eggs are full of tomatoes, great for vitamin C,” says Leah. “This hearty dish is exactly what you need when feeling a little low.”

GINGER CHICKEN MEATBALLS

INGREDIENTS

Olive oil, for frying
1 red capsicum, finely sliced
2 Lebanese cucumbers, deseeded, finely sliced
1 red onion, finely sliced
115g (½ cups) shredded red cabbage
1 large carrot, cut into long, thin strips
1 large handful of coriander leaves, roughly chopped (optional)
1 large handful of mint, roughly chopped

Meatballs

500g chicken mince
2 garlic cloves, crushed
2cm piece of ginger, grated
1 tbsp curry powder
2 spring onions, finely sliced
2 tbsp coriander leaves, finely chopped
1 tbsp mint leaves, finely chopped
Pinch of salt flakes and freshly ground black pepper

Dressing

1 tbsp soy sauce
1 small red chilli, deseeded, sliced
1 tbsp sesame oil
2 tbsp lime juice
1 tbsp fish sauce
½ tsp brown sugar

METHOD

- To make the meatballs, combine chicken mince, garlic, ginger, curry powder, spring onion, coriander, mint, salt and pepper in a large bowl and mix thoroughly. Using 1 tbsp of mixture for each ball, roll into bite-sized balls.
- Heat a splash of olive oil in a large non-stick frying pan over medium heat, add the meatballs in batches of 8-10 and cook for 5-7 minutes until each ball is cooked all the way through.
- Place the capsicum, cucumber, onion, cabbage, carrot, coriander

- and mint in a large bowl and mix.
- To make the dressing, in a small bowl, combine the soy sauce, chilli, sesame oil, lime juice, fish sauce and brown sugar and mix thoroughly. Pour the dressing over the salad and toss. Evenly divide the salad and meatballs between serving plates and serve.

TOP TIP

“When I’m feeling a cold coming on, I’ll have a tea with fresh ginger. Ginger has antibacterial and anti-inflammatory properties,” shares Leah.

Cancer JUNE 22 – JULY 23

Although you might be making an effort to meet new friends, try not to neglect your old social network in the process. The latter might seem a tad dull right now, but they are the ones you'll turn to when life doesn't go your way. Play it smart to have the best of both worlds.

Libra SEPT 24 – OCT 23

Projecting confidence in your self is key in the next seven days. According to your chart, the outside world will be judging you on how you appear as opposed to how you really are. As much as you might want to tell the truth here, modesty and humility won't win you any prizes.

Capricorn DEC 22 – JAN 20

Your judgemental side is coming out this week and it's putting your popularity in all kinds of circles in danger. Planetary patterns signal a change in opinions should you criticise those around you. Yes, you may have a point, but is it worth losing your present great standing?

Aries MAR 21 – APRIL 20

You'll need to be highly organised if you want to achieve everything on your to-do list this week. While delegating certain tasks is an option, lunar activity suggests your nearest and dearest aren't going to prove very helpful. Paid help from outside sources would be worth considering.

Leo JULY 24 – AUG 23

Mercury looks set to bring financial opportunities this week. The only problem is you might miss the boat because you're more interested in chilling out rather than following up on ideas that can earn you extra cash. With luck, a loved one will encourage you to make the effort.

Scorpio OCT 24 – NOV 22

News from an old friend might not be good, but it will give you pause to think about your own future. Astro trends indicate you've been in need of a bolt from the blue – if just to ensure you reassess your path. You may have taken a wrong turn, but now's the time to rectify that.

Aquarius JAN 21 – FEB 19

Now that the Moon's in your own sign, you can afford to be more forthright about how you feel. As a general astro rule, you're not one to open up on a regular basis. This week, however, don't hold back. Your admissions could make a difference as to how plans progress in the future.

Taurus APRIL 21 – MAY 21

While you may be keen to initiate a major life change, try not to do it all in one go. Yes, you're stuck in a rut. Yes, it's completely understandable that you want to turn things around. Nevertheless, you'll probably make more progress by implementing your plan in numerous phases.

Virgo AUG 24 – SEPT 23

Your love planet Neptune makes light work of romantic affairs in the coming days. So there's no way you'll come across as too intense for a partner or suitor. In fact, admirers might accuse you of being too frivolous! Oh well, at least you'll be having some fun for a change.

Sagittarius NOV 23 – DEC 21

Since Jupiter's still retrograde, you should try to be more amenable to the wants or needs of loved ones. While this stargazer isn't asking you to act like a doormat, it might help to dial down your demanding side and show that you're capable of compromise.

Pisces FEB 20 – MAR 20

Solar activity highlights some hugely positive moments this week. Getting dizzy with excitement is perfectly normal. Just be sure to include less fortunate friends when celebrating. They don't have much to be cheerful about... except for the fact you've chosen to invite them along.

Gemini MAY 22 – JUNE 21

It's a well-known astro fact that Gem girls live in their own heads a lot of the time. This week, however, the planets want you to make an effort to get inside the heads of others. Ask the right questions, then listen to the answers. You'll be amazed how much more you can learn about life.

Sel's SAME OLD MOVIE

She's been releasing new music and producing 13 Reasons Why, but busy bee Selena Gomez made time to bring back her character Mavis in the latest instalment of cute-as-a-button freak franchise Hotel Transylvania 3, which sees our fave monster fam head off on a luxury cruise. And Sel says it was a blast reuniting with her co-stars after a six-year hiatus. "I think it's fun," she gushes. "I feel comfortable with everyone. It feels like we're getting back with old friends and doing it." But Sel reckons both she and "sarcastic" Mavis – who she admits she is "very similar" to – have come a long way since the first flick. "My voice changed. I was probably 17 or 18 when I did the first one," she says. "The just voice got lower and lower. I can't go that high anymore." Sel also got a kick out of entertaining kids again. "It's just something I really, really miss," explains the former Disney star. "There's nothing better than making a kid smile."

'Cause if you haven't already, you're totes missing out

The gritty drama series about the drug game and nightclub biz in glamorous Manhattan is back for a fifth season, so if you're not already a Power pledge, it's time to get clued in on the new bad boys everyone's talking about.

Omari Hardwick (who belongs to Jay-Z and Beyonce's inner circle, FYI) stars as James "Ghost" St Patrick - a drug kingpin attempting to start a new life as a respected member of NYC's elite.

Joseph Sikora shadows as James's brother in arms Tommy Egan and then there's rapper-turned-actor 50 Cent aka Curtis Jackson who played the boys' mentor Kanan Starks.

But it's not just the lads who have NW, er, power hungry, there's also a damn good storyline that has fans around the globe calling it "the best show in the world". Here's why...

IT'S REAL

Not only is the series produced by rapper 50 Cent, it's also loosely based on the former drug dealer's real-life experience of going from the gutter to the Grammys!

Whaaat?!

"I was driven to tell this story based on my own personal experiences," says Fiddy, whose character lands behind bars.

"It's an outline of what a lot of people are trying to accomplish. It's showing a person at the point where he has made it to the top, and is struggling between creating a new direction and staying with that type of lifestyle."

IT'S KILLING IT IN THE RATINGS

The show - which has already been picked up for a sixth season by the way - has been going great guns in the States, coming second only to juggernaut Game Of Thrones in the ratings.

"Our audience is extremely passionate," says Fiddy. "They'll stop, tweet, post a picture to say, 'Don't call my phone, don't text me, nothing, I'm watching my show. Don't come over here.'"

So be prepared to say goodbye to your social life!

50 Cent says the action will stop after Season Seven

Ghost's wife Tasha (Naturi Naughton) helps run the family 'business'

How's a girl to choose between Joseph, Omari and 50 Cent? #obsessed

FIDDY IN THE FLESH!

50 Cent says he was blindsided when his manhood flashed up on-screen in Season Three. But no one was more shocked than his relatives. "My aunt sees the show, and she's like, 'I'm traumatised!'" laughs the actor of the scene. "She texted me like, 'What the fk? Why didn't you tell me?'"

But we've told you, so now you can fast-forward straight to Season Three if you're not up to date.

You're welcome!

Power Season Five drops Sunday July 1 on Stan

SICARIO 2: SOLDADO

Following the 2015 crime thriller starring Emily Blunt comes the second instalment in the Sicario saga. The drug war has worsened with the cartels bringing terrorists across the US border. The only solution agents Matt Graver (Josh Brolin) and Alejandro (Benicio del Toro) can see is to start a war with everyone.

YAAASS QUEENS THE BIG RU-VEAL

You better werk, final four queens - because Mamma Ru isn't handing out the crown to just anyone! This week RuPaul will crown one of her finalists - Eureka, Aquaria, Asia O'Hara and Kameron Michaels - Season 10's Next Drag Superstar. Squeals!

And if Season Six star and Australian Idol alum Courtney Act has anything to do with it, that dazzling tiara will be planted firmly on Aquaria's heavily teased blonde wig.

"I know and love Aquaria!" Court tells NW exclusively. "We've done lots of shows together - she's so creative and talented."

GLOW RETURNS

THE GOOD FIGHT

CHERRY (Sydelle Noel)

JENNY (Ellen Wong)

MELROSE (Jackie Tohn)

RUTH

JUSTINE

RHONDA (Kate Nash)

TAMME (Kia Stevens)

Let's get ready to rumble, because Netflix's big hit of 2017 is back for round two! Let's Glow, girls!

What's not to love about a bunch of struggling misfits trying to navigate the world of women's wrestling in the '80s? The make-up is glam, the outfits are flash and the music is, like, so totally bitchin'! When we left the GLOW (which stands for Gorgeous Ladies of Wrestling, FYI) gals last season, the troupe had just taped the pilot for their wrestling TV show, Justine (Britt Baron) had finally told director Sam (Marc Maron) that she's his daughter, Debbie (Betty Gilpin) decided she was willing to work on her struggling marriage to Mark (Rich Sommer) and fans were given a sliver of hope that former besties Debbie and Ruth Wilder (Alison Brie – yes, that is Dave Franco’s wifey) may be open to mending their broken friendship.

Now, NW’s giving you the, er, GLOW-down on Season Two, which, after the success of Season One, comes with massive expectations!

“We pick up a couple weeks after Season One ended, and they’ve been picked up to series, and now it’s about them making the show and strangely about females finding their voices as creators and creatives behind the scenes,” says Betty. Oh, and it’s also about carnage in the ring!

HAZARDS OF THE JOB

While the cast took wrestling lessons for Season One, Betty says preparing for Season Two was even more intense as the actresses were required to attend a gruelling month-long wrestling boot camp.

But not even that intensity of training was enough to prevent injury! Yep, Betty, 31, was still suffering from a concussion that she sustained while filming when she attended the SAG Awards in January – where the show was up for best ensemble cast, FYI!

“I just had a wrestling match with a character that won’t be named, and a week later I still feel like my soul was in a five-car pileup accident,” she explains. “I love it – [but] I mean, it does feel like 6000 car accidents in an hour [and] I feel 60 to 70 years older than when I started GLOW... All of my bones make sounds now, and I might die five years earlier than if I never got this job.”

And this season, things really get rough, with on-set spies revealing one of the wrestlers even gets injured in the ring!

NEW FACES

Joining the circus is Faking It’s Shakira Barrera, who plays Yolanda aka Yo-Yo – a Mexican American dancer/stripper and “out-and-proud lesbian”. Could this be why sources say one character “has a sexual epiphany” this season?

There are also two new babies to take turns playing Debbie’s son Randy. “We have two new twins this year, Kyler and Kaleb,” says Betty. “They’re amazing. They’re nuanced and bringing a fresh new energy to things we do.”

BFFS AT WAR

The old cast are still bringing the dramz. And the feud between Debbie and Ruth – who had an affair with Debbie’s hubby (OMG!) – is still alive and well.

“I am so in love with Betty Gilpin as a person, so it’s comical and also sort of devastating that our characters are so at odds on the show,” says Alison. “But how would you come back from something like that? Does Ruth deserve happiness? Can she have happiness while Debbie is still in her life? Can Debbie move on? I’m not sure what is fair or right. I know that the characters have a deep love for one another, so I’m hoping that they’ll get through it, but certainly it’s still a challenge that they’re facing in Season Two.”

And Alison, 35, says fans might still be waiting a while for the former pals to bury the hatchet.

“It’s two steps forward and one mile back,” she says of the feud. “Betty and I talk all the time that being on [the wrestling show] is important to Ruth and Debbie because they want to stay in each other’s life. That adds magic and depth – even in our darkest places, we’re always playing that we love each other so much.”

DADDY ISSUES

“Season Two is about Sam and Justine figuring out how to make

‘You just feel like a superhero when you wrestle,’ reveals Betty

‘Debbie is always on the verge of screaming naked in the street,’ Betty says of her fiery character this father-daughter [dynamic] work,” Britt says, adding to the drama of the season. “She had her guard up [before] because she’s carrying this secret the entire time, so now it’s exciting to see her soften up and be a kid. She’s only 16.”

Britt also hints that Justine’s mother may make an appearance this season too. “Maybe! We’ll see,” she teases.

LOVE IS IN THE AIR

Fans are also dying to know whether director Sam and wrestler Ruth will test out the crackling sexual tension between them.

“I believe Marc and I have real chemistry [in real life], and the writers are super attuned to all the actors on the show and write to their strengths,” says Alison. “But really, Ruth and Debbie is the will-they-or-won’t-they of the show.”

And will they? We’ll have to wait to find out...

NW is always first to reveal the latest hook-ups in Hollywood and we did just that with Cameron Diaz and Justin Timberlake's red-hot romance. Elsewhere, we highlighted botched celeb surgeries and slipped between the sheets with Big Brother hottie Saxon. Ah, memories!
