DEAREST SNICKERS CUSTOMER,

We recently ran the below ad to tell you about new Espresso Snickers. Admittedly, we were hungry when we created it, and only after we tried the new flavor ourselves did we realize how irritable we were. We would like to apologize to anyone we may have offended. Like Sarah Wetsig of Syracuse, NY, who sent us a letter telling us as much. Our customers are everything to us, and we would never intentionally say anything to offend them. Especially you, Sarah. So we hope you can see past our momentary outburst and try our new flavors: Salty & Sweet, Fiery and Espresso.

CLAIRE & HUGH

A Fairy-Tale Memory

➔ Claire Danes can pinpoint the moment she realized actor Hugh Dancy, 42, was her soul mate. In the early months of their relationship, the couple were in Rhode Island "bicycling by the water and it was sparkly and idyllic," recalls the pregnant actress, due this summer. "I just had this dumb epiphany, like, I'm really just happy." That's been a near constant throughout their nine-year marriage. Adds Danes, 39, "Hugh was just the right partner for me. I got very, very lucky."

JOHN & KELLY

An Instant Connection

➔ After laying eyes on now-husband John Travolta, Kelly Preston was hit with a case of butterflies. At a screen test for the 1989 thriller The Experts, "I remember this really hot guy coming from across the hall with his two dogs," the actress (in Miami June 8) tells Us. "He stopped and said hello. I was like, 'Oh my God!'" Nearly 30 years later, she's still in awe of the actor, 64. Gushes the 55-year-old, "He's even more handsome now!"

GAGA & CHRISTIAN

No Race to the Altar

➔ Lady Gaga, 32, and her talent agent fiancé, Christian Carino, 50, aren't shy. At Jalapeño Pete's in L.A. for dinner with pals June 9, "they were making out and couldn't keep their hands off each other," a source says of the duo (in NYC Jan. 28). "They're comfortable with affection." The same can be said of their status. Engaged since last summer, "they haven't set a wedding date," adds a second source. "They're in no rush."

Red Carpet Debut!

After two months of dating, Olympic figure skater Adam Rippon, 28, and Finnish real estate broker Jussi-Pekka Kajaala, 31, stepped out together June 11 at NYC's Trevor Project gala. As Rippon gushes to Us, "I'm really happy with JP."

Hot Hollywood

● JULY 2, 2018

Weeks after her wedding, Duchess Meghan, 36, still can't shake her family drama. During a June 18 appearance on Good Morning Britain, Meghan's father, Thomas Markle Sr., opened up about missing his daughter's May 19 nuptials to Prince Harry, 33, due to heart surgery. "They were disappointed," the retired TV lighting director, 73, recalled, before adding his daughter "cried" when he said he couldn't make it. Markle also admitted "it was a serious mistake" to stage paparazzi photos of himself prior to the event.

DUCHESS MEGHAN

DRAMA UNFOLDS The apology is hardly music to Meghan's ears — since her dad blindsided her with the sit-down. "The proper thing to do would have been to let Meghan and Kensington Palace know he was giving an interview," a palace source tells Us. "He already did damage before the wedding." Now, adds the source, it's uncertain if Markle (inset, May 10) will be granted access to his son-in-law: "This will definitely have an effect on whether Harry meets Thomas or not now."

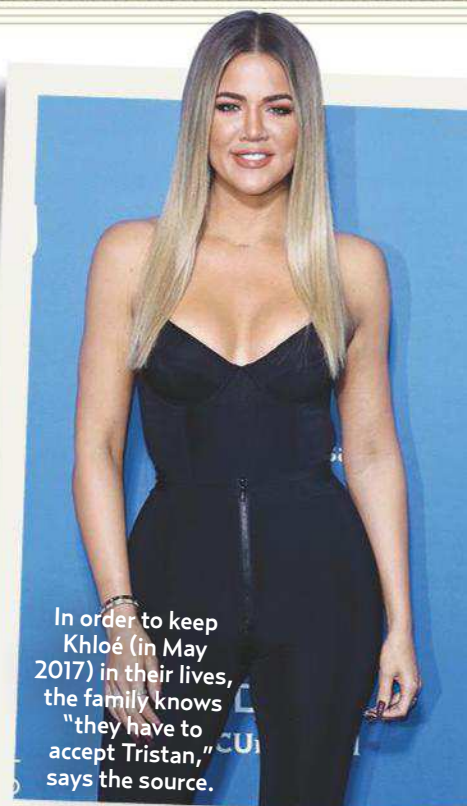

The Duke and Duchess of Sussex attended the wedding of Princess Diana's niece in Lincolnshire, England, on June 16.

REAL FEUDS OF NY!

➔ Once besties, now enemies. The drama between The Real Housewives of New York City's Bethenny Frankel, 47, and Carole Radziwill, 54, is heating up. Though Radziwill recently wrote on a blog post that they'd made "peace," a source tells Us the ladies are still at war. "They are definitely going to be laying it all out on the table at the reunion," the insider says. "It's not something they're looking forward to, but they'll both be ready and it should be ugly." And though there may have been a brief ceasefire, there's no chance of rekindling their friendship. "The trust is gone between them," the source says. "They could coexist again, but not in the way they used to."

In order to keep Khloé (in May 2017) in their lives, the family knows "they have to accept Tristan," says the source.

KHLOÉ KARDASHIAN

Back to Reality

➔ Khloé Kardashian, 34, and Tristan Thompson have finally returned to L.A. two months after welcoming their daughter, True, in Cleveland. The Kardashian-Jenner clan shared multiple Snapchats of her June 17 welcome-back party, and a source tells Us that's hardly the whole picture. "They're so happy to have her home," the pal says. They're more cautious, however, of her basketball player beau, 27 — who infamously cheated on her while she was pregnant. Still, adds the source, "they'll support Khloé in whatever she chooses."

REAL MOM TALK

Baccarin opens up to Us about life with two kids

You can't be a mom and not have a glass of wine," Morena Baccarin jokes to Us. The 39-year-old star of Gotham — who's mom to Julius, 4 (with ex Austin Chick, 46), and Frances, 2 (with husband Ben McKenzie, 39) — notes the chaos increases when each of your children is in the toddler phase. "One kid is like, OK, life has changed. All your attention goes to one kid," she says. "With two, you're just trying to survive. If you get through the day and no one has died, everything is good."

"It's just very humbling," Baccarin (in NYC, June 12) says of parenting.

→ PETE AND ARIANA

She's so into him! Just two weeks after they made their romance Instagram official on May 30, Us broke the news that Pete Davidson, 24, and Ariana Grande, 25, were engaged. Says a pal, "They are very in love."

That Was Fast!

Some stars skip the relationship and go straight for the ring

→ JOE AND SOFÍA

Joe Manganiello, 41, instantly knew Sofia Vergara, 45, was The One — and proposed after six months in 2014. A source at the time told Us the happy couple (who wed in November 2015) already felt "married."

→ MEGAN AND BRIAN

It took only days for Brian Austin Green, 44, to pop the question to his ex-fiancée, Megan Fox, 32, when they reunited in June 2010. The couple, who now share three children, said "I do" in Hawaii 23 days afterward.

→ GEORGE AND AMAL

When Amal (née Alamuddin), 40, caught George Clooney's eye in 2013, the actor, 57, couldn't resist. Six months later they were engaged, then they wed in September 2014. A source told Us he had "found his ideal match."

→ CAREY AND MARCUS

Carey Mulligan, 33, and Marcus Mumford were childhood pen pals. After they talked again in 2011, the musician, 31, waited just five months before getting down on one knee. Now parents of two, they tied the knot the next year.

Eminem dedicated the song "Castle" on 2017's Revival to Hailie (inset).

HIS BIGGEST FAN

She's a daddy's girl! While headlining NYC's Governor's Ball in June, Eminem had a special guest in attendance: daughter Hailie Scott Mathers, 22. "She knew every word to his songs," the on-looker tells Us. "You could see how proud she was of him. It was cute." And 16 years after releasing "Hailie's Song" for his only child, with ex Kimberly Ann Scott, the 45-year-old rapper is still a doting dad. "They are superclose, it's sweet," a source says of Eminem and the recent Michigan State University graduate. "He's an excellent father."

HEATHER LOCKLEAR

Downward Spiral

➤ Troubling times for Heather Locklear. After a family member called 911 on June 17 claiming Locklear was "acting erratically and threatening to hurt herself," says a source, the Melrose Place alum, 56, was hospitalized in Thousand Oaks, California. "The patient required transport to a local hospital for evaluation and treatment," a spokesperson for the Ventura County Sheriff's Office tells Us. The news comes nearly four months after her domestic violence arrest.

According to TMZ, Locklear (in Beverly Hills, August 2016) was looking for a gun.

MEET OUR TWINS!

Life has been twice as nice for Meghan King Edmonds since welcoming twin sons Hart and Hayes June 5. "I tried to prepare myself as best as I could," the Real Housewives of Orange County alum tells Us. With the help of her loving husband, Jim Edmonds, 48, things have been a walk in the park. "He's just so hands-on," she gushes of the retired baseball pro. "He wakes up every morning with all of our babies, and he just does it on his own." A bonus: their daughter, Aspen, 19 months, has been offering an extra hand. "She loves helping them," the 33-year-old adds. "She gets the bottle and tries to feed them. And we let her!" And though life with three children may seem chaotic, it's falling into place so far. "It just feels like a very natural transition," says the star, who's been dropping her baby weight with the Belly Bandit Belly Wrap. "Mentally and emotionally, I feel really good and really lucky. They're really good babies."

Pitt (in L.A. in April) feels Jolie has been "deliberately provoking him," says an insider close to the actor.

Almost two years after his shocking split from Angelina Jolie, Brad Pitt makes a drastic play for custody of his six children

FIGHTING FOR

Jolie posed with Vivienne, Shiloh, Knox and Zahara in Toronto last September.

It was all he wanted. On June 17, Brad Pitt celebrated Father's Day in London. And though the visit was possible due only to a new, hard-fought temporary custody agreement with ex Angelina Jolie that allows him to spend more time with Maddox, 16, Pax, 14, Zahara, 13, Shiloh, 12, and twins Knox and Vivienne, 9, Pitt was pleased. "Brad hates being away from his kids," says an insider close to the actor, who spent last Father's Day alone after Jolie and the kids jetted to Ethiopia. "Brad loves his children more than anything and wants to spend as much time with them as he can."

That goal has proved easier said than achieved. Nearly two years after his shocking split from Jolie, the Fury star is still fighting for custody of his children. "This has been a long-standing back-and-forth between them," a second source tells Us of the exes, whose custody war exploded when leaked court documents showed that Jolie, 43, had been keeping the kids from Pitt, 54. "Brad is very angry with Angelina for being so controlling of him through their children since their split," adds a confidant. And now, "Brad will do anything to see his kids and have them in his life."

A judge has taken that view, too. The court documents, obtained by Us on June 12, state that "it is critical each of [the Jolie-Pitt children] have a healthy and strong relationship with their father and mother" — and that not having a relationship with their father is "harmful" to the kids. The papers also contain a shocking sentiment: If Jolie doesn't allow the children to build relationships with Pitt, she could lose full custody of them. "Brad has taken the high road through all of this, he could have gone to court much sooner to ask the judge to intervene," says the

HIS KIDS

Pitt insider. “Angie finally forced his hand when she threatened to withhold the kids from him this summer.” In fact, that was the final straw for Pitt, who had arranged his schedule specifically to be in L.A. so he could be near his children. “He was done being Mr. Nice Guy and rolled the dice,” continues the insider. “The judge could have sided with Angie, but that didn’t happen. The judge made a thoughtful and informed decision that the children were in no danger while with Brad.”

▶ A NEW SET OF RULES

According to the documents, the kids will have cell phones where Pitt “may text them at those numbers” — without Jolie monitoring the conversation. “Brad felt the kids were being coached by Angie on what to say,” explains the insider. “The conversations were strained, and Brad became aware that Angie was physically standing in the room. He felt this was interfering in his relationship with the kids.”

The documents also set forth a detailed visitation schedule: From June 8 through June 17, Pitt was permitted to host one or two of his children at a time in London (where they’re living with Jolie while she films Maleficent 2) for four hours each day, with a therapist present.

Then, from June 27 through July 1, Pitt may see his children for 10 hours a day under the same rules. From July 8 through July 14, he’ll spend four consecutive days with the kids while a therapist is present. The therapist will talk with the kids before and after each two-day period. “Brad hates that his visits with the kids are all being monitored, but felt in the end, [agreeing to that] would only show the judge he is a responsible father,” says the insider. “He is hoping in the future, this will help him to become much more involved in the kids’ lives.”

From July 21 through July 29 — after Pitt returns home to California — he will have custody of the kids.

Jolie will be responsible for the kids’ travel from London to L.A., and Pitt will be responsible for their return to London. When the children are with Pitt, Jolie — who, notes the insider, has even kept the kids from their grandparents during the divorce proceedings — is allowed to call them just once a day at a time predetermined by both parties. (Maddox, who turns 17 in August, is not included in the agreement as he’s old enough to decide if he wants to spend time with his father.) Despite the former couple’s hostility, those close to them are confident they will follow the arrangement. “The kids have always been a priority for both parents,” says the second source, noting that when it comes to Pitt, he will happily “be wherever he needs to be for them.”

While Jolie will, too, it doesn’t mean she’s happy that the custody details were made public. “This misleading leak is not in the best interests of the children. From the start, Angelina has been focused only on their health and needs, which is why it was so important that this last court hearing be conducted privately,” a spokesperson for the Oscar winner told Us on June 13. “It’s deplorable that someone, for their own selfish reasons, leaked selective portions of the confidential and sealed court record to create an inaccurate and unfair picture of what is really happening.”

▶ CAUGHT IN THE MIDDLE

The former couple have been at odds since Jolie’s September 2016 divorce filing, which saw Pitt wrapped in a Child Services investigation. “Brad and Angelina don’t see or talk to each other at all. They are not on good terms and are less than civil,” says a family insider, adding that Brad is “furious about all of the dirty things Angelina has done — and

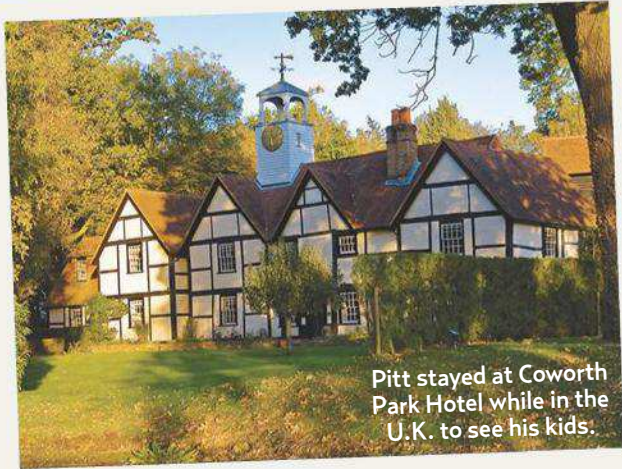

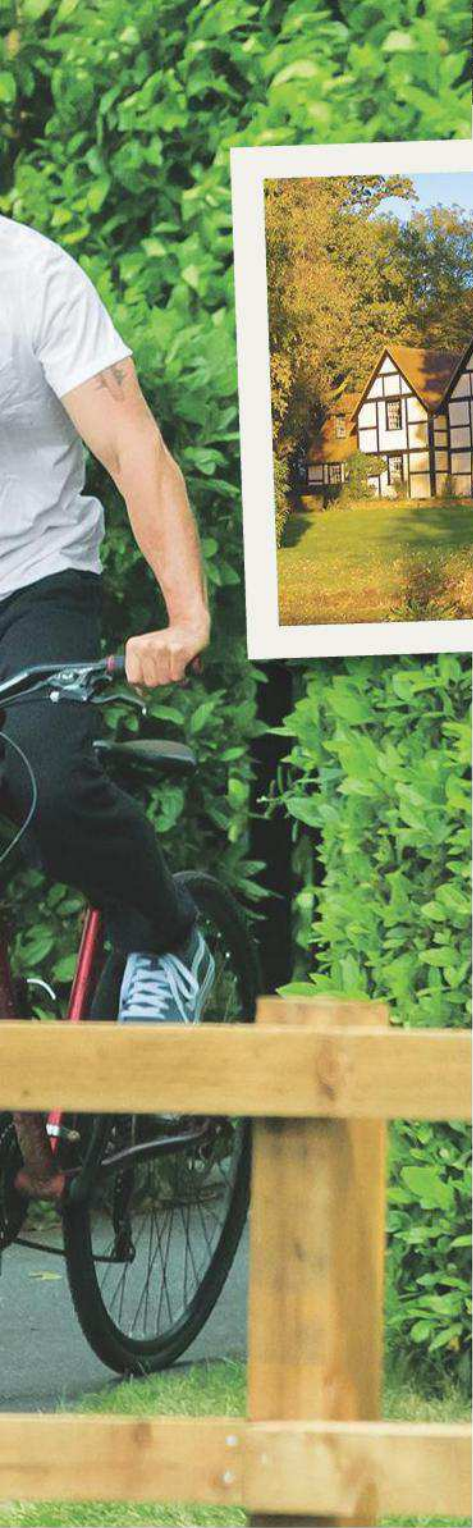

“ANGELINA DEFINITELY HAS NOT HELPED FOSTER A HEALTHY RELATIONSHIP FOR THE KIDS AND BRAD.”

—A FAMILY INSIDER

“He looked a bit stressed,” a source says of Pitt (in London June 13).

for keeping the kids from him.” But Jolie argues that she’s just protecting the children from Pitt, who confessed to GQ in May 2017 that at one time his “boozing” was so out of hand he “could drink a Russian under the table with his own vodka.” Though Pitt has been sober for more than a year, Jolie “still believes that he is not fit to be a parent,” explains the confidant says of their home-schooled brood. “Angelina [was] using them to keep Brad from taking projects and living his own life. It really started to eat at him.”

Pitt stayed at Coworth Park Hotel while in the U.K. to see his kids.

Prior to their current agreement, Jolie had agreed to allow the younger kids to be with Brad in L.A. while she finished shooting Maleficent 2 in London. Pitt rearranged his work schedule and chose to work on Quentin Tarantino’s Once Upon a Time in Hollywood, a project that is being filmed in L.A. “They were supposed to spend two weeks with Angie the family insider, adding that she knows the details of the custody agreement appear less than flattering to her. Also adding to her rage: her ex’s refusal to sign off on her plan to include Shiloh and Knox in Maleficent 2, says the Pitt insider.

As always, it’s the children who are stuck in the middle. “The kids are being used as pawns,” then come back to L.A. to be with Brad. That, of course, changed once they all arrived in England,” says the Pitt insider, leading to the new court orders. “There has been a lot of ugliness between Brad and Angie during the divorce proceedings,” adds the insider, “and Brad thinks she has used the kids at any opportunity to get back at him.”

▶ A BRIGHT FUTURE?

The custody agreement is only temporary. But when they head back to court on August 13, something more permanent could be set in place. “The hearing will focus on how the summer visitation schedule went, and any issues that arose during that time,” says the Pitt insider, adding that, at the hearing, the judge will get an update about the custody evaluation report that is still being worked on. At that point, their divorce may be closer to being finalized, too. “The divorce is held up by the custody details,” notes the family insider. “They aren’t even close to working things out.”

But Pitt doesn’t care how long it takes — as long as he has his kids in his life. Adds the Pitt insider, “He is moving on with his life and is in a really good place right now.” US

THE TRUTH ABOUT THOSE RUMORS

» Ever since she announced her divorce from husband Justin Theroux, 46, in February, actress Jennifer Aniston, 49, has been plagued by rumors that she and Pitt — the couple split in 2005 after five years of marriage — are giving their romance another shot. Even crazier, multiple tabloid reports are promoting every fan’s dream by claiming they’re expecting a baby together. But a rep for the Friends alum tells Us that couldn’t be further from the truth: “All of those stories about Brad and Jen are completely fabricated.” Case closed!

A rep for Aniston (June 7) says she is not back together with Pitt.

In her crusade to take down the controversial religion, Remini ignites a feud with devoted member Alley

Leah Remini is on a rescue mission. In her Emmy Award-winning A&E docuseries, Leah Remini: Scientology and the Aftermath, the actress turned investigative reporter pairs up with the church's former Australian senior executive Mike Rinder to expose the controversial organization's secrets. "We've heard from people who were inside Scientology who told me, 'I watched your show. I went on the internet. I decided to leave. I am fighting for my children after watching your show,'" Remini, who famously exited the church in 2013 after nearly 34 years, revealed last summer. "We get tons of those. And it's those moments that you go, 'OK — we're doing something.'"

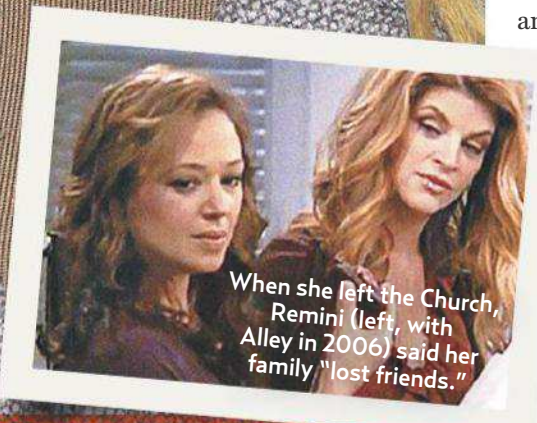

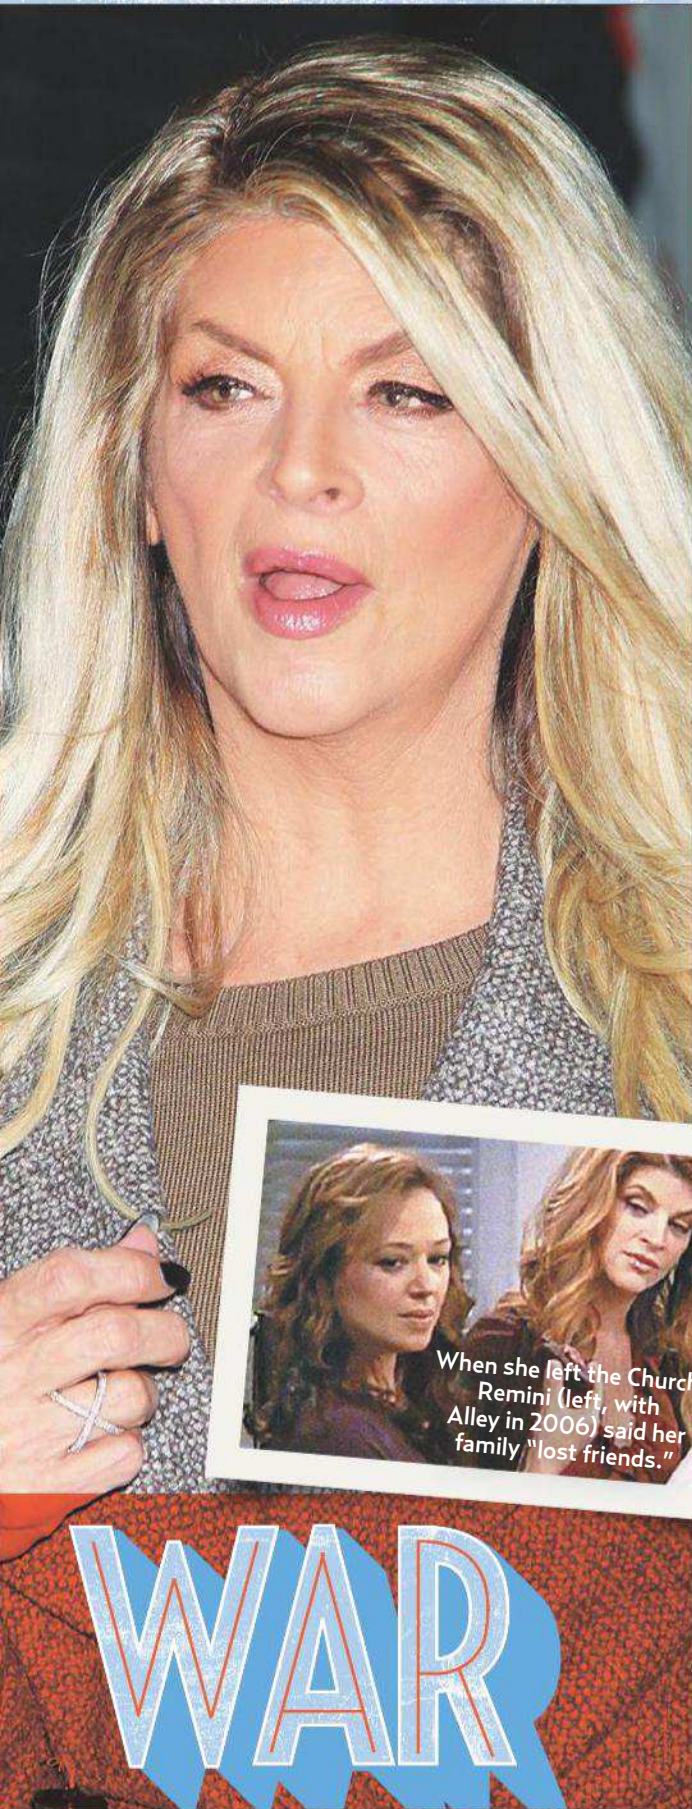

There are other people, however, she just cannot reach. Including devout member Kirstie Alley, who cut ties with former pal Remini after the latter began bad-mouthing the church in 2013. "When you decide to blanket-statement 'Scientology is evil,' you are my enemy," Alley told Howard Stern that year, noting she blocked Remini, 48, on Twitter. Though Alley, 67, said their bad blood was "water under the bridge," by 2015, the feud was reignited when Alley retweeted a post accusing Rinder of assaulting his former wife. Firing back June 9, Remini wrote, "You're spreading false/defamatory info at the demand of your cult." (In a statement to Us, a church spokesperson says that "Remini continues to attack religion for her own personal gain... This just shows Remini's hypocrisy knows no ends.") Indeed, Tony Ortega, the blogger behind The Underground Bunker, tells Us that Alley, a Scientologist since the 1970s, would theoretically answer to church leader David Miscavige. Says Ortega, "Celebrities won't make a move without him telling them. And he is furious with Leah."

THE COST OF RELIGION

While Remini has distanced herself from the church, Alley has become fully immersed. This year, the Scream Queens alum reached the highest level, Operating Thetan Eight, or OT VIII. This achievement allegedly makes her "superhuman," says Ortega. "OT VIIs are supposed to set energy and time with the power of the mind." And money. Ortega estimates high-powered members such as Alley have given up to $2 million toward donations and counseling.

The religion, which Ortega claims is rooted in narcissism, appeals to stars because of that. "It's all about you," he says. "It's an incredible way to get them to buy in."

FIGHTING ON

For Remini, her crusade has come at a cost, per Ortega: "Scientology private investigators have targeted her," he claims, something the church denies. But their actions only fuel her drive. With her docuseries picked up for a third season, she is prepared to reveal more dark truths. As Ortega tells Us, "This is Leah Remini we're talking about. Nothing is going to stop her." US

FIRST WEEKS HOME

With Baby Miles

The second time around, Chrissy Teigen and John Legend are focusing on soaking up all the joy with Luna and Miles

His son isn't yet 2 months old, but John Legend is already making plans to play baseball with little Miles Theodore. The singer's only concern? His own potentially subpar fielding skills. As Legend — who welcomed Miles, his second child with wife Chrissy Teigen, on May 16 — joked to Us June 11 before performing at the Los Angeles Dodgers Foundation Blue Diamond Gala, “Hopefully, I won't let him down.”

It's hard to believe Legend, 39, or Teigen, 32, could ever be a letdown. The pair — who also share daughter Luna, 2 — are among the most beloved couples in Hollywood. And Teigen, who's known for her social media wit, isn't disappointing anyone with the motherhood comments. As she wrote to Miles on Instagram June 7, which was his original due date: “You heard how cool we are since that's all we talk about (how cool we are) and you wanted to see what all the fuss was about, 3 weeks early. Well we tricked u! We are boring AF but we love you!” While that may not be exactly true, at least one thing is: Having a second baby has brought the tight-knit crew of three even closer together. “We're so excited to have him in the family now,” Legend said just four days after the babe's birth. “Chrissy's excited, Luna's excited, I'm excited. It's nice to have a little family of four now.”

► MILES IN THE MIX

It didn't take long for the newly formed quartet to find their groove at home in California. “It's cool having two kids at the same time,” Legend tells Us. “It's very different... It isn't that he's a boy or Luna's a girl. I think it's the idea of having two at once, kind of splitting up.” That's leading to more one-on-one time with his little girl. “When Chrissy’s breastfeeding,” he says, “I’m out playing with Luna in the yard. It’s good to have two of us there to handle the two of them.”

“When you have a joint project like this — raising kids together — I think for us, it's brought us closer together,” Legend (with Teigen June 11) tells Us.

Teigen agrees. “I have never more understood the desire and need for short, simple meals,” the Cravings cookbook author tweeted May 26. “1 kid, and I was like ‘OK... easier would be nice but I got this’ but 2 kids, holy s—t f—k any recipe over 5 steps right now.” She already knew she scored big with Legend’s caretaking skills while she was carrying their children. As she told Us earlier this year, “I have a husband who truly loves the whole pregnancy experience. He holds my belly at night, sings to it, wants to be there for me. I’m really lucky.”

She’s going to need backup now more than ever since big sister Luna has officially entered “terrible twos” territory. “It’s not actually terrible, it’s just so incredibly different,” Teigen tells Us. “But it’s also really fun and amazing. She says things every day and we look at each other like, ‘Where did that come from?’”

The parents look forward to comparing the tots when they can. For now, “he’s so tiny,” Legend says of Miles, born at 4 pounds, 8 ounces. “If

▶ FAMILY PLAN

Time together is something they cherish. “Having kids... has made us more of a team,” the Grammy winner tells Us, adding, “We’ll probably have more.” Teigen is on board! “I think I do want to have another baby after this and then get hot,” she jokes to Us.

But for now, the Lip Sync Battle host is relishing every moment she has with her first two. “Motherhood has so many emotions,” Teigen wrote last month. “My heart is now outside of my body, walking around in a little llama diaper, growing so fast. And I wouldn’t have it any other way!” US

Becca
Kufrin

➔ From experience, The Bachelorette's Becca Kufrin knows summer bodies are made in the winter. With below-freezing temperatures in her Minnesota hometown, "there's just not a ton to do," the season 14 lead tells Us. "That's when I like to get into the gym." Though the 5-foot-7 publicist didn't feel pressure to shape up before filming, she did hire trainer Chris Ketting to switch up her routine of hot yoga and barre classes. "He got me into lifting because I had no idea what I was doing," Kufrin, 28, says. "I learned the proper technique before the show." Not that she could put it to use. Between dates and rose ceremonies, "if I found 20 minutes," she jokes, "I'd nap." But now, as her journey is coming to an end, the engaged star is ready to get her groove back. Adds Kufrin, "I already texted my trainer, saying, 'We need to get it right, get it tight!'"

JoJo Fletcher

→ The 5-foot-4 beauty found her swoon-mate in fiancé Jordan Rodgers. "I go boxing with him and he comes to Pilates with me," she tells Us. "He encourages me — and it's fun to do together." It's also upped her confidence. Adds the 27-year-old, "My body feels better and my mind is clearer."

Rachel Lindsay

→ "I'm self-conscious in a swimsuit," confesses the lawyer, 33. To wash away insecurities, Lindsay, who's engaged to Bryan Abasolo, gives herself a pep talk. "I ask, 'Why do I feel this way?'" she says. "Then I'll meditate." Yoga boosts her ego too. As she tells Us, "I feel like I can conquer the world!"

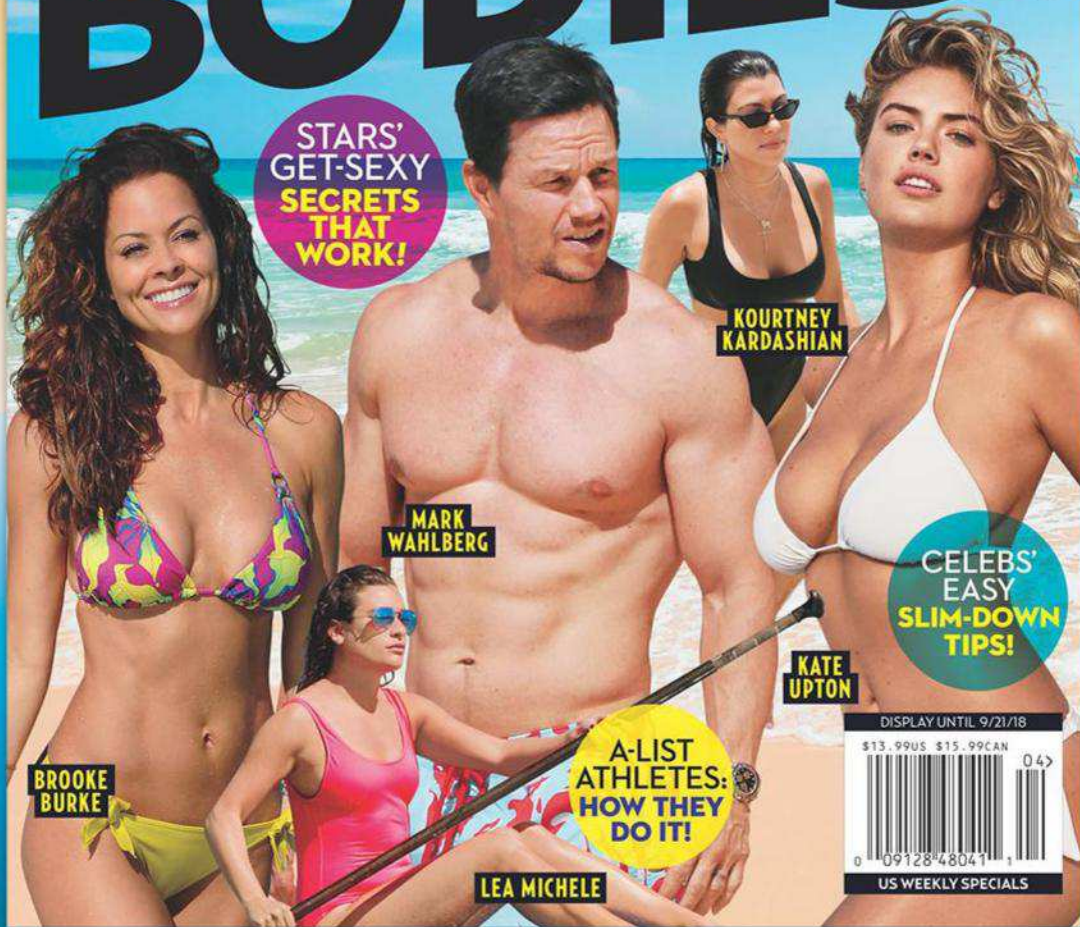

Kaitlyn Bristowe

→ She's kicking butt for, er, a bigger butt. "I've always wanted a booty," says the 32-year-old, who favors squats, boxing and resistance bands. "Now I'm proud of it!" Bristowe — fiancé Shawn Booth is a trainer — is just as happy with her diet. Always on the go, "I pack veggies," she says. "But if I want a burger, I totally do it."

Jeff Goldblum (right, with Howard and Pratt) reprises his role as the overconfident Dr. Ian Malcolm.

Saving the Species

Psh, what extinction? Bryce Dallas Howard sinks her teeth into another Jurassic journey

Bryce Dallas Howard was embarking on an adventure 600 million years in the making. Fine, three — but the emotions were just as raw. Pulling up to the oceanside rental in Hawaii where she bunked for Jurassic World: Fallen Kingdom, “I started bawling,” the actress, 37, tells Us. “The first film was such an extraordinary experience, something you don’t think is going to happen again, and then it does.” Those tears were strictly saved for off screen, though. In the sequel, her unapologetic Claire once again teams up with Chris Pratt’s Owen to save the dinos. The mom of Theo, 11, and Beatrice, 6 (with husband Seth Gabel) takes Us on a wild ride.

Q: How has Claire changed since we last saw her?

She realizes she was on the wrong side of history. I love that she can make mistakes, admit to them and then pivot. Now she wants the dinosaurs to have the same rights as any other endangered species. She’ll do whatever it takes, which means finding Owen.

Q: What’s their relationship status these days?

They both were really like, “We’re breaking up!” But when this brings them back together, it’s like, “Wait, should we be broken up?” Things are still unresolved.

Q: Are you and Chris Pratt as complicated off screen?

He’s like a pro spirit-lifter! These movies capture the spirit of being in your backyard, acting as if you’re running from dinosaurs. Nothing is too serious.

Q: Last time, there was controversy surrounding Claire’s heels. Will her wardrobe get a revamp?

In the first, she was going to the office and then — surprise! — it was the jungle. Now she’s prepared. But I kept being, like, “I’d like some stilettos, please!”

Q: Are your kids impressed with this badass movie?

My daughter hasn’t seen it because she was a tyke when the first came out. My son is stoked, though. He plays it cool, but he has Jurassic World sheets in his room. That’s a giveaway!

Q: Did they visit you on set?

A ton. It felt like vacation. Every day, my son is like, “Alexa, what’s the temperature in Honolulu?”

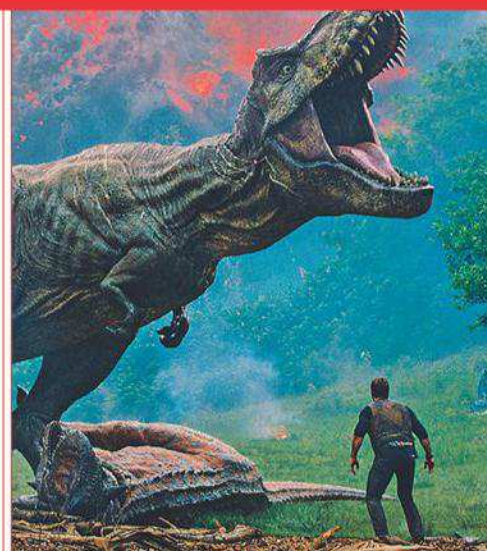

Q: How would you fare on an island with the species?

Honestly, really well because I would just hide! I would find a very small space underground and camp out. It takes a lot for me to get stir-crazy.

Q: This one is tricky: What’s your favorite dino?

I don’t want to offend any of the other dinosaurs, but it’s an apatosaurus. I love The Land Before Time. Growing up, my dog was named Littlefoot. That’s where the love began!

FRIDAY 6/22

Jurassic World: Fallen Kingdom

“Change is like death,” a character intones early on. “You don’t know what it looks like until you’re standing at the gates.” Except that in a Jurassic Park movie, we know exactly what we’re getting. The familiarity should thrill longtime fans — and frustrate anyone looking for a dynamic (dino-mic?) shake-up. Three years after the catastrophe at Jurassic World, experts Chris Pratt and Bryce Dallas Howard return to the island to rescue the remaining dinosaurs. But the snake in charge (Rafe Spall) wants to sell them off to the highest bidders. Shockingly, the creatures don’t respond well to being treated like caged animals. (Cue the dramatic roaring!) The ferocious prologue gives way to the usual pattern of lizards slurping up evil humans. And while the admirably assured Pratt and Howard take care of business, their sidekicks are chirpy annoyances. It’s never good when you’re rooting for the dinosaurs.

OPENS FRIDAY 6/22

The Catcher Was a Spy

Before Paul Rudd returns as Ant-Man, he takes on this crazy true story about a baseball player turned World War II intelligence operative. Here’s the catch: The perfunctory drama isn’t as intriguing as the wind-up. In 1944, the U.S. government asked Ivy League-educated, multilingual Boston Red Sox vet Moe Berg to assassinate the head of Germany’s atomic bomb program. Rudd isn’t entirely credible in the deadly serious role — and a lack of urgency doesn’t do him any favors. The film is a disappointment. MR

TELEVISION

SHOOTER IS BACK IN ACTION

After an off-set leg injury cut season 2 short, Ryan Phillippe returned to Shooter (USA, Thursdays, 10 P.M.) as Marine Bob Lee Swagger, jumping right back into stunt work. “It’s a horrific thing to go through, especially when you’re faced with the prospect of potentially losing part of your leg,” the 43-year-old tells Us of doing his own stunts. “I was nervous, but it’s one of the things that our audience seems to really respond to.” LOOSE ENDS As Bob Lee faces his backstory, he will reach “some pretty dark and devastating places” in season 3, which plays as a bookend to the first two. “The intention was that these three seasons would be a trilogy and could stand alone.”

Jesse's Love Hunt

Bachelor alum Palmer tells Us about hosting ABC's "fast and furious" new dating series

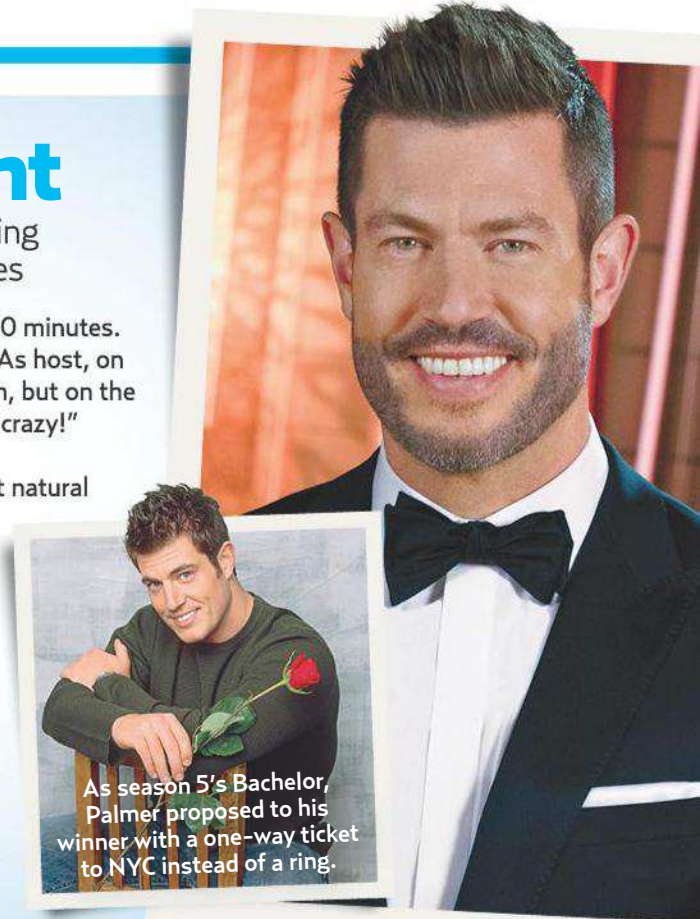

A group of singles competing for love and a Neil Lane sparkler. Sound familiar? That's because ABC's latest love show, The Proposal, "has a lot of The Bachelor's DNA," host Jesse Palmer, who starred on the latter in 2004, tells Us. "These are people looking for real connections. The Proposal is The Bachelor on steroids." After all, a new suitor will be on bended knee by the end of the episode each week (Mondays, 10 P.M.). Palmer, dating model Emely Fardo, shares more.

Q: In just an hour, how do people get to know each other?
The show is pageant style. There are questions asked so you can get to know somebody in 60 minutes. But it is a leap of faith. As host, on the outside I act all calm, but on the inside, I'm like, "This is crazy!"

Q: Plenty of drama?
Absolutely. There's that natural competitive spirit. The emotions on this show run the gamut.

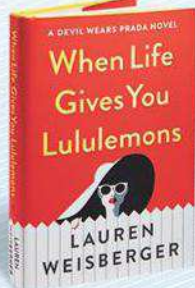

Q: Thinking of a proposal of your own?
Well, I already missed the boat: I failed to propose to her in 60 minutes. She's going to be watching this show wondering, "It's been 10 months, what are we waiting for?"

Stories To Kick Off Summer

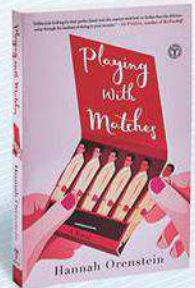

Us Against You
→ Welcome back to Beartown. Still reeling from rape accusations, the hockey-obsessed town finds hope when a new coach promises to rebuild the team. Fredrik Backman — Rita Wilson is a fan — deftly explores recovery and rebirth.

When Life Gives You Lululemons
→ The devil wears spandex now. Lauren Weisberger's latest follows Miranda Priestly's assistant turned crisis manager Emily as she heads to (eek!) suburbia. Her A-list client: a senator's wife trying to repair her image after a DUI.

Legendary
→ Yes, sisters Scarlett and Tella finished the Caraval games victorious. Now, in Stephanie Garber's mesmerizing sequel, Tella must pay her debts and find Legend's real identity. To do so, she reenters the competition — but if she fails, she'll lose everything.

Playing with Matches
→ Struggling post college, Sasha takes a job as a matchmaker. So what if she lacks expertise? But when she falls for a client, she's thrown into it's complicated limbo. Hannah Orenstein's debut is a hilarious look at dating — and swiping. JAMIE BLYNN
